NAVY experts tell congress that the government is spending $164,000 a year to keep in condition 41 submarines, out of commission, not ready to fight. Eighty of our submarines are ready for action; the 41 that cost $164,000 a year are kept ready, all but the crew.

REPORTS to the house naval committee show that Japan leads all nations in submarine construction. For us to catch up with Japan in submarines would cost $110,000,000. Fortunately Japan loves this country and wouldn't hurt us, so we need not worry.

We shall probably build some battleships and cruisers to provide targets for airplanes and submarines The other nations will build airplanes and the submarines. That's fair.

THE pope, addressing 1,000 representatives of the Federation of Catholic men, says the dress of modern women is "an outrage in every sense against human and Christian dignity," and asks fathers to "check their daughters' and wives' irreverence and corruption, as expressed in immodest clothing."

Fathers will find it difficult.

Mrs. Martha Trainer is in Critical Condition.

HOME DAMAGED

Fire Follows Explosion in St. John Street Dwelling.

Mrs. Martha Trainer, 78, is in a critical condition at her home 812 St. John street, as a result of burns received at 7:45 o'clock last evening when her dress ignited following a gas explosion in the bath room of the house. She was burned about the sides, back and shoulders and is also suffering from nervous shock.

Scenting gas fumes, she began an investigation. When she opened the bath room door, the accumulated gas, igniting from a nearby bed room stove, exploded and set afire her dress.

The woman's screams were heard by John Alexander, a neighbor, who rushed into the house and smothered the flames by wrapping a rug around her shoulders.

Fire in the floor was extinguished before the arrival of the Central fire department. The bath room and one bed room on the second floor were badly damaged by the force of the explosion, which broke the plaster and sprung the sides of the dwelling.

Mrs. Trainer's burns were dressed by Dr. R. J. Marshall.

J. R. MOSBY REVEALS CHARGES IN REMOVAL ACTION AGAINST FOGO

Man Becomes Drunk While Behind Bars Of Toronto Jail

Paul Garey, arrested in Toronto at 1 o'clock this morning on a charge of disorderly conduct, following a street fight, was to face an additional charge today when arraigned, as a result of a "bull pen" spree made possible by 46 cases of confiscated liquor which he discovered in the jail.

Garey was placed in the "pen" by police officers. He observed the liquor through the bars of a cell where it had been placed and, using a broom handle, pried off the lids. Authorities say he sampled and tasted the various liquors freely.

Wellsville Ouster Petitions Will be Filed in Common Pleas Court Today or Tomorrow, He Says.

AFTERMATH OF FULTZ BATTLE

One of Leaders of Movement Claims More Than Necessary 105 Signatures Have Been Obtained.

Petitions asking the removal of Mayor W. L. Fogo, of Wellsville, on 10 charges, may be filed this afternoon or tomorrow in common pleas court at Lisbon, it was announced today by J. R. Mosby, Wellsville grocer.

Mosby, who asserted [illegible] is in charge of one of the petitions that were placed in circulation in Wellsville yesterday, declared that a sufficient number of signatures have been obtained to take the issue into court. Approximately 105 names, or five per cent of the vote at the last general election, are required.

Mayor Fogo, questioned today as to his attitude in regard to the ouster petitions, refused to comment.

The petitions, circulated as an aftermath of the recent dispute between Mayor Fogo and John Fultz, suspended police chief, read as follows, according to Mosby:

"Wellsville,

"State of Ohio, Columbiana County

"Now come the undersigned qualified electors of the state of Ohio and citizens of this city and file this complaint and respectively ask for the removal of Wallace L. Fogo as mayor of the city of Wellsville for the following reasons, to wit:

"First—That for a considerable time the mayor wilfully and frequently exercised powers not authorized by law in acting as service director of the city of Wellsville and in having one of the police officers drive him around the city while he was acting as such officer.

"Second—The mayor recently discharged the safety director of the city of Wellsville because he paid a bill after the mayor told him not, which state authorities directed him to pay.

"Third — The mayor recently assumed to remove J. H. Fultz as chief of police on the grounds for which the law does not authorize removal of an officer who holds office under civil service and directed police not to take orders from Fultz, but to take them from him.

"Fourth—The mayor assumes to direct the police department of the city and gives orders to members of that department while the law, General Code, 4,368, makes the safety director the executive head of the police department.

"Fifth—The mayor promised some of his friends at the time of election, that, if elected, he would remove Chief Fultz. He tried, through his self-constituted board composed of his brother and other friends, to remove him.

FALL-DOHENY CASE ENTERS ITS FINAL DAY

Closing Arguments are Made by Defense.

LAUD ACCUSED

Fall's Wife and Daughter Weep Silently.

By GEORGE E. DURNO.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—From the tears and heart throbs of the defense, the pendulum swung sharply back to the biting accusations of the prosecution today in the last few minutes of the conspiracy trial of former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall and E. L. Doheny, millionaire oil operator.

Former Senator Atlee Pomerene, of Ohio, special government oil counsel, was elected to close the celebrated case.

Walking over to Hogan, he said:

"Mr. Hogan presents a case no fairer than Mr. Roberts.

"Mr. Roberts and I were drafted by the government and we came here to do our duty as we see it.

"The fault now seems to be that we failed to fall in line with the ideas of the defense. We didn't come here to follow their ideas.

Pomerene Scores Fall.

"I failed to hear by colleague say one word about Mrs. Doheny. Yet Hogan says he maligned her. She made but three statements and we disputed none. We didn't even cross-examine her.

Pomerene then took cognizance of the defense effort to show that all of the oil transactions had the personal sanction of the late President Harding.

"Did he know that so invaluable was the property that Doheny expected to make $100,000,000 profit?

ALLEGED 'TRIGGER MAN' GOT $200 FOR 'JOB,' MYSTERY WITNESS SAYS

PAT WOULDN'T TAKE DRINK WHEN HE "HAD JOB ON," JURY IS TOLD

By DAVID P. SENTNER.

CANTON, O., Dec. 15.—Pat McDermott, on trial for the murder of Don R. Mellett, admitted getting $200 for "a big job" a few hours before the slaying of the vice-fighting editor, according to the testimony today of William Betzler, formerly of Johnstown, Pa., mystery witness for the prosecution.

The private life of the alleged "trigger man" in the Mellett assassination was revealed in detail by Betzler.

McDermott didn't believe in mixing pleasure with business according to the witness. Pat wouldn't take a drink when he "had a job on."

McDermott had a bootlegging job scheduled for the night before the murder and " a big job" for the night of the murder, Betzler said, and on neither night would he take a drink.

Admits Serving Prison Term.

"If I had $200, I'd go back to Akron," Betzler testified, saying to McDermott on the night of the murder.

"Before the night is over I'll have $200," McDermott answered, the witness said.

During the cross-examination he suggested questions for his counsel to ask.

Betzler admitted he had spent a prison term for stealing a handbag in Johnstown, Pa.

"Didn't you tell McDermott you were out on a parole from a 14-year sentence for stealing $80,000 in Liberty bonds?" defense counsel asked.

"I was kidding Pat," Betzler answered. "He was telling me how hard he was so I did some talking."

A luncheon was then declared.

JOHN MOODY, NEW YORK'S EMINENT ANALYST AND INVESTMENT SEER, FORESEES 1927 AS YEAR OF HEALTHY BUSINESS

By Alexander C. Herman.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—How'll business be in 1927?

Active, healthy—without flare of either boom or panic!

Such is the gist of a forecast made exclusively for The Review-Tribune by John Moody, eminent analyst who has been keeping the closest touch on the pulse of business conditions the world over for more than 30 years.

His answer to this question of universal interest is couched in the carefully selected words of the conscientious expert who rather would say too little than too much, for fear of being misinterpreted.

Such care has made Moody a leader in his field. He is president of the Moody's Investors Service, which furnishes expert reports and advice to banks, bankers, business men and investors. He travels frequently to study the foreign situation and is in close touch with most of the financial problems both at home and abroad.

Moderate Depression.

"All the fundamental evidences point," he says, "to the possibility that 1927 will be an active business year with relatively healthy underlying conditions, but there will be no boom or inflation in either industry or finance

"It is entirely possible that the first six months of the year will register a moderate business depression. But because of the soundness of credit conditions and the absence of over-extended inventories and liabilities, such a slowing up in business should not have any disastrous effects. As a matter of fact, its main effects should be healthy.

"During the broadening out of financial and business activities during the past year, there has been constant danger that the period of prosperity through which we have been passing would develop into an unhealthy boom. A moderate slowing up general business, however, will remove all danger of over-expansion.

Credit Conditions.

"If, as is expected, business activities slow up to some extent throughout the country during the first half of 1927, credit conditions will remain sound and interest rates will tend to drop to a lower level.

"The country as a whole is still enormously equipped with liquid capital, and in spite of tremendous absorption in securities which has been going on since 1924, there still is available an almost unlimited supply of investment funds.

"During the past two years this country has invested each year between one billion and two billion dollars in foreign lands, and yet the supply of investment capital has been by no means exhausted.

"One of the constructive factors which is going far to maintain the easy credit conditions in this country

PAT WOULDN'T TAKE DRINK WHEN HE "HAD JOB ON," JURY IS TOLD

By DAVID P. SENTNER.

The private life of the alleged "trigger man" in the Mellet assassination was revealed in detail by Betzler.

McDermott didn't believe in mixing pleasure with business according to the witness. Pat wouldn't take a drink when he "had a job on."

McDermott had a bootlegging job scheduled for the night before the murder and " a big job" for the night of the murder, Betzler said, and on neither night would he take a drink.

Admits Serving Prison Term.

"If I had $200, I'd go back to Akron," Betzler testified, saying to McDermott on the night of the murder.

"Before the night is over I'll have $200," McDermott answered, the witness said.

During the cross-examination he suggested questions for his counsel to ask.

Betzler admitted he had spent a prison term for stealing a handbag in Johnstown, Pa.

"Didn't you tell McDermott you were out on a parole from a 14-year sentence for stealing $50,000 in Liberty Bonds?" defense counsel asked.

"I was kidding Pat," Betzler answered. "He was telling me how hard he was so I did some talking."

A luncheon was then declared.

JOHN MOODY, NEW YORK'S EMINENT ANALYST AND INVESTMENT SEER, FORESEES 1927 AS YEAR OF HEALTHY BUSINESS

By Alexander C. Herman.

Active, healthy—without flare of either boom or panic!

Such is the gist of a forecast made exclusively for The Review-Tribune by John Moody, eminent analyst who has been keeping the closest touch on the pulse of business conditions the world over for more than 30 years.

His answer to this question of universal interest is couched in the carefully selected words of the conscientious expert who rather would say too little than too much, for fear of being misinterpreted.

Such care has made Moody a leader in his field. He is president of the Moody's Investors Service, which furnishes expert reports and advice to banks, bankers, business men and investors. He travels frequently to study the foreign situation and is in close touch with most of the financial problems both at home and abroad.

Moderate Depression.

"All the fundamental evidences point," he says, "to the possibility that 1927 will be an active business year with relatively healthy underlying conditions, but there will be no boom or inflation in either industry or finance

"It is entirely possible that the first six months of the year will register a moderate business depression. But because of the soundness of credit conditions and the absence of over-extended inventories and liabilities, such a slowing up in business should not have any disastrous effects. As a matter of fact, its main effects should be healthy.

"During the broadening out of financial and business activities during the past year, there has been constant danger that the period of prosperity through which we have been passing would develop into an unhealthy boom. A moderate slowing up general business, however, will remove all danger of over-expansion.

Credit Conditions.

"If, as is expected, business activities slow up to some extent throughout the country during the first half of 1927, credit conditions will remain sound and interest rates will tend to drop to a lower level.

"The country as a whole is still enormously equipped with liquid capital, and in spite of tremendous absorption in securities which has been going on since 1924, there still is available an almost unlimited supply of investment funds.

"During the past two years this country has invested each year between one billion and two billion dollars in foreign lands, and yet the supply of investment capital has been by no means exhausted.

"One of the constructive factors which is going far to maintain the easy credit conditions in this country

NAVY experts tell congress that the government is spending $164,000 a year to keep in condition 41 submarines, out of commission, not ready to fight. Eighty of our submarines are ready for action; the 41 that cost $164,000 a year are kept ready, all but the crew.

REPORTS to the house naval committee show that Japan leads all nations in submarine construction. For us to catch up with Japan in submarines would cost $110,000,000. Fortunately Japan loves this country and wouldn't hurt us, so we need not worry.

We shall probably build some battleships and cruisers to provide targets for airplanes and submarines The other nations will build airplanes and the submarines. That's fair.

DRESS IGNITES AFTER VICTIM, 78, OPENS DOOR OF BATH ROOM

Mrs. Martha Trainer is in Critical Condition.

HOME DAMAGED

Mrs. Martha Trainer, 78, is in a critical condition at her home 812 St. John street, as a result of burns received at 7:45 o'clock last evening when her dress ignited following a gas explosion in the bath room of the house. She was burned about the sides, back and shoulders and is also suffering from nervous shock.

Scenting gas fumes, she began an investigation. When she opened the bath room door, the accumulated gas, igniting from a nearby bed room stove, exploded and set afire her dress.

The woman's screams were heard by John Alexander, a neighbor, who rushed into the house and smothered the flames by wrapping a rug around her shoulders.

Fire in the floor was extinguished before the arrival of the Central fire department. The bath room and one bed room on the second floor were badly damaged by the force of the explosion, which broke the plaster and sprung the sides of the dwelling.

Mrs. Trainer's burns were dressed by Dr. R. J. Marshall.

Two Burned to Death.

ELIZABETH, N. J., Dec. 15.—Two men were burned to death and another was severely injured in a fire starting from the explosion of an oil stove which destroyed a two-story frame barn on the farm of William Anslen, near here, early today. The dead men were Steven Brown, 65, and Joseph Hart, 30.

J. R. MOSBY REVEALS CHARGES IN REMOVAL ACTION AGAINST FOGO

Wellsville Ouster Petitions Will be Filed in Common Pleas Court Today or Tomorrow, He Says.

AFTERMATH OF FULTZ BATTLE

Petitions asking the removal of Mayor W. L. Fogo, of Wellsville, on 10 charges, may be filed this afternoon or tomorrow in common pleas court at Lisbon, it was announced today by J. R. Mosby, Wellsville grocer.

Mosby, who asserted that he is in charge of one of the petitions that were placed in circulation in Wellsville yesterday, declared that a sufficient number of signatures have been obtained to take the issue into court. Approximately 105 names, or five per cent of the vote at the last general election, are required.

Mayor Fogo, questioned today as to his attitude in regard to the ouster petitions, refused to comment.

The petitions, circulated as an aftermath of the recent dispute between Mayor Fogo and John Fultz, suspended police chief, read as follows, according to Mosby:

"Wellsville,

"State of Ohio, Columbiana County

"Now come the undersigned qualified electors of the state of Ohio and citizens of this city and file this complaint and respectively ask for the removal of the city of Wallace L. Fogo as mayor of the city of Wellsville for the following reasons, to wit:

"First—That for a considerable time the mayor wilfully and frequently exercised powers not authorized by law in acting as service director of the city of Wellsville and in having one of the police officers drive him around the city while he was acting as such officer.

"Second—The mayor recently discharged the safety director of the city of Wellsville because he paid a bill after the mayor told him not, which state authorities directed him to pay.

"Third — The mayor recently assumed to remove J. H. Fultz as chief of police on the grounds for which the law does not authorize removal of an officer who holds office under civil service and directed police not to take orders from Fultz, but to take them from him.

"Fourth—The mayor assumes to direct the police department of the city and gives orders to members of that department while the law, General Code, 4,368, makes the safety director the executive head of the police department.

"Fifth—The mayor promised some of his friends at the time of election, that, if elected, he would remove Chief Fultz. He tried, through his self-constituted board composed of his brother and other friends, to remove him.

"Sixth—The mayor, in a recently published article says, 'I promised the voters of Wellsville that if elected, I

Man Becomes Drunk While Behind Bars Of Toronto Jail

Paul Garey, arrested in Toronto at 1 o'clock this morning on a charge of disorderly conduct, following a street fight, was to face an additional charge today when arraigned, as a result of a "bull pen" spree made possible by 46 cases of confiscated liquor which he discovered in the jail.

Garey was placed in the "pen" by police officers. He observed the liquor through the bars of a cell where it had been placed and, using a broom handle, pried off the lids. Authorities say he sampled and tasted the various liquors freely.

FALL-DOHENY CASE ENTERS ITS FINAL DAY

Closing Arguments are Made by Defense.

LAUD ACCUSED

By GEORGE E. DURNO.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—From the tears and heart throbs of the defense, the pendulum swung sharply back to the biting accusations of the prosecution today in the last few minutes of the conspiracy trial of former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall and E. L. Doheny, millionaire oil operator.

Former Senator Atlee Pomerene, of Ohio, special government oil counsel, was elected to close the celebrated case.

Walking over to Hogan, he said:

"Mr. Hogan presents a case no fairer than Mr. Roberts.

"Mr. Roberts and I were drafted by the government and we came here to do our duty as we see it.

"The fault now seems to be that we failed to fall in line with the ideas of the defense. We didn't come here to follow their ideas.

Pomerene Scores Fall.

"I failed to hear by colleague say one word about Mrs. Doheny. Yet Hogan says he maligned her. She made but three statements and we disputed none. We didn't even cross examine her.

Pomerene then took cognizance of the defense effort to show that all of the oil transactions had the personal sanction of the late President Harding.

"Did he know that so invaluable was the property that Doheny expected to make $100,000,000 profit?

BOND'S ILLNESS DELAYS TRIAL

CHARLESTON, Dec. 15.—Whether John C. Bond former state auditor, will go on trial now on embezzlement charges on which he was indicted in intermediate court after being removed from office, depends on the report to be made to the court by two physicians.

When the case was called for trial yesterday Fred Stambaugh, local attorney for Bond, asked a postponement because of the illness of his client and called Dr. R. A. Ireland, superintendent of the Mountain State hospital to the witness stand. The physician said Mr. Bond was in bed at the hospital and was "sick as compared with the condition he showed when I knew him in other years."

Explaining that he had been called into the case Sunday and that Mr. Bond was under care of another physician, Dr. Ireland expressed belief that the former auditor was recovering from malaria and under cross-examination added that mental worry might explain some of the symptons. From a physician's viewpoint, protecting the health of a patient, "he would not advise" a severe strain at this time, but said only that a trial now "might" endanger Bond's health.

Postponement to get further report by Dr. Ireland and some other physician was proposed by the prosecuting attorney after a conference with the doctor outside the court room.

FRESH VICTORY

Northern Forces Alter All Plans of Resistance.

SHANGHAI, Dec. 15.—Cantonese control of the city of Shanghai in the very near future was regarded as inevitable today as news of fresh victories for the southern troops came in from the battle front.

The Cantonese this morning suddenly swept down on Hangchow and captured the city, thus forcing the northern forces to alter all plans of resistance and rendering futile an attempted stand by General Sun Chuan-Fang. Brigadier General Man Cho-Yeh, an adherent of Sun Chuan-Sun Chuan-Fang, rushed from Nanking to Kashing with the intention of establishing defense lines there, and later to launch an offensive toward Hangchow. Kesh-ing is located about half way between Shanghai and Hangchow.

The Cantonese forces which captured Hangchow numbered 20,000. General Sun Chuan-Fang's strength was uncertain, due to the disaffection among his subordinates, many of whom were reported friendly toward the Cantonese.

BOND'S ILLNESS DELAYS TRIAL

CHARLESTON, Dec. 15.—Whether John C. Bond former state auditor, will go on trial now on embezzlement charges on which he was indicted in intermediate court after being removed from office, depends on the report to be made to the court by two physicians.

When the case was called for trial yesterday Fred Stambaugh, local attorney for Bond, asked a postponement because of the illness of his client and called Dr. R. A. The physician said Mr. Bond was in bed at the hospital and was "sick as compared with the condition he showed when I knew him in other years."

From a physician's viewpoint, protecting the health of a patient, "he would not advise" a severe strain at this time, but said only that a trial now "might" endanger Bond's health.

FORLORN RIVER AT CERAMIC

Zane Grey Story Screen Offering Tomorrow.

Paramount has filmed another of those red-blooded stories from the facile pen of Zane Grey, and this high-powered western drama, "Forlorn River," will open a three-day run tomorrow at the Ceramic theatre.

To the lively plot, teeming with the romance and adventure of the northwest cattle country, has been added a spirited cast, featuring such sterling favorites as Jack Holt, Raymond Hatton, Arlette Marchal and Edmund Burns.

As in all Zane Grey productions, the locations were chosen with the greatest fidelity possible to the actual locale of the original story. In this instance, Zion National park in Utah was used as a background, giving the picture a scenic setting of unsurpassed natural beauty.

The action of the story centers about Holt, ex-member of a band of cattle rustlers, whose outlaw activities have prompted the honest ranch owners to band against them and hunt them down. Looked upon as a traitor by the desperadoes and considered a bad man by the sheriff, Holt finds himself between two fires. To complicate matters, he falls in love with Miss Marchal and arouses the jealousy of Edmund Burns.

With such a start, the picture develops considerable excitement that has been well balanced with some fine comedy contributed by Raymond Hatton in the role of a tramp cowpuncher. John Waters, who jumped into the limelight with his first directoral effort, "Born to the West," is also the guiding spirit of "Forlorn River." The scenario is the work of George C. Hull.

Santa Claus' Assistants

Santa Claus is indebted to the commissioners and Miss Jo Bike, treasurer of Columbiana county, for through their co-operation, in response to a petition, the time limit for the payment of taxes has been extended from December 20 until January 20.

This 30-day period of grace is in every sense a Christmas gift for hundreds of taxpayers, for it means that thousands of dollars will be diverted into business channels during the yuletide season. And no small part of this money will be invested in gifts for mother, father, brothers and sisters and friends.

The action of the commissioners is in keeping with the custom in most sections of Ohio. In fact, in many counties January 20 is recognized as tax day, and although assessments are due on December 20 no penalty is exacted in the event 30 days' grace is taken. This rule is effective, too, in the payment of life insurance.

Thank you, county commissioners and county treasurer.

Big Waterways First

Speaking of inland waterway development in his message to congress, President Coolidge said:

"If the country will be content to be moderate and patient, and permit improvements to be made where they will do the greatest general good, rather than insisting on expenditures at this time on secondary projects, our internal waterways can be made a success. If proposed legislation results in a gross manifestation of local jealousies and selfishness, this program cannot be carried out. Ultimately we can take care of extensions, but our first effort should be confined to the main arteries."

This is obviously a sane and logical policy, if internal waterways are to be developed into such a transportation system as they are capable of becoming, supplementing and rounding out the national railroad system and stimulating the latter by offering some wholesome competition.

Unfortunately it is not the way waterway development has been carried on in the past. Usually the opposite procedure has been followed. Isolated local projects have been urged, outlying branches have been attended to before the main arteries, local and sectional rivalries have been allowed to divert attention from the main issue. Local appropriations have been preferred to basic expenditures for the good of the whole public. Log-rolling and pork-barrel methods have crowded out sound engineering and statesmanship.

It is time to reverse the process and do the big things first, realizing that the extensions will then follow as a matter of course.

"Research" Law Exams

The comprehensive examination has reached candidates for admission to the bar in Ohio. It is called a "research test" and is such a surprising innovation that many of the law graduates confronted with it for the first time are nervous.

This test gets away from the old method of asking a lot of questions to which certain answers must be fitted. It marks an attempt to minimize "book learning" about law and to emphasize understanding and ability.

All the candidates at a recent bar examination at Columbus, were told to go to the library and select some book on law, or some specific legal question. After looking it over a given length of time they were then to "brief it," just as they would prepare a brief for a case in court. The theory of such a test is that it shows better than the answering of a few questions the candidate's grasp of law and his ability to marshal certain facts in their proper legal relationship.

This sort of test has been making great headway in American schools and colleges in recent years. There is a swing away from rote-learning toward the cultivation of intelligence, judgment, ability to think. It is an evidence of genuine progress in education.

Fewer Horses More Food

In one typical middle-western state, an agricultural authority says, the farm machinery supplanting horses has released for human use more than 1,000,000 acres of land, thereby enabling the same cultivated acreage to feed 400,000 more people.

There is an element of the truck and tractor traffic that is usually lost sight of. Horses have been essential to farms in the past, and still have their value there. Yet it is true that a horse working on and for the farm must draw his own living from the farm, and that a mechanical contrivance which does that horse's work without consuming any of the crops produced leaves just so much more food for the human population.

This is one of the factors making food cheaper and enabling farms to feed the nation with fewer farm workers. So far the city consumers have had most of the resulting benefit. Eventually it will come back to the farmer himself.

"How in the world do all these people make a living?" people from little towns are always asking when they visit big cities. Evidently by selling real estate to each other.

The worst thing about the statistical habit is the way amateur statisticians persist in talking about "statistics."

My Favorite Stories
By IRVIN S. COBB

THE SECRET OF THE TRAGEDY.

Two friends were discussing the passing of a mutual acquaintance.

"I understand he died of lumbago," one said.

"He did not die of lumbago," the other stated. "He had lumbago but he didn't die of lumbago. He died of an accident."

"An accident?"

"Sure! He had lumbago and they rubbed his back with alcohol."

"And did it poison him?"

"It did not," the man who knew the correct version answered. "They rubbed his back with alcohol, see? They rubbed him right down the middle of his back and then they carelessly went away and left him lying there on his face, see? And he was perishing for something to drink, see?

"And when they came back twenty minutes later to see how he was getting along when they found the poor fellow dead of a broken neck."

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY
By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Night life brings out prominent figures which fit into the picture. The brittle air of sophistication envelops them as they preempt the best theatre seats and cafe tables. They appear as taut as violin strings. They are people who have gazed on gaiety everywhere.

And somehow they achieve the effect of banishing frivolity so badly needed. You feel as though the crunch of celery would resemble a jangling bell in dead of night. And a movie magnate should be banished if he orders potage.

There is Stroeva, the Russian singer, with her patent leather hair and red muffler around the throat. Wilda Bennett in chinchilla and her sleek Argentine husband. Julia Hoyt trying to look glacial in black. Alexander Moore and his stock collar.

Mrs. Reggy Vanderbilt with Victorian hair dress. Luella O. Parsons who knows as many celebrities as Tex Guinan. Chubby Morrie Paul, the ace of society reporters. Jay Kaufman and his Budapest bride. Maurice and Elinore. Stage twins. Hand kissing counts and monocled what-nots.

The noisy garish jazz era has apparently spent itself. The music is muted and never rises above the occasional plaintive whine of the oboe. Even thin vagabond noises floating up from deserted streets sound harsh in the carpeted silence.

It is told that a breezy westerner having suffered the suffocating quiet of a cafe for several hours and fortified by several potent drinks lurched out, turning at the entrance to yell: "I dare you to laugh—you cowards!"

The smartest hotels no longer employ private detectives to prowl about their corridors. They are only engaged to watch for suspicious characters in the lobbies and at the elevator entrances. Too many costly suits have resulted from unwarranted interference. And respectable patrons resent needless prying. It is the assumption of exclusive hotels that all guests are ladies and gentlemen. If they prove otherwise it is an easy matter to get rid of them. And in a hurry!

To the policeman who spoke harshly to me at Fifth Avenue and 49th street: I wasn't that way. A fountain pen exploded in my vest pocket and I suddenly removed my coat to save it.

The cornetist of a jazz orchestra purloined his leader's automobile for the evening and two hours later went over a cliff near the city. From the nearest village came a telegram from the uninjured driver of the wrecked car: "There should have been steps there!"

Due to the breakage in electrical equipment the curtain was held an hour on a first night performance. The author was called in desperate effort to hold the restless crowd. He did so neatly by merely reading from the program various advertisements at random and commenting thereupon. High art there.

Above the roar of jazz one is always impressed by New York's overtone of substantial dignity. It may be found along Murray Hill and in other aristocratic purlieus. There are sturdily fashioned homes whose rooms are without a single touch of barbaric ornament. The evening meal is a strictly family affair presided over by benign and ancient butlers. A bit of real music—not by radio—over the coffee cups. Fathers and sons retire to the basements to smoke and play billiards. All the lights appear to be out at 11. These are the homes from which on sunny afternoons genteel ladies go for a drive in Central Park in closed horse drawn carriages. Businesses have been handed down from fathers to sons and the trusts are not considered lightly.

Air Commerce Regulations—I.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 15.—At midnight on December 31 next the new air commerce regulations drafted by the Aeronautics Branch of the United States Department of Commerce become effective. Automobile owners and drivers who think they are hard put to it to understand and comply with the traffic rules governing the operation of automotive vehicles may well be glad that the are not engaged in any form of air transportation.

For the new regulations applicable to air commerce are exceedingly comprehensive and no one not an expert could hope to familiarize himself with them and understand them fully without long and careful study. They cover everything from the registration of aircraft and the licensing of pilots and mechanics to details of testing and inspecting machines, the construction and operation of airports, and the rules of the air, the latter being comparable to the automobile traffic regulations of a city or state.

Under the law, aircraft means any contrivance now known or hereafter invented, used, or designed for navigation of or flight in the air, except a parachute or other contrivance designed for such navigation but used primarily as safety equipment, and all aircraft must be registered and found airworthy before engaging in certain stipulated activities.

These include, first, carrying persons or property for hire or reward, or the United States mails, between two or more states, or to or from foreign countries, between two points in one state if part of the flight is over another state or is a part of a through carriage in interstate commerce, or within the airspace over the District of Columbia or and territory or possession of the United States, and, second, flying between points in different states, et cetera, for the operations in the conduct of a business, as where the aircraft is used in a business in one state and is flown to another.

Aircraft belonging to the United States will be registered if the operating agency so requests, and those belonging to states, territories, or to political subdivisions will be registered and rated as to airworthiness if it is requested and if such aircraft are used exclusively in governmental service.

Reciprocity With Other Countries.

Where civil aircraft of the United States are permitted to fly over a foreign country without registration and rating and certification of their airmen, the aircraft of such foreign country, not a part of its armed forces, may operate in the territory over which the United States has jurisdic-

Santa Claus' Assistants

Santa Claus is indebted to the commissioners and Miss Jo Pike, treasurer of Columbiana county, for through their co-operation, in response to a petition, the time limit for the payment of taxes has been extended from December 20 until January 20.

This 30-day period of grace is in every sense a Christmas gift for hundreds of taxpayers, for it means that thousands of dollars will be diverted into business channels during the Yuletide season. And no small part of this money will be invested in gifts for mother, father, brothers and sisters and friends.

The action of the commissioners is in keeping with the custom in most sections of Ohio. In fact, in many counties January 20 is recognized as tax day, and although assessments are due on December 20 no penalty is exacted in the event 30 days' grace is taken. This rule is effective, too, in the payment of life insurance.

Thank you, county commissioners and county treasurer.

Big Waterways First

Speaking of inland waterway development in his message to congress, President Coolidge said:

"If the country will be content to be moderate and patient, and permit improvements to be made where they will do the greatest general good, rather than insisting on expenditures at this time on secondary projects, our internal waterways can be made a success. If proposed legislation results in a gross manifestation of local jealousies and selfishness, this program cannot be carried out. Ultimately we can take care of extensions, but our first effort should be confined to the main arteries."

This is obviously a sane and logical policy, if internal waterways are to be developed into such a transportation system as they are capable of becoming, supplementing and rounding out the national railroad system and stimulating the latter by offering some wholesome competition.

Unfortunately it is not the way waterway development has been carried on in the past. Usually the opposite procedure has been followed. Isolated local projects have been urged, outlying branches have been attended to before the main arteries, local and sectional rivalries have been allowed to divert attention from the main issue. Local appropriations have been preferred to basic expenditures for the good of the whole public. Log-rolling and pork-barrel methods have crowded out sound engineering and statesmanship.

It is time to reverse the process and do the big things first, realizing that the extensions will then follow as a matter of course.

"Research" Law Exams

The comprehensive examination has reached candidates for admission to the bar in Ohio. It is called a "research test" and is such a surprising innovation that many of the law graduates confronted with it for the first time are nervous.

This test gets away from the old method of asking a lot of questions to which certain answers must be fitted. It marks an attempt to minimize "book learning" about law and to emphasize understanding and ability.

All the candidates at a recent bar examination at Columbus, were told to go to the library and select some book on law, or some specific legal question. After looking it over a given length of time they were then to "brief it," just as they would prepare a brief for a case in court. The theory of such a test is that it shows better than the answering of a few questions the candidate's grasp of law and his ability to marshal certain facts in their proper legal relationship.

This sort of test has been making great headway in American schools and colleges in recent years. There is a swing away from rote-learning toward the cultivation of intelligence, judgment, ability to think. It is an evidence of genuine progress in education.

Fewer Horses More Food

In one typical middle-western state, an agricultural authority says, the farm machinery supplanting horses has released for human use more than 1,000,000 acres of land, thereby enabling the same cultivated acreage to feed 400,000 more people.

There is an element of the truck and tractor traffic that is usually lost sight of. Horses have been essential to farms in the past, and still have their value there. Yet it is true that a horse working on and for the farm must draw his own living from the farm, and that a mechanical contrivance which does that horse's work without consuming any of the crops produced leaves just so much more food for the human population.

This is one of the factors making food cheaper and enabling farms to feed the nation with fewer farm workers. So far the city consumers have had most of the resulting benefit. Eventually it will come back to the farmer himself.

"How in the world do all these people make a living?" people from little towns are always asking when they visit big cities. Evidently by selling real estate to each other.

The worst thing about the statistical habit is the way amateur statisticians persist in talking about "statistics."

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY
By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Night life brings out prominent figures which fit into the picture. The brittle air of sophistication envelops them as they preempt the best theatre seats and cafe tables. They appear as taut as violin strings. They are people who have gazed on gaiety everywhere.

And somehow they achieve the effect of banishing frivolity so badly needed. You feel as though the crunch of celery would resemble a jangling bell in dead of night. And a movie magnate should be banished if he orders potage.

There is Stroeva, the Russian singer, with her patent leather hair and red muffler around the throat. Wilda Bennett in chinchilla and her sleek Argentine husband. Julia Hoyt trying to look glacial in black. Alexander Moore and his stock collar.

Mrs. Reggy Vanderbilt with Victorian hair dress. Luella O. Parsons who knows as many celebrities as Tex Guinan. Chubby Morrie Paul, the ace of society reporters. Jay Kaufman and his Budapest bride. Maurice and Elinore. Stage twins. Hand kissing counts and monocled what-nots.

The noisy garish jazz are has apparently spent itself. The music is muted and never rises above the occasional plaintive whine of the oboe. Even thin vagabond noises floating up from deserted streets sound harsh in the carpeted silence.

It is told that a breezy westerner having suffered the suffocating quiet of a cafe for several hours and fortified by several potent drinks lurched out, turning at the entrance to yell: "I dare you to laugh—you cowards!"

The smartest hotels no longer employ private detectives to prowl about their corridors. They are only engaged to watch for suspicious characters in the lobbies and at the elevator entrances. Too many costly suits have resulted from unwarranted interference. And respectable patrons resent needless prying. It is the assumption of exclusive hotels that all guests are ladies and gentlemen. If they prove otherwise it is an easy matter to get rid of them. And in a hurry!

To the policeman who spoke harshly to me at Fifth Avenue and 49th street: I wasn't that way. A fountain pen exploded in my vest pocket and I suddenly removed my coat to save it.

The cornetist of a jazz orchestra purloined his leader's automobile for the evening and two hours later went over a cliff near the city. From the nearest village came a telegram from the uninjured driver of the wrecked car: "There should have been steps there!"

Due to the breakage in electrical equipment the curtain was held an hour on a first night performance. The author was called in desperate effort to hold the restless crowd. He did so neatly by merely reading from the program various advertisements at random and commenting thereupon. High art there.

Above the roar of jazz one is always impressed by New York's overtone of substantial dignity. It may be found along Murray Hill and in other aristocratic purlieus. There are sturdily fashioned homes whose rooms are without a single touch of barbaric ornament. The evening meal is a strictly family affair presided over by benign and ancient butlers. A bit of real music—not by radio—over the coffee cups. Fathers and sons retire to the basements to smoke and play billiards. All the lights appear to be out at 11. These are the homes from which on sunny afternoons genteel ladies go for a drive in Central Park in closed horse drawn carriages. Businesses have been handed down from fathers to sons and the trusts are not considered lightly.

Best Way to Loosen Stubborn Cough

Here is a home-made syrup which millions of people have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up stubborn coughs. It is cheap and simple, but very prompt in action. Under its healing, soothing influence, chest soreness goes, phlegm loosens, breathing becomes easier, tickling in throat stops and you get a good night's restful sleep. The usual throat and chest colds are conquered by it in 24 hours or less. Nothing better for bronchitis, hoarseness, throat tickle, bronchial asthma or winter coughs.

To make this splendid cough syrup, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup and shake thoroughly. If you prefer, use clarified honey, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you get a full pint—a family supply—of much better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for three times the money. Keeps perfectly and children love it.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract and palatable guaiacol, known the world over for its prompt healing effect upon the membranes.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Best Way to Loosen Stubborn Cough

Here is a home-made syrup which millions of people have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up stubborn coughs. It is cheap and simple, but very prompt in action. Under its healing, soothing influence, chest soreness goes, phlegm loosens, breathing becomes easier, tickling in throat stops and you get a good night's restful sleep. The usual throat and chest colds are conquered by it in 24 hours or less. Nothing better for bronchitis, hoarseness, throat tickle, bronchial asthma or winter coughs.

To make this splendid cough syrup, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup and shake thoroughly. If you prefer, use clarified honey, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you get a full pint—a family supply—of much better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for three times the money. Keeps perfectly and children love it.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract and palatable guaiacol, known the world over for its prompt healing effect upon the membranes.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

YULETIDE MAIL RUSH EXPECTED HERE MONDAY

Extra Clerks and Carriers Report for Duty.

TRUCKS ON JOB

Postoffice Floors Will Be Cleared Every Night.

The rush of Yuletide mail at the East Liverpool postoffice is expected to begin Monday, Postmaster J. Edwin McClure said today.

In an effort to expedite deliveries during the Christmas season, arrangements have been made to place on duty five extra clerks and six extra carriers.

Extra workers will be selected from the certified list, and when these lists are exhausted, workers will be chosen among those who have made application for employment.

Two parcels post trucks are now in service. Another truck will be engaged Monday. These trucks will handle parcels post matter from both the main town and Station A offices.

Postmaster McClure has announced that the floors at the postoffice will be cleared every evening if possible. Regular clerks and carriers will remain on duty until everything has been delivered. Inasmuch as Christmas falls on Saturday there will be one delivery on Christmas morning.

Patrons of the local office have been urged to mail their Christmas cards early. Last year during the Yuletide season, approximately 51,000 pieces of mail were run through the stamp canceling machine in one day at the local postoffice. This, according to Postmaster McClure, was a new high record at the local postoffice.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory disease, and a splendid for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

AUTO DAMAGE CASES FILED

Arthur G. Hallett and Joseph D. Moore Sue.

Arthur G. Hallett, Chestnut street, has filed suit in municipal court for $35 damage done to his automobile when a mail truck, owned by Otto Singer, backed into it while it was parked in Apple alley, at the rear of the postoffice, on November 26. Hallett is represented by Attorney Frank Hoover.

Dr. Harry Frost is defendant in a suit brought by Joseph D. Moore for $25 damages alleged to have been done to his automobile when it was struck by a car driven by Frost while it was parked on Thompson avenue on October 26. Attorney Hoover also represents Moore.

The Victory Motor Sales has sued Cleve Stowers, Smiths Ferry, to collect a note for $150. Attorney Ben L. Bennett represents the plaintiff.

tion without registration, rating, and certification. Foreign aircraft, however, may not engage in interstate or intrastate air commerce.

To be registered an aircraft must be owned by a citizen of the United States, by a partnership of which each member is a citizen, by a domestic corporation officered and controlled by citizens, or by the federal, state or local governments, and it must not be registered under the laws of any other country.

Pages are devoted to the rules under which the airworthiness of aircraft is determined, and they are largely of a technical character that the laymen will not understand, but it is interesting to note that all airplanes must pass test flights in which with full loads they take off within 1,000 feet, climb at least 250 feet the first minute after taking off, and in landing, come to a full stop without external aid within 900 feet.

Certificates of registration and airworthiness may be suspended or revoked for any violation of air law or regulations, failure to make proper and seasonable reports, making a false statement in application or reports, making unauthorized changes in equipment, or remodeling the airplane and flying it without its having been re-rated as airworthy.

Commercial aircraft must be marked conspicuously with a large capital C, governmental aircraft with the letter S, and all other registered aircraft with the letter P.

Registered planes must be given daily inspections by the owner, the result to be noted in the ship's log, and spasmodic inspections after each 100 hours of flight. Government inspectors shall have access to planes at any time or place, accidents must be reported immediately to the secretary of commerce, repairs must be inspected and approved, and the owner or operator of every registered aircraft must keep a navigation and engine log book from which he shall make a navigation summary report every three months and transmit it in duplicate to the secretary.

Pilot and Mechanics.

Pilots are grouped in three classes—transport, industrial and private. A transport pilot is authorized to fly any type of plane for any lawful purpose, and so may an industrial pilot, save that he may not fly any plane carrying passengers for hire or reward. A private pilot may not fly a registered plane carrying passengers or property for hire or reward. Mechanics are classed as engine mechanics and airplane mechanics.

Pilots must be at least 16 years of age and of good moral character, and they must pass the most exacting tests to determine their physical and mental fitness, and their experience. They may be citizens of any country.

What a pilot may and may not do with his craft when he gets it up in the air is most explicitly set forth. As with ground vehicles in this country, aircraft in meeting and passing will keep to the right, and at crossings the craft on the right shall have the right of way. A craft overtaking another shall keep out of the way of the overtaken craft by altering its course to the right, and not in the vertical plane.

Except in taking off or landing, aircraft must not be operated over the congested sections of cities, towns, or settlements except at a height to permit of a reasonably safe emergency landing, and shall not be flown over such congested areas at a height of less than 1,000 feet, or elsewhere at any height less than 500 feet. No flight at a height of less than 1,000 feet shall be made over any open air assembly of people, except by special permit, and such consent will be granted only for limited operations.

Acrobatic flying—doing stunts in the air—is not permitted over congested areas, over open air assembles, or below 2,000 feet in height over any established civil airway, or at midnight over any certified airport or landing field, or within 1,000 feet horizontally of airports or landing fields. Furthermore, there shall be no stunt flying of a registered plane that is carrying passenger for hire or reward.

At night time all planes in flight must show a green light on the right side and a red one on the left, with a white tail light.

Landing planes have right of way over those on the ground, and aircraft in distress shall be given free way in attempting to land. Distress signals are the International S. O. S. by radio, the international code flag signal, a square flag having either above or below it a ball, or anything resembling a ball, or the firing of white Very's pistol lights at short intervals.

Sciatic-Neuritis

The disease is a very obstinate one and does not readily respond to ordinary treatment. It takes more than the usual pain sedative even to alleviate the pain. The quickest, safest and surest way to get rid of the persistent nerve racking pains of Neuritis is to get a bottle of Allenrhu Special Formula No. 2, which comes in capsule form. Take them as directed and notice how in about 24 hours they have considerably reduced, if not entirely banished all pain and soreness. Continue until the Neuritis has entirely disappeared and you are able to work and rest in comfort once again. J. D. Holloway and Mathews Medicine Store keep Allenrhu Special Formula No. 2 in stock all the time and sell lots of it.

Woman of Forty Victim of Constipation

Mrs. Fannie White of Brooklyn, N. Y., writes:

"Almost every morning, for the last five years I suffered with sick headaches. I felt this was due to nervousness, never dreaming that faulty intestinal elimination caused my suffering. I felt wretched, my appetite was gone, I lost interest in preparing my meals, life was not worth living. A few days' treatment of Carter's Little Liver Pills worked wonders. They are small, easy to take—no griping—and leave pleasant after effects." For sale at all druggists.

What a pilot may and may not do with his craft when he gets it up in the air is most explicitly set forth. As with ground vehicles in this country, aircraft in meeting and passing will keep to the right, and at crossings the craft on the right shall have the right of way. A craft overtaking another shall keep out of the way of the overtaken craft by altering its course to the right, and not in the vertical plane.

Except in taking off or landing, aircraft must not be operated over the congested sections of cities, towns, or settlements except at a height to permit of a reasonably safe emergency landing, and shall not be flown over such congested areas at a height of less than 1,000 feet, or elsewhere at any height less than 500 feet. No flight at a height of less than 1,000 feet shall be made over any open air assembly of people, except by special permit, and such consent will be granted only for limited operations.

Acrobatic flying—doing stunts in the air—is not permitted over congested areas, over open air assembles, or below 2,000 feet in height over any established civil airway, or at midnight over any certified airport or landing field, or within 1,000 feet horizontally of airports or landing fields. Furthermore, there shall be no stunt flying of a registered plane that is carrying passenger for hire or reward.

At night time all planes in flight must show a green light on the right side and a red one on the left, with a white tail light.

Landing planes have right of way over those on the ground, and aircraft in distress shall be given free way in attempting to land. Distress signals are the International S. O. S. by radio, the international code flag signal, a square flag having either above or below it a ball, or anything resembling a ball, or the firing of white Very's pistol lights at short intervals.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Sciatic-Neuritis

The disease is a very obstinate one and does not readily respond to ordinary treatment. It takes more than the usual pain sedative even to alleviate the pain. The quickest, safest and surest way to get rid of the persistent nerve racking pains of Neuritis is to get a bottle of Allenrhu Special Formula No. 2, which comes in capsule form. Take them as directed and notice how in about 24 hours they have considerably reduced, if not entirely banished all pain and soreness. Continue until the Neuritis has entirely disappeared and you are able to work and rest in comfort once again. J. D. Holloway and Mathews Medicine Store keep Allenrhu Special Formula No. 2 in stock all the time and sell lots of it.

Woman of Forty Victim of Constipation

Mrs. Fannie White of Brooklyn, N. Y., writes:

"Almost every morning, for the last five years I suffered with sick headaches. I felt this was due to nervousness, never dreaming that faulty intestinal elimination caused my suffering. I felt wretched, my appetite was gone, I lost interest in preparing my meals, life was not worth living. A few days' treatment of Carter's Little Liver Pills worked wonders. They are small, easy to take—no griping—and leave pleasant after effects." For sale at all druggists.

YULETIDE MAIL RUSH EXPECTED HERE MONDAY

Extra Clerks and Carriers Report for Duty.

TRUCKS ON JOB

Postoffice Floors Will Be Cleared Every Night.

The rush of Yuletide mail at the East Liverpool postoffice is expected to begin Monday, Postmaster J. Edwin McClure said today.

In an effort to expedite deliveries during the Christmas season, arrangements have been made to place on duty five extra clerks and six extra carriers.

Extra workers will be selected from the certified list, and when these lists are exhausted, workers will be chosen among those who have made application for employment.

Two parcels post trucks are now in service. Another truck will be engaged Monday. These trucks will handle parcels post matter from both the down town and Station A offices.

Postmaster McClure has announced that the floors at the postoffice will be cleared every evening if possible. Regular clerks and carriers will remain on duty until everything has been delivered. Inasmuch as Christmas falls on Saturday there will be one delivery on Christmas morning.

Patrons of the local office have been urged to mail their Christmas cards early. Last year during the Yuletide season, approximately 51,000 pieces of mail were run through the stamp canceling machine in one day at the local postoffice. This, according to Postmaster McClure, was a new high record at the local postoffice.

AUTO DAMAGE CASES FILED

Arthur G. Hallett and Joseph D. Moore Sue.

Arthur G. Hallett, Chestnut street, has filed suit in municipal court for $35 damage done to his automobile when a mail truck, owned by Otto Singer, backed into it while it was parked in Apple alley, at the rear of the postoffice, on November 26. Hallett is represented by Attorney Frank Hoover.

Dr. Harry Frost is defendant in a suit brought by Joseph D. Moore for $25 damages alleged to have been done to his automobile when it was struck by a car driven by Frost while it was parked on Thompson avenue on October 26. Attorney Hoover also represents Moore.

The Victory Motor Sales has sued Cleve Stowers, Smiths Ferry, to collect a note for $150. Attorney Ben L. Bennett represents the plaintiff.

tion without registration, rating, and certification. Foreign aircraft, however, may not engage in interstate or intrastate air commerce.

To be registered an aircraft must be owned by a citizen of the United States, by a partnership of which each member is a citizen, by a domestic corporation officered and controlled by citizens, or by the federal, state or local governments, and it must not be registered under the laws of any other country.

Pages are devoted to the rules under which the airworthiness of aircraft is determined, and they are largely of a technical character that the laymen will not understand, but it is interesting to note that all airplanes must pass test flights in which, with full loads they take off within 1,000 feet, climb at least 250 feet the first minute after taking off, and in landing, come to a full stop without external aid within 900 feet.

Certificates of registration and airworthiness may be suspended or revoked for any violation of air law or regulations, failure to make proper and seasonable reports, making a false statement in application or reports, making unauthorized changes in equipment, or remodeling the airplane and flying it without its having been re-rated as airworthy.

Commercial aircraft must be marked conspicuously with a large capital C, governmental aircraft with the letter S, and all other registered aircraft with the letter P.

Registered planes must be given daily inspections by the owner, the result to be noted in the ship's log, and spasmodic inspections after each 100 hours of flight. Government inspectors shall have access to planes at any time or place, accidents must be reported immediately to the secretary of commerce, repairs must be inspected and approved, and the owner or operator of every registered aircraft must keep a navigation and engine log book, from which he shall make a navigation summary report every three months and transmit it in duplicate to the secretary.

Pilot and Mechanics.

Pilots are grouped in three classes—transport, industrial and private. A transport pilot is authorized to fly any type of plane for any lawful purpose, and so may an industrial pilot, save that he may not fly any plane carrying passengers for hire or reward. A private pilot may not fly a registered plane carrying passengers or property for hire or reward. Mechanics are classed as engine mechanics and airplane mechanics.

Pilots must be at least 16 years of age and of good moral character, and they must pass the most exacting tests to determine their physical and mental fitness, and their experience. They may be citizens of any country.

What a pilot may and may not do with his craft when he gets it up in the air is most explicitly set forth. As with ground vehicles in this country, aircraft in meeting and passing will keep to the right, and at crossings the craft on the right shall have the right of way. The ENTERTAINING ANGEL

By SAMUEL MERWIN

By Samuel Merwin Released Through Central Press Ass'n

CHAPTER TWENTY-SIX.

Sleep nearly came to Watt more than once, but he caught himself, made a job of it. He had no choice. And, finally, he finished it and laid it down on his slightly rounded stomach with a thoughtful frown. It wasn't so bad. The writing was surprisingly good. Fresh and pleasant. But the whole thing was merely literary. No drama. No bones. Just what you might expect from a gentle unreal soul like his dear Julian . . . He'd have to talk the thing over with him. Very carefully he'd have to do that. Think up some nice things to say.

The next day, in Los Angeles, he set about it; drew the lad aside for a walk under the trees of a splendid estate. He was thinking that if there were any justice anywhere in this topsyturvey world he, J. Murray Watt, should be the serene possessor of a park like this. God had put a splendid spaciousness into his artist soul. He hadn't been able, this morning, to resist dressing the part somewhat. He was wearing the belted-in outing coat and the white flannels, and was swinging his cane with an air. And he looked about over the painfully nutured turf, so rare in this arid land, and up at the mansion that was set back amid stately trees with approaches of curving macadam, with more than his usual magnificance. All would have been perfect, momentarily perfect, if it hadn't been for the sensitive problem in trousers walking at his side.

"My dear fellow," he was saying—he had to say it—"I had, last evening, the unexpected pleasure of reading your little play."

Julian offered no help, merely listened.

Murry Watt gave his stick a twirl, cleared his throat, and went at the difficult subject again. "Sadie intimated, dear friend, that you were so good as to express a wish for any criticisms I might be thle to give you. . . How glorious these great trees are. Live oaks, are they not?"

Julian didn't know.

"Live oaks, I think. Do you know, Julian, one of the deep regrets of my life . . . busy and varied as it has been, even at times picteresque. . . . is that the exacting nature of my professional work has given me litte time to observe nature. . . . But we were speaking of your play. As for criticisms, it is a pleasure to be able to say that I have almost none to offer."

A smile flitted across the sensitive face.

The director cleared his throat again, then abruptly pointed with his stick. "My dear friend, did you ever see such roses! And the scent! Exquisite! . . . As I believe you know, my life has been spent in the theater. And spent is indeed the word. Art is, as has been said, an exacting mistress. Forty years of it I have had, man and boy. And though obscure circumstances, it has not always been so. It has been my privilege to touch high spots at times. Yes, exalted spots. Many of the most famous modern playwrights have been my friends Pinero . . . there is the master craftsman! I knew Pinero. . . . But your play. Let me tell you that your touch amazed me. My dear Julian . . . and in all humility I say it . . . . you are a writer. Yes, I make that statement without qualification. You are a writer. Your dialogue flows with remarkable ease and delicacy. Your though is fine. It is true, of course, that a play . . . well, a play . . . . ah, we have a problem there! A play, you know . . . . it is an old saying . . . is not so much written as rewritten. I would put it even more strongly than that. A play is not so much written as built. A play must have bones and teeth. If I felt one slight weakness in your work, it is . . . well, I might best couch it in the general truth that the characters of the theater must be delineated with the utmost sharpness and vigor. There is so little time. Almost at once your audience must be caught and held. Held as in a vice. There must, from the moment of their appearance, be sympathy for your hero or your heroine. You cannot risk a moment's confusion on that point. Sympathy there must be. Always sympathy. There is no time to play at cross-purpose there. And for your opposing force—your villain, your heavy, call him what you will—there must be fear and hatred. That, you will readily understand, is in order to establish your conflict. It goes without saying that if you forego the conflict you've no play at all."

"Then you felt . . . ."

The thought crept into the spacious mind that perhaps all this was bearing down a bit heavily. There was no enthusiasm in Julian's voice. "Dear friend, you must not misunderstand me! Your play exhibits remarkable promise, extraordinary promise. I am proud of you for writing it. Proud, indeed, sir, to know you, to realize that we have walked and talked together, that it is my privilege to address you as my partner. You have . . . . and from the bottom of my heart I thank you for giving me a glimpse of it . . a finely creative mind. I was merely speaking of the different problems of the playwright. Conflict, I think I can say, is drama. Per se. Yes, per se. Conflict in the large. Strong primitive emotions clashing one upon another. That is what we call action. The more delicate problems of character, the sensitive struggle of the spirit, find a more natural outlet in the novel. For they do not lend themselves to what we call action. And action . . . ah, there you have it; . . . action makes the play. Action, arising out of primitive conflict, there you have drama! A play, dear friend . . . and I feel sure you will pardon the expression, uncouth though it may be . . . The blow must be struck, the shot fired, the woman wronged, the theft committed . . . passion must rise, creating excitement and suspense. The thing must live, move, sweep up into the climax."

"But . . ."

"Don't misunderstand me, dear friend. I have been immensely struck with your play. Without question, I would send it East to be read. An agent could help you there. Any of the established play-brokers. Send it to the American Play Company or Alice Kauser or Carl Jones. Their advice will be sound. I cannot tell you how I regret that the Wayside Theater is so sharply limited to the field of one-act plays."

"Oh, I hadn't thought of it for you."

Was there a faintly dry note in the quiet voice? The director wasn't quite sure.

"I wrote it for Hester."

He had blurted it out. But he could say no more. Indeed, his tell-tale lips were now clamped tight. Still, he didn't care. It was the truth.

"Indeed! She is a fortunate girl. And, I may say, a girl of unquestionable talent. Her life has not been altogether happy. She has not progressed as she should. But I feel no hesitation in saying that given the right opportunity . . . and more than you can possibly know, dear friend, the career of the actor hangs upon opportunity." He sighed. "She might well go far. What beautiful flowers! Could you tell me what they are, those climbing shrubs?"

Julian shook his head.

The spacious one sighed again. "Opportunity. Chance. These control the actor. Why, when I was leading man with Modjeska . . . ."

"Will you give the script back to me?" asked Julian, darkly.

"Indeed, yes." Watt was now fully aware of a sense of depression in the sunlit atmosphere about them. The uncomfortable thought came—and would not be downed—that he hadn't handled the business particularly well. Perhaps he had worked irreperable harm. Once again he sighed. "I cannot impress on you too strongly my enthusiasm over your deft touch and your feeling for the more delicate nuances of character. Your people live. I know them. In the flesh I know them. I sincerely trust that you will follow my perhaps somewhat officious advice and send the script to one of the established agencies."

"I've already done that," said Julian.

"Indeed! Now that is . . ."

"The boys are setting up. I'm afraid Jim may be needing me. If you don't mind . . ."

"Dear friend, I cannot express to you how deeply your spirit of simple friendliness . . ."

But Julian walked away.

Many of the most famous modern playwrights have been my friends Pinero . . . there is the master craftsman! I knew Pinero. . . But your play. Let me tell you that your touch amazed me. My dear Julian . . . and in all humility I say it . . . . you are a writer. Yes, I make that statement without qualification. You are a writer. Your dialogue flows with remarkable ease and delicacy. Your though is fine. It is true, of course, that a play . . . well, a play . . . . ah, we have a problem there! A play, you know . . . . it is an old saying . . . is not so much written as rewritten. I would put it even more strongly than that. A play is not so much written as built. A play must have bones and teeth. If I felt one slight weakness in your work, it is . . . well, I might best couch it in the general truth that the characters of the theater must be delineated with the utmost sharpness and vigor. There is so little time. Almost at once your audience must be caught and held. Held as in a vice. There must, from the moment of their appearance, be sympathy for your hero or your heroine. You cannot risk a moment's confusion on that point. Sympathy there must be. Always sympathy. There is no time to play at cross-purpose there. And for your opposing force—your villain, your heavy, call him what you will—there must be fear and hatred. That, you will readily understand, is in order to establish your conflict. It goes without saying that if you forego the conflict you've no play at all."

"Then you felt . . . ."

The thought crept into the spacious mind that perhaps all this was bearing down a bit heavily. There was no enthusiasm in Julian's voice. "Dear friend, you must not misunderstand me! Your play exhibits remarkable promise, extraordinary promise. I am proud of you for writing it. Proud, indeed, sir, to know you, to realize that we have walked and talked together, that it is my privilege to address you as my partner. You have . . . . and from the bottom of my heart I thank you for giving me a glimpse of it . . a finely creative mind. I was merely speaking of the different problems of the playwright. Conflict, I think I can say, is drama. Per se. Yes, per se. Conflict in the large. Strong primitive emotions clashing one upon another. That is what we call action. The more delicate problems of character, the sensitive struggle of the spirit, find a more natural outlet in the novel. For they do not lend themselves to what we call action. And action . . . ah, there you have it; . . . action makes the play. Action, arising out of primitive conflict, there you have drama! A play, dear friend . . . and I feel sure you will pardon the expression, uncouth though it may be . . . The blow must be struck, the shot fired, the woman wronged, the theft committed . . . passion must rise, creating excitement and suspense. The thing must live, move, sweep up into the climax."

"But . . ."

"Don't misunderstand me, dear friend. I have been immensely struck with your play. Without question, I would send it East to be read. An agent could help you there. Any of the established play-brokers. Send it to the American Play Company or Alice Kauser or Carl Jones. Their advice will be sound. I cannot tell you how I regret that the Wayside Theater is so sharply limited to the field of one-act plays."

"Oh, I hadn't thought of it for you."

Was there a faintly dry note in the quiet voice? The director wasn't quite sure.

"I wrote it for Hester."

He had blurted it out. But he could say no more. Indeed, his tell-tale lips were now clamped tight. Still, he didn't care. It was the truth.

"Indeed! She is a fortunate girl. And, I may say, a girl of unquestionable talent. Her life has not been altogether happy. She has not progressed as she should. But I feel no hesitation in saying that given the right opportunity . . . and more than you can possibly know, dear friend, the career of the actor hangs upon opportunity." He sighed. "She might well go far. What beautiful flowers! Could you tell me what they are, those climbing shrubs?"

Julian shook his head.

The spacious one sighed again. "Opportunity. Chance. These control the actor. Why, when I was leading man with Modjeska . . . ."

"Will you give the script back to me?" asked Julian, darkly.

"Indeed, yes." Watt was now fully aware of a sense of depression in the sunlit atmosphere about them. The uncomfortable thought came—and would not be downed—that he hadn't handled the business particularly well. Perhaps he had worked irreparable harm. Once again he sighed. "I cannot impress on you too strongly my enthusiasm over your deft touch and your feeling for the more delicate nuances of character. Your people live. I know them. In the flesh I know them. I sincerely trust that you will follow my perhaps somewhat officious advice and send the script to one of the established agencies."

"I've already done that," said Julian.

"Indeed! Now that is . . ."

"The boys are setting up. I'm afraid Jim may be needing me. If you don't mind . . ."

"Dear friend, I cannot express to you how deeply your spirit of simple friendliness . . ."

But Julian walked away.

The ENTERTAINING ANGEL

SAMUEL MERWIN

©By Samuel Merwin Released Through Central Press Ass'n

CHAPTER TWENTY-SIX.

Sleep nearly came to Watt more than once, but he caught himself, made a job of it. He had no choice. And, finally, he finished it and laid it down on his slightly rounded stomach with a thoughtful frown. It wasn t so bad. The writing was surprisingly good. Fresh and pleasant. But the whole thing was merely literary. No drama. No bones. Just what you might expect from a gentle unreal soul like his dear Julian . . . He'd have to talk the thing over with him. Very carefully he'd have to do that. Think up some nice things to say.

The next day, in Los Angeles, he set about it; drew the lad aside for a walk under the trees of a splendid estate. He was thinking that if there were any justice anywhere in this topsyturvey world he, J. Murray Watt, should be the serene possessor of a park like this. God had put a splendid spaciousness into his artist soul. He hadn't been able, this morning, to resist dressing the part somewhat. He was wearing the belted-in outing coat and the white flannels, and was swinging his cane with an air. And he looked about over the painfully nutured turf, so rare in this arid land, and up at the mansion that was set back amid stately trees with approaches of curving macadam, with more than his usual magnificance. All would have been perfect, momentarily perfect, if it hadn't been for the sensitive problem in trousers walking at his side.

"My dear fellow," he was saying—he had to say it—"I had, last evening, the unexpected pleasure of reading your little play."

Julian offered no help, merely listened.

Murry Watt gave his stick a twirl, cleared his throat, and went at the difficult subject again. "Sadie intimated, dear friend, that you were so good as to express a wish for any criticisms I might be thle to give you. . . How glorious these great trees are. Live oaks, are they not?"

Julian didn't know.

"Live oaks, I think. Do you know, Julian, one of the deep regrets of my life . . . busy and varied as it has been, even at times picteresque. . . . is that the exacting nature of my professional work has given me litte time to observe nature. . . . But we were speaking of your play. As for criticisms, it is a pleasure to be able to say that I have almost none to offer."

A smile flitted across the sensitive face.

The director cleared his throat again, then abruptly pointed with his stick. "My dear friend, did you ever see such roses! And the scent! Exquisite! . . . As I believe you know, my life has been spent in the theater. And spent is indeed the word. Art is, as has been said, an exacting mistress. Forty years of it I have had, man and boy. And though obscure circumstances, it has not always been so. It has been my privilege to touch high spots at times. Yes, exalted spots. Many of the most famous modern playwrights have been my friends Pinero . . . there is the master craftsman! I knew Pinero. . . But your play. Let me tell you that your touch amazed me. JAPANESE EMPEROR, NEAR DEATH, RALLIES SLIGHTLY

YOSHIHITO'S FEVER DROPS, PULSE LOWER

Condition of Tokio Ruler Still Extremely Grave.

GIVEN STIMULANT

American Ambassador Calls at Hayama Palace.

TOKIO, Dec. 15.—Emperor Yoshihito, near death from an attack of bronchial pneumonia, rallied slightly today. The latest bulletin issued by physicians at Hayama disclosed his fever has subsided somewhat and his pulse and respiration are lower.

His condition is still considered extremely grave, however, and six physicians are in constant attendance. The emperor is still being given artificial stimulants.

Fall-Doheny Case

"I knew Warren G. Harding. He was my personal friend. I deeply regret they have descrated his tomb by bringing forth his shroud to cover up this infamous transaction."

Reading a letter from Fall to Doheny under date of July in 1923, months before start of any negotiations, in which Fall advised his friend he had been given control of the naval oil reserves by presidential order, Pomerene commented:

"Of all the people interested, Fall picked Mr. Doheny—Doheny, rich as Croesus—to give him this interesting information, why?"

The government counsel referred to Fall and Doheny, respectively, as "the one master mind" for the government and the Pan-American company in the oil deals.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—The Fall-Doheny conspiracy trial entered its final day with defense counsel still undertaking, by fact and sheer oratory, to convince the jury that the former secretary of the interior and E. L. Doheny are innocent of defrauding the government of an immense tract of naval oil land.

Frank J. Hogan, fiery defense orator, was still on his feet, gyrating before the jury box and demanding exoneration, as the day's session opened.

Hogan brought five hours of argument, in which he had run the gamut of the emotions, to a close by quoting what John McCormick, the tenor, had said of Doheny.

"I only hope that I may live my life so that when I have reached his age I may deserve his reputation as a citizen and a patriot."

"Gentlemen," Hogan continued, "I hope before today's sun sets you will return to your homes and loved ones and I ask you to send these two old men back to their homes and loved ones."

$100,000 Clean Money, Claim.

Minus the flowery oratory of Hogan, and in a low, but sincere voice Thompson traced the career of the former cabinet officer in the southwest.

Speaking of the $100,000 loan Doheny made to Fall, which the government claims was a bribe, Thompson said:

"That was the cleanest money that ever changed hands—changed from one life-time friend to another."

Thompson condemned the whole trial as an outgrowth of partisan politics.

SANTA CLAUS' WORKSHOP IN NEW ENGLAND

1,455 EMPLOYED

Public Demand for High Quality Goods is Met.

WINCHENDON, Mass. — Santa Claus' workshop, which mythology has long told us was a busy hive of industry in the far-away frozen north, somewhere near the North Pole, where his eight handsome reindeer gambol the year round on a blanket of snow, has finally been found.

It is not in the far north, unless perchance there is a subsidiary shop maintained in territory adjacent to the "garage" where old St. Nick conceals his sleighs and reindeer until the "night before Christmas."

The main plant of Santa Claus' toy making industry has its headquarters in the busy community of Winchendon where a major part of the $6,000,000 worth of the contents of St. Nick's Christmas bag, manufactured in the Bay State, are turned out.

The factory here gives employment to 1,455 workers the year round, although sales of the product in December far exceed those of any other months in the year, and total close to 80 percent.

In anticipation of the greatest Christmas business of any year in the past decade, the local industry has been unusually busy during the last 12 months. The public demand for goods of a higher quality than ever before has been met in the toy industry as well as in all lines that prosper through the Christmas trading.

The variety of toys this year is the greatest ever and there is a wide variation in their size and value.

Dolls and toys manufactured in branch shops of old St. Nicholas in foreign lands are shipped across the seas to the American boys and girls in quantities which at Boston alone amounts to a quarter of a million dollars worth annually.

The jewelry business, another New England industry in which Santa takes an active interest, has also experienced a busy year. Diamonds, of course are a staple gift, while strings of pearls can be increased from year to year, but the styles of jewelry are constantly changing and new novelties added from time to time.

Money from Europe.

"Whereas prior to the world war the United States was a debtor nation and found it necessary to export to Europe many hundred thousands of dollars in interest on loans and investments and in profits each year, today exactly the reverse condition is taking place.

"As a creditor nation, the United States no longer is obliged to export large sums to Europe in settlement of its borrowings, but receives large and evergrowing sums from Europe in settlement of, and on account of, its loans.

Their home and all their belongings destroyed by fire Sunday night, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Dallas and five children, of Freedom, Pa., former residents of this city, have taken temporary quarters with Mrs. Dallas' parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Hood, of Sofia street.

The Dallas home was swept by flames while Mrs. Dallas and their baby were visiting at her parents' home here.

The father and the other four children, who were at home at the time, were almost trapped as the fire, originating from undetermined cause in the basement, rapidly spread through the home.

Dallas and the youngsters, however, escaped through a first floor bedroom window.

Mrs. Dallas, prior to her marriage, was Miss Byrdie Hood. The family had been preparing to move back to East Liverpool.

BRITAIN WARNS AGAINST MINE INDUSTRY RUIN

King's Speech Read as He Prorogues Parliament.

STRIKE IS HIT

Stresses Situation Created by Coal Tie-up.

By H. K. Reynolds.

LONDON, Dec. 15.—Great Britain has lived for the greatest part of the year "in the shadow of the most protracted and ruinous industrial conflict in its history" and now the nation must set its eyes "steadfastly on the future" sand King George in his speech proroguing parliament today.

The king did not attend parliament personally but members of both houses assembled in the house of lords and heard the speech read. Most of the king's speech was devoted to domestic affairs, stressing chiefly the situation created by the coal strike.

"During the great part of the year," said the king, "we have lived in the shadow of the most protracted and ruinous industrial conflict in our history.

"When last addressing you I expressed the earnest hope that the report of the commissioners upon economic conditions in the coal industry would, with the willing co-operation of all concerned, pave the way to a solution of this great social and economical problem. This hope was not fulfilled.

"It remains to us now to unite in effacing all bitter memories of the past and to set our eyes steadfastly upon the future, inspired by a common impulse toward's genuine fellowship and sustained endeavor."

Referring to the Chinese situation the king said that affairs in China are being watched with the closest attention and that "our country is animated by a strong sympathy for that vast majority of Chinese people whose aspirations are for settled conditions and for a new era of prosperity and friendly relations with foreign powers."

Fall-Doheny Case

"I knew Warren G. Harding. He was my personal friend. I deeply regret they have descrated his tomb by bringing forth his shroud to cover up this infamous transaction."

Reading a letter from Fall to Doheny under date of July in 1923, months before start of any negotiations, in which Fall advised his friend he had been given control of the naval oil reserves by presidential order, Pomerene commented:

"Of all the people interested, Fall picked Mr. Doheny—Doheny, rich as Croesus—to give him this interesting information, why?"

The government counsel referred to Fall and Doheny, respectively, as "the one master mind" for the government and the Pan-American company in the oil deals.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—The Fall-Doheny conspiracy trial entered its final day with defense counsel still undertaking, by fact and sheer oratory, to convince the jury that the former secretary of the interior and E. L. Doheny are innocent of defrauding the government of an immense tract of naval oil land.

Frank J. Hogan, fiery defense orator, was still on his feet, gyrating before the jury box and demanding exoneration, as the day's session opened.

Hogan brought five hours of argument, in which he had run the gamut of the emotions, to a close by quoting what John McCormick, the tenor, had said of Doheny.

"I only hope that I may live my life so that when I have reached his age I may deserve his reputation as a citizen and a patriot."

"Gentlemen," Hogan continued, "I hope before today's sun sets you will return to your homes and loved ones and I ask you to send these two old men back to their homes and loved ones."

$100,000 Clean Money, Claim.

Minus the flowery oratory of Hogan, and in a low, but sincere voice Thompson traced the career of the former cabinet officer in the southwest.

Speaking of the $100,000 loan Doheny made to Fall, which the government claims was a bribe, Thompson said:

"That was the cleanest money that ever changed hands—changed from one life-time friend to another."

Thompson condemned the whole trial as an outgrowth of partisan politics.

BRITAIN WARNS AGAINST MINE INDUSTRY RUIN

King's Speech Read as He Prorogues Parliament.

STRIKE IS HIT

Stresses Situation Created by Coal Tie-up.

By H. K. Reynolds.

LONDON, Dec. 15.—Great Britain has lived for the greatest part of the year "in the shadow of the most protracted and ruinous industrial conflict in its history" and now the nation must set its eyes "steadfastly on the future" sand King George in his speech proroguing parliament today.

The king did not attend parliament personally but members of both houses assembled in the house of lords and heard the speech read. Most of the king's speech was devoted to domestic affairs, stressing chiefly the situation created by the coal strike.

"During the great part of the year," said the king, "we have lived in the shadow of the most protracted and ruinous industrial conflict in our history.

"When last addressing you I expressed the earnest hope that the report of the commissioners upon economic conditions in the coal industry would, with the willing co-operation of all concerned, pave the way to a solution of this great social and economical problem. This hope was not fulfilled.

"It remains to us now to unite in effacing all bitter memories of the past and to set our eyes steadfastly upon the future, inspired by a common impulse toward's genuine fellowship and sustained endeavor."

Referring to the Chinese situation the king said that affairs in China are being watched with the closest attention and that "our country is animated by a strong sympathy for that vast majority of Chinese people whose aspirations are for settled conditions and for a new era of prosperity and friendly relations with foreign powers."

"I knew Warren G. Harding. He was my personal friend. I deeply regret they have descrated his tomb by bringing forth his shroud to cover up this infamous transaction."

Reading a letter from Fall to Doheny under date of July in 1923, months before start of any negotiations, in which Fall advised his friend he had been given control of the naval oil reserves by presidential order, Pomerene commented:

"Of all the people interested, Fall picked Mr. Doheny—Doheny, rich as Croesus—to give him this interesting information, why?"

The government counsel referred to Fall and Doheny, respectively, as "the one master mind" for the government and the Pan-American company in the oil deals.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—The Fall-Doheny conspiracy trial entered its final day with defense counsel still undertaking, by fact and sheer oratory, to convince the jury that the former secretary of the interior and E. L. Doheny are innocent of defrauding the government of an immense tract of naval oil land.

Frank J. Hogan, fiery defense orator, was still on his feet, gyrating before the jury box and demanding exoneration, as the day's session opened.

Hogan brought five hours of argument, in which he had run the gamut of the emotions, to a close by quoting what John McCormick, the tenor, had said of Doheny.

"I only hope that I may live my life so that when I have reached his age I may deserve his reputation as a citizen and a patriot."

"Gentlemen," Hogan continued, "I hope before today's sun sets you will return to your homes and loved ones and I ask you to send these two old men back to their homes and loved ones."

$100,000 Clean Money, Claim.

Minus the flowery oratory of Hogan, and in a low, but sincere voice Thompson traced the career of the former cabinet officer in the southwest.

Speaking of the $100,000 loan Doheny made to Fall, which the government claims was a bribe, Thompson said:

"That was the cleanest money that ever changed hands—changed from one life-time friend to another."

Thompson condemned the whole trial as an outgrowth of partisan politics.

SANTA CLAUS' WORKSHOP IN NEW ENGLAND

1,455 EMPLOYED

Public Demand for High Quality Goods is Met.

WINCHENDON, Mass. — Santa Claus' workshop, which mythology has long told us was a busy hive of industry in the far-away frozen north, somewhere near the North Pole, where his eight handsome reindeer gambol the year round on a blanket of snow, has finally been found.

It is not in the far north, unless perchance there is a subsidiary shop maintained in territory adjacent to the "garage" where old St. Nick conceals his sleighs and reindeer until the "night before Christmas."

The main plant of Santa Claus' toy making industry has its headquarters in the busy community of Winchendon where a major part of the $6,000,000 worth of the contents of St. Nick's Christmas bag, manufactured in the Bay State, are turned out.

The factory here gives employment to 1,455 workers the year round, although sales of the product in December far exceed those of any other months in the year, and total close to 80 percent.

In anticipation of the greatest Christmas business of any year in the past decade, the local industry has been unusually busy during the last 12 months. The public demand for goods of a higher quality than ever before has been met in the toy industry as well as in all lines that prosper through the Christmas trading.

The variety of toys this year is the greatest ever and there is a wide variation in their size and value.

Dolls and toys manufactured in branch shops of old St. Nicholas in foreign lands are shipped across the seas to the American boys and girls in quantities which at Boston alone amounts to a quarter of a million dollars worth annually.

The jewelry business, another New England industry in which Santa takes an active interest, has also experienced a busy year. Diamonds, of course are a staple gift, while strings of pearls can be increased from year to year, but the styles of jewelry are constantly changing and new novelties added from time to time.

is the steady recovery of Europe and the increasing flow of funds from Europe and other foreign lands to the United States. This is one of the important and profound effects of the changed relationship of the United States with the rest of the world.

Money from Europe.

"Whereas prior to the world war the United States was a debtor nation and found it necessary to export to Europe many hundred thousands of dollars in interest on loans and investments and in profits each year, today exactly the reverse condition is taking place.

"As a creditor nation, the United States no longer is obliged to export large sums to Europe in settlement of its borrowings, but receives large and evergrowing sums from Europe in settlement of, and on account of, its loans.

"It is this factor, which is each year growing more important, which tends to assure a permanent supply of available capital to the United States, even in times of unsettlement and doubt."

20 KNOWN DEAD AS COLD WAVE MOVES ON EAST

Relief is Promised Northern Middle Section.

POOR SUFFERING

CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—With 20 known dead in the record cold wave that holds the northern middle section of the country in its grip, relief was promised today in the government report which states that a moderating wave has started in the Pacific northwest and should reach this section not later than tomorrow. The cold wave was stretching eastward today.

Meanwhile Chicago and vast areas of the plain states suffer as they have not suffered in years, principally because the sub zero temperature, unusual at this season of the year, spread over the section without warning and caught many people unprepared.

Relief agencies were kept busy throughout the city administering to the poor. Many families were caught without fuel, not to mention food and winter clothing. Police and fire stations extended their warmth to hundreds of men and boys without work or homes, transients in the city.

Minnesota was the coldest spot in the country, with the mercury at International Falls touching 38 degrees below zero. Suffering was widespread over the affected area. Trains were running late and highways over the country were blocked by the drifting snow.

According to the weather report today, the front of the cold wave has extended to the North Atlantic states and will be felt there with greatest intensity tonight and tomorrow. The wave of moderation, following the course of the cold wave, will not bring relief to the eastern states for several days, it was said.

20 KNOWN DEAD AS COLD WAVE MOVES ON EAST

Relief is Promised Northern Middle Section.

POOR SUFFERING

Mercury Touches 38 Degrees Below Zero in Minnesota.

CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—With 20 known dead in the record cold wave that holds the northern middle section of the country in its grip, relief was promised today in the government report which states that a moderating wave has started in the Pacific northwest and should reach this section not later than tomorrow. The cold wave was stretching eastward today.

Meanwhile Chicago and vast areas of the plain states suffer as they have not suffered in years, principally because the sub zero temperature, unusual at this season of the year, spread over the section without warning and caught many people unprepared.

Relief agencies were kept busy throughout the city administering to the poor. Many families were caught without fuel, not to mention food and winter clothing. Police and fire stations extended their warmth to hundreds of men and boys without work or homes, transients in the city.

Minnesota was the coldest spot in the country, with the mercury at International Falls touching 38 degrees below zero. Suffering was widespread over the affected area. Trains were running late and highways over the country were blocked by the drifting snow.

According to the weather report today, the front of the cold wave has extended to the North Atlantic states and will be felt there with greatest intensity tonight and tomorrow. The wave of moderation, following the course of the cold wave, will not bring relief to the eastern states for several days, it was said.

The tunnel kilns, with which the plant is equipped, have been overhauled by the patentees.

The plant was purchased by Daniel and Kress Cronin about two months ago at a receiver's sale for $46.000. It was previously operated by the Chelsea China company, which went into the hands of receivers more than a year ago.

The plant will be manager by Kress Kronin, who has been connected with the Standard Pottery company here.

WELLSVILLE VOTES TO PURCHASE NEW FIRE TRUCK

SOLONS FAVOR SEAGRAVES CAR BID OF $12,500

Ballot, 4 to 3, for Immediate Action on Plan.

FIREMEN O. K. IT

Next Step Will be Issuance of Necessary Bonds.

The Seagraves make of pumper fire truck, favored as a necessary piece of equipment for the Wellsville fire department by 19 of the 20 volunteer and regular firemen who voted secretly on the proposal last Sunday night, and said to be the type wanted by citizens, according to Mayor W. L. Fogo, last night was selected for purchase by the city at a meeting of councilmen.

The solons voted, 4 to 3, for immediate action on the truck proposal after Safety-Service George P. Ashley had asked for a week's delay on the decision.

Representatives of the Seagraves, the American La France and the Ahrens-Fox companies were present.

The fire truck problem was introduced to council by Director Ashley who announced: "We'll need $12,500 to buy the pumper. I wouldn't care to mention one tonight. I rode in one today and I don't see where you could get a better engine and its construction is first class. I would suggest that we wait a few days before we name the car, although you can start legislation tonight."

Solons, who apparently had been expecting a decision, conferred a few moments and then Councilman Nicholson made a motion that the truck be named immediately. The motion was seconded by Swearingen and carried.

Director Ashley then said: "You are forcing me to do something I don't want to do. I may name a car that I don't know anything about. We had one here, but I don't think it's the one we want."

"Let's settle it tonight," proposed Mayor Fogo.

"I've been forced to say Seagraves," announced Director Ashley, "but I don't want it. The American La France, in my opinion, is a better machine."

Mayor Fogo addressed council briefly. "City firemen were consulted Sunday night. Twenty of them voted and 19 out of the 20 favored the Seagraves and a majority of council favor the same type. The people want the Seagraves. It will be Seagraves."

At this juncture, council permitted representatives of the three automobile firms to discuss the merits of their respective machines.

Following their talks, several members of the legislative body favored a delay in selecting the car, pending demonstrations by the other companies. In order to bring the issue to a head, Solon Heldman, seconded by Reil, moved that council issue bonds for the purchase of a Seagraves truck. Members McLean, Connor and Peters cast negative votes, while Reil, Heldman, Swearingen and Nicholson voted affirmatively, the majority being sufficient to carry the motion.

Salineville Men's Bible Class Holds Business Session

Regular business was transacted which was followed by games and music as the diversions. Luncheon was served to the following members: Rev. W. S. Martin, Oliver Ashbaugh, Clifford Randolph, William Eason, John McCollough, Charles Johnson, Vincent Johnson, Allen Maple, Paul, James and Blain Patterson and Walter Henderson.

Funeral services for William Smith, aged 68, were held this afternoon in the home, conducted by Rev. A. M. Jenkins, pastor of the Church of Christ. He is survived by his wife who was formerly Miss Harriet Holt, and six children, Mrs. W. E. Schubert, William Smith, Jr., Mrs. J. B. McNicol, Mrs. R. C. Starkey, Joseph Smith, all of Salineville; Mrs. E. F. Crookston, Massillon.

He is also survived by one sister, Mrs. Wilson Green, Salineville, and one brother, Ernest Smith, of Alliance. He is survived by 14 grandchildren.

Burial was made in the Woodland cemetery.

The Music Makers, of East Liverpool, gave an interesting musical entertainment on Monday evening in the Presbyterian church for the benefit of the new pipe organ fund.

Mrs. Louis Walters has concluded a visit with her daughter, Mrs. Walter Ketchum, in Wellsville.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pinney, of Chester, have returned after a visit with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Anderson.

Mrs. Arthur Tolson and daughter, Grace, were East Liverpool visitors Tuesday.

Homer Falcon, who has been seriously ill for a number of weeks, is recovering.

Mrs. Clyde Blazy is recovering from a recent illness.

ENDOWMENT PLAN PROPOSED

City May Act to Obtain Cemetery Fund.

Asserting that he had investigated the city of East Liverpool's plan for the endowment of Riverview cemetery and had found that the arrangement had been successful in compiling a considerable amount of money for the operation of the burial plot, Mayor W. L. Fogo discussed endowment of Spring Hill cemetery along similar lines at last night's council meeting.

His remarks supplemented his talk on the cemetery endowment plan that he had delivered at a previous session of council. It is probable than an ordinance will be introduced at the next meeting.

Residents of Twenty-first street recently petitioned council to take action toward the establishment of a street car stop at Twenty-first street. In a letter from the car company, officials of the concern pointed out that if a stop were established at Twenty-first street, it would result in a flood of petitions from other sections along the line and it would be impossible to meet them all. Everything possible is being done to perfect the service, the company pointed.

An ordinance granting the Standard Oil company to lay a pipe line to connect with their proposed new station at the corner of Third and Lisbon streets, was referred back to the company for slight alterations.

STAGE IS SET FOR SCACCUTO MURDER TRIAL

Wellsville Man Will go on Trial Monday Morning.

SUMMON JURORS

Charged With Slaying of Patrolman Kenney.

With 70 of the 75 jurors whose names were recently drawn from the jury wheel, having been served with subpoenas in the case of the state of Ohio against Nick Scaccuto, of Wellsville, charged with murder in the first degree, in connection with the death of Patrolman James Kenney, the stage is practically set for the trial which will be heard by Judge David H. Thomas in common pleas court No. 2 next Monday. Five of the jurors drawn are out of the county.

It is intimated that the state will call between 15 and 20 witnesses. Summonses will be served on witnesses by Sheriff George Wright and Deputies Lawrence Kindsvatter and Edward J. Fitzgerald late this week.

Unless there is an unusual number of witnesses challenged for cause, a jury should be sworn by Tuesday noon. In this event the jury will be taken to Wellsville Tuesday afternoon to view the location and vicinity where Patrolman Kenney was slain, and the taking of testimony should begin Wednesday morning. Perhaps two days will be required to hear the evidence.

The state will be represented by Prosecuting Attorney Robert M. Brookes and his assistant, John E. Bauknecht, while the defense will be in charge of Attorney W. A. O'Grady of Wellsville and George T. Farrell and William E. Moore of Lisbon.

MRS. WOOLWEAVER IS CLUB HOSTESS

Mrs. E. S. Woolweaver was hostess to members of the Il'Laguilla club last evening at her home in Main street.

Fancywork and bridge were diversions. A two-course luncheon was served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. E. S. Noble and Miss Elizabeth McKenzie, at six attractively arranged tables. Small Christmas baskets, filled with candy, were given as favors.

LADIES OF ELKS ARRANGE PARTY

Arrangements have been completed for the entertainment to be held tomorrow night by Ladies of the Elks in the lodge home in Riverside avenue. The affair will be in charge of the officers of the organization.

CHEST CLINIC HERE TODAY

Visiting Specialists Will Diagnose Cases.

Under the direction of Dr. E. E. Kirkwood, of Youngstown, and Dr. Frank, representative of the state board of health, Wellsville's first chest clinic is being held today in the First Christian church here.

Dr. Frank is taking the place of Dr. F. C. Anderson, of the Mt. Vernon sanitarium, who was unable to appear here.

The chest clinic here is the 102nd of a series that is being conducted throughout the state.

CLUB WILL ERECT CHRISTMAS TREE

Kiwanis club members today announced preparation will be completed within the next few days for the erection of the huge pine tree beneath which the local organization will hold its annual Christmas celebration.

A permanent socket, constructed by the Fasset Boiler Works and the Stevenson company has been installed in the middle of Fourth street, just off Main between Main and Riverside, in which the tree will be placed. When the tree is removed after Christmas the socket will be capped with a metal lid and will be ready for use again next year. The socket makes unnecessary the task of tearing up bricks every year.

CLASS PLANNING JUVENILE PARTY

Arrangements have been completed for the juvenile party which will be held by members of the Delta Alpha Sunday school class of the First Christian church on Friday evening at the home of Mrs. R. Beymer, 319 Eleventh street.

THE Bible says the Sabbath was made for man. Why not allow him to enjoy it in any respectable way? There is nothing to indicate that in heaven the angels once every seven days are compelled to sit around, boring themselves.

Charges "Whitewash" In State Probe of Student Poisonings

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 15.—Charges that the state investigation of conditions at Ohio State university which resulted, about two years ago, in the death of David I. Puskin, Canton, and Charles H. Huls, Logan, and the serious illness of the other students, due to strychnine poisoning, was "a whitewash" was made here today by A. E. Huls, Logan, father of Charles Huls.

The accusation was voiced by Huls, a job printer, when he appeared before the state emergncy board in support of a claim for approximately $15,000 as alleged damages because of his son's death.

Aviators End Duck Plague.

Machine guns mounted on airplanes routed swarms of ducks that were becoming a plague in parts of England recently. The birds had multiplied so rapidly that they threatened to do great damage. Beaters were sent through the feeding grounds, and as the ducks rose the aviators followed and shot them with the machine guns.

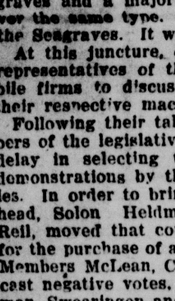
WASHINGTON STEWART'S LETTER

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—Prospects of a special session of congress next spring are promising—or threatening, from the standpoint of President Coolidge and the regular Republicans generally.



PRES. COOLIDGE

If there's a special session it will be a special session, not of the present congress, but of the new one—the 70th.

This latter body is likely to be a perfect pest to the administration, the regular Republicans having lost control of the senate to the insurgents and Democrats, between them, provided they pull together.

The regulars want to stave the nuisance off as long as possible—until December, 1927. The opposition wants to start trouble early in the spring and keep it up all summer.

THERE'S just one thing the administration can't do without. Everything else can go by the board, at the cost of inconvenience and annoyance, perhaps, but not to the tune of actual disaster.

The vitally essential thing is:

If the appropriation bills pass this winter the regulars can give the extra session folk the ha, ha. Otherwise the president will have to call one, no matter how much he hates it.

THE fight on the right of William S. Vare of Pennsylvania and Frank L. Smith, of Illinois, to senate seats when the 70th congress meets is what hints at a tie-up of all other business until that row's settled.

Other cases are before the senate campaign expenses committee, but those are the two prize controversies.

The group which wants to speed proceedings up says:

"Vare and Smith were elected to the 70th congress. Their fate is none of this senate's business."

The group which prefers delay answers:

"They'll go on the payroll as soon as the 69th congress adjourns unless this senate prevents it. We mean to do it."

IT'S a new point and a complicated one, which adapts it admirably to time killing tactics.

On paper, against Vare and Smith there ought to be 42 Democratic votes, the vote of Senator Shipstead, Farmer-Laborite, and the votes of Senators Frazier, LaFollette, Norris and Nye, insurgent Republicans. Total 47.

On paper, for Vare and Smith there ought to be 48 regular Republicans—counting the late Senator McKinley's seat as vacant — or a skimpy majority.

The Democrats may not hold quite their solid vote, however. Senator Blease, for instance, is doubtful, on the state right's ground that he doesn't believe in butting into Pennsylvania's and Illinois' elections. Senator LaFollette, too, is ill and may not be here this session. And the Republicans, besides the out-and-out insurgents, are uncertain of several near-independents, like Senators Borah, Couzens, Howell and Johnson.

But that doesn't matter so much. However the present senate may decide, the next one is sure to be appealed to, by one side or the other, to reverse this winter's verdict.

The main question is:

Will the Vare-Smith wrangle take long enough to force an extra session?

The betting is about 50-50

SOLONS FAVOR SEAGRAVES CAR BID OF $12,500

Ballot, 4 to 3, for Immediate Action on Plan.

FIREMEN O. K. IT

Next Step Will be Issuance of Necessary Bonds.

The Seagraves make of pumper fire truck, favored as a necessary piece of equipment for the Wellsville fire department by 19 of the 20 volunteer and regular firemen who voted secretly on the proposal last Sunday night, and said to be the type wanted by citizens, according to Mayor W. L. Fogo, last night was selected for purchase by the city at a meeting of councilmen.

The solons voted, 4 to 3, for immediate action on the truck proposal after Safety-Service George P. Ashley had asked for a week's delay on the decision.

Representatives of the Seagraves, the American La France and the Ahrens-Fox companies were present.

The fire truck problem was introduced to council by Director Ashley who announced: "We'll need $12,500 to buy the pumper. I wouldn't care to mention one tonight. I rode in one today and I don't see where you could get a better engine and its construction is first class. I would suggest that we wait a few days before we name the car, although you can start legislation tonight."

Solons, who apparently had been expecting a decision, conferred a few moments and then Councilman Nicholson made a motion that the truck be named immediately. The motion was seconded by Swearingen and carried.

Director Ashley then said: "You are forcing me to do something I don't want to do. I may name a car that I don't know anything about. We had one here, but I don't think it's the one we want."

"Let's settle it tonight," proposed Mayor Fogo.

"I've been forced to say Seagraves," announced Director Ashley, "but I don't want it. The American La France, in my opinion, is a better machine."

Mayor Fogo addressed council briefly. "City firemen were consulted Sunday night. Twenty of them voted and 19 out of the 20 favored the Seagraves and a majority of council favor the same type. The people want the Seagraves. It will be Seagraves."

At this juncture, council permitted representatives of the three automobile firms to discuss the merits of their respective machines.

Following their talks, several members of the legislative body favored a delay in selecting the car, pending demonstrations by the other companies. In order to bring the issue to a head, Solon Heldman, seconded by Reil, moved that council issue bonds for the purchase of a Seagraves truck. Members McLean, Connor and Peters cast negative votes, while Reil, Heldman, Swearingen and Nicholson voted affirmatively, the majority being sufficient to carry the motion.

Mrs. Arthur Tolson and daughter, Grace, were East Liverpool visitors Tuesday.

Homer Faloon, who has been seriously ill for a number of weeks, is recovering.

Mrs. Clyde Blazy is recovering from a recent illness.

City May Act to Obtain Cemetery Fund.

Asserting that he had investigated the city of East Liverpool's plan for the endowment of Riverview cemetery and had found that the arrangement had been successful in compiling a considerable amount of money for the operation of the burial plot Mayor W. L. Fogo discussed endowment of Spring Hill cemetery along similar lines at last night's council meeting.

His remarks supplemented his talk on the cemetery endowment plan that he had delivered at a previous session of council. It is probable than an ordinance will be introduced at the next meeting.

Residents of Twenty-first street recently petitioned council to take action toward the establishment of a street car stop at Twenty-first street. In a letter from the car company, officials of the concern pointed out that if a stop were established at Twenty-first street, it would result in a flood of petitions from other sections along the line and it would be impossible to meet them all. Everything possible is being done to perfect the service, the company pointed.

An ordinance granting the Standard Oil company to lay a pipe line to connect with their proposed new station at the corner of Third and Lisbon streets, was referred back to the company for slight alterations.

STAGE IS SET FOR SCACCUTO MURDER TRIAL

It is intimated that the state will call between 15 and 20 witnesses. Summonses will be served on witnesses by Sheriff George Wright and Deputies Lawrence Kindsvatter and Edward J. Fitzgerald late this week.

Unless there is an unusual number of witnesses challenged for cause, a jury should be sworn by Tuesday noon. In this event the jury will be taken to Wellsville Tuesday afternoon to view the location and vicinity where Patrolman Kenney was slain, and the taking of testimony should begin Wednesday morning. Perhaps two days will be required to hear the evidence.

The state will be represented by Prosecuting Attorney Robert M. Brookes and his assistant, John E. Bauknecht, while the defense will be in charge of Attorney W. A. O'Grady of Wellsville and George T. Farrell and William E. Moore of Lisbon.

In this event the jury will be taken to Wellsville Tuesday afternoon to view the location and vicinity where Patrolman Kenney was slain, and the taking of testimony should begin Wednesday morning. Perhaps two days will be required to hear the evidence.

The state will be represented by Prosecuting Attorney Robert M. Brookes and his assistant, John E. Bauknecht, while the defense will be in charge of Attorney W. A. O'Grady of Wellsville and George T. Farrell and William E. Moore of Lisbon.

SUCCEEDS BELL

Mrs. Opal McCafferty is Given Grade Position.

Hilton E. Alexander, of Walton, N. Y., last night was elected principal of the Wellsville high school, to succeed former Principal George D. Bell, at the monthly meeting of the board of education.

Bell resigned several weeks ago to accept a position with the Hudson Motor Co., of Detroit. He left two weeks ago for Detroit, where he will be located temporarily, and since that time his school duties here were shared by members of the high school staff.

Alexander, the new principal, will assume charge of his duties Thursday morning, Superintendent S. E. Daw announced today.

Alexander is a graduate of Geneva college, Pa., and since his graduation taught in Kitanning and Canonsburg, Pa., high schools, as instructor in mathematics.

A SIXTEEN-YEAR-OLD girl is chosen secretary of the "Junior Atheist league," a branch of the "American Association for the Advancement of Atheism," which organizes its junior league "to remove boys and girls from the evil influence of the clergy."

IT'S useless to answer that foolishness. But there ought to be some American association to free youth from the evil influence of the bootlegger, the hip flask, the cabaret and the growing lack of respect and reverence.

IN THE Irvington, J. J., court many shivered and were fined for violating the Sabbath—bus drivers, druggists, grocers, butchers, baker. Strict enforcement was started by moving picture exhibitors, who said: "If it is a crime to show pictures of things, it should be a crime to do the things."

THE Bible says the Sabbath was made for man. Why not allow him to enjoy it in any respectable way? There is nothing to indicate that in heaven the angels once every seven days are compelled to sit around, boring themselves.

Charges "Whitewash" In State Probe of Student Poisonings

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 15.—Charges that the state investigation of conditions at Ohio State university which resulted, about two years ago, in the death of David I. Puskin, Canton, and Charles H. Huls, Logan, and the serious illness of the other students, due to strychnine poisoning, was "a whitewash" was made here today by A. E. Huls, Logan, father of Charles Huls.

The accusation was voiced by Huls, a job printer, when he appeared before the state emergncy board in support of a claim for approximately $15,000 as alleged damages because of his son's death.

Aviators End Duck Plague.

Machine guns mounted on airplanes routed swarms of ducks that were becoming a plague in parts of England recently. The birds had multiplied so rapidly that they threatened to do great damage. Beaters were sent through the feeding grounds, and as the ducks rose the aviators followed and shot them with the machine guns.

WASHINGTON STEWART'S LETTER

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—Prospects of a special session of congress next spring are promising—or threatening, from the standpoint of President Coolidge and the regular Republicans generally.

PRES. COOLIDGE

If there's a special session it will be a special session, not of the present congress, but of the new one—the 70th.

This latter body is likely to be a perfect pest to the administration, the regular Republicans having lost control of the senate to the insurgents and Democrats, between them, provided they pull together.

The regulars want to stave the nuisance off as long as possible—until December, 1927. The opposition wants to start trouble early in the spring and keep it up all summer.

THERE'S just one thing the administration can't do without. Everything else can go by the board, at the cost of inconvenience and annoyance, perhaps, but not to the tune of actual disaster.

The vitally essential thing is:

If the appropriation bills pass this winter the regulars can give the extra session folk the ha, ha. Otherwise the president will have to call one, no matter how much he hates it.

THE fight on the right of William S. Vare of Pennsylvania and Frank L. Smith, of Illinois, to senate seats when the 70th congress meets is what hints at a tie-up of all other business until that row's settled.

Other cases are before the senate campaign expenses committee, but those are the two prize controversies.

The group which wants to speed proceedings up says:

"Vare and Smith were elected to the 70th congress. Their fate is none of this senate's business."

The group which prefers delay answers:

"They'll go on the payroll as soon as the 69th congress adjourns unless this senate prevents it. We mean to do it."

IT'S a new point and a complicated one, which adapts it admirably to time killing tactics.

On paper, against Vare and Smith there ought to be 42 Democratic votes, the vote of Senator Shipstead, Farmer-Laborite, and the votes of Senators Frazier, LaFollette, Norris and Nye, insurgent Republicans. Total 47.

On paper, for Vare and Smith there ought to be 48 regular Republicans—counting the late Senator McKinley's seat as vacant — or a skimpy majority.

The Democrats may not hold quite their solid vote, however. Senator Blease, for instance, is doubtful, on the state right's ground that he doesn't believe in butting into Pennsylvania's and Illinois' elections. Senator LaFollette, too, is ill and may not be here this session. And the Republicans, besides the out-and-out insurgents, are uncertain of several near-independents, like Senators Borah, Couzens, Howell and Johnson.

But that doesn't matter so much. However the present senate may decide, the next one is sure to be appealed to, by one side or the other, to reverse this winter's verdict.

The main question is:

Will the Vare-Smith wrangle take long enough to force an extra session?

The betting is about 50-50

Orange CAKE

A Tested Recipe by

Winifred S. Carter

⅔ cup Crisco	3 teaspoons baking powder
1½ cups sugar	1 teaspoon salt
3 eggs	¾ cup orange juice
3 cups flour	¼ cup water

Cream Crisco and sugar together. Add well-beaten eggs and mix well. Mix and sift flour, baking powder and salt and add alternately with the combined orange juice and water to the first mixture. Beat thoroughly. Pour into 3 greased layer cake pans and bake in a hot oven (400 degrees F.) 20 to 25 minutes. Cool. Spread Orange Icing between layers and on top of cake.

ORANGE ICING

1 egg — Grated rind of ½ orange
Juice of ½ orange — 4 cups confectioners' sugar

Beat egg and add orange juice and rind. Add enough confectioners' sugar to make it the right consistency to spread. Beat until smooth.

(All measurements level)

Crisco is by no means limited to cake making. I find that I can always depend on Crisco for flaky pie crusts, fluffy biscuits, dainty desserts and for all frying.

DIXIE FOLLIES AT THE STRAND

Snappy Musical Comedy and Vaudeville Offered.

Guy Johnson and his "Dixie Follies" are offering an entirely different kind of a show to East Liverpool patrons at the Strand theatre this week. The owner and director deserves a lot of credit for originality. Never before has a musical comedy company staged such a peppy and meritorious performance as this company is presenting according to criticisms. From the first glimpse of this novel attraction they immediately "catch on" with patrons. Everybody works and works mighty hard in Guy Johnson' "Dixie Follies"." Every member of the company has something to do with some vaudeville act or other.

The chorus of eight dancing girls is better looking, better dressed and performs better than most groups of girls that usually accompany shows of this kind. And when they are not on the stage, some fast vaudeville act or specialty is finding favor with the audience. Special mention is to be made of Crider and Crider, a comedy acrobatic team that goes over with a bang. Miller and Miller, a pair of eccentric dancers, offer a unique dance specialty filled to the very brim with laughs. Crafin and Dar are an entertaining pair. Chafin, appearing in blackface comedy, while Dar handles the straights superbly. Dar is quite versatile. When he's not performing some magical stunts, he is singing or dancing, and he does them all well. Edith Mallory, a prima donna new to musical comedy, has a splendid voice, and what's more, knows how to use it. Many other pleasing acts stamp this as one of the best novelty musical comedy attractions to play at the Strand this season.

Safety razors with one blade will be issued to recruits in the British army instead of the present long-handled whisker cutters.

World demand for pig bristles has been so great recently that Shanghai has had a wave of speculation in the future paint brushes.

An airplane service to be established between Khartum and Kisumu, 1,400 miles apart in Africa, will save ten days in traveling time between the two cities.

OHIO POTATOES SET HIGH MARK

Bringing Better Prices Than Michigan, Maine and Wisconsin.

"Ohio potatoes are selling at a higher price in local markets than Michigan, Wisconsin or Maine stocks, because of the higher quality of Onio potatoes," it was declared today by Service Manager Phil E. Heim of tue County Farm Bureau, who has just returned from a 1,000 mile trip through the Michigan potato country, contracting for seed stock for 1927 delivery.

"The Michigan farmers I talked with are enthusiastic about potatoes, and the growing of certified seed," Mr. Heim explained. "I had opportunty of talking with some of the best and largest growers in Michigan, and I also observed their methods of storage. The college of agriculture of Michigan is located at East Lansing, which is at the edge of the city proper. H. C. Moore has charge of the work of certification in Michigan and it was through his suggestion that I made a trip through the main potato growing section of Michigan, which is in the northern part of the peninsula.

"I visted Lansing, Grand Rapids and points as far north as Petosky, in Antrim county, in which county is located the highest percentage of certified seed potatoe growers. From Petosky, I went to Bellaire, in the same county to visit the local coopereative warehouse.

"All producers in that immediate section are members of the cooperative association and store their crops there in the storage cellars. The yield per acre in this section during the last season was from 270 to 435 bushels per acre. In the higher yields, the more off-type potatoes were found. In some cases as high as 35-percent will have to be graded out because of type.

"This percentage of off-type has been attributed to extra long growing season. In Atrim county farmers are specializing in rural russetts and also in the growing of radish seed.

"After spending some time at Bellaire I went to Lakeview in Montcalm county. About one third of potatoes grown in Michigan, or approximately 5,000 cars of spuds are shipped from Lakeview annually. One thousand cars are shipped from Greenville, and it is at this point where the largest buyers in the country have their established headquarters.

"In this latter section I was able to locate rural New Yorkers. In this connection some growers specialize in rural russetts, others in green mountain stock and still a few others in Irish cobblers.

"At nearly all shipping points a cooperative assaciation is to be found which controls a warehouse and ample potato storage space. The bins are in the basement, which are built of thick walls, and double doors and windows. The bins have a slat bottom and partitions, each bin having a capacity of about 500 bushels. The temperature is always kept around 40-degrees. In addition to these storage bins of the cooperative associations, nearly all growers have provided a good place to store their yields on their own farms. In some instances the potatoes are buried in pits, the latter containing about 200 bushels. Potatoes covered in this manner sufficiently will be more firm than those stored in some of the storage houses. It is very important to have the best possible storage if potatoes are going to be shipped to Columbiana county in the spring and arrive in the condition that we want them.

"The Michigan Potato Growers' Exchange, is a cooperative organization with offices at Cadillac. It has over 9,000 growers under contract for table stock, also a large number of growers of certified seed. These growers are signed up under a five year contract basis.

"There were 360 growers of certified seed potatoes this year in Michigan, and over 2,000 acres were set out. Of this number 12.2 percent of the acreage has been rejected for various causes, permitting the growers to produce 412,000 bushels, but after grading there will remain for certified seed shipment about 290,000 bushels. The quality has been placed at 87 percent as compared with on a ten-year basis.

"The average yield of potatoes in Michigan this year was about 122 bushels per acre, the certified seed growers averaging 258 bushels per acre. There were 40 growers with records pemitting them to become members of the '300-club.' These 10 growers averaged 360 bushels per acre.

"The total potato crop of Michigan has been estimated at 30,378,000 bushels this year, or about 6,000,000 bushels more than in 1925. I found that 75 percent of the crop has been sold or contracted for, and with this in mind the Columbiana County Farm Bureau has placed an option for spring delivery for certified seed.

"Order blanks for certified seed potatoes are now being sent to all growers in Columbiana and Hancock county, W. Va., and these seed will all come from the Michigan shipping stations."

Divorce Suit Dismissed.

To this check was also added $142.91 the costs in the case of the Peoples Savings & Trust company, of Pittsburgh, Pa., as trustee in its recent foreclosure action against the McKeefrey Iron company. The check for the taxes and costs has been received by Sheriff George Wright, and his office in turn issued a check to the treasurer's office for the taxes due on the Leetonia property.

BANK OBTAINS TWO JUDGMENTS

The Potters Savings & Loan company, of East Liverpool, has obtained two judgments by default in common pleas court. In its action against Gaetano Camarda, which was an action for money and the foreclosure of a mortgage, the defendant failed to defend the action, and judgment for $2,768.12 was rendered. A decree of foreclosure and order of sale has also been handed down in this case.

A similar entry has been made in the case against Thomas A. Harley and Susan G. Harley, wherein judgment by default for $1,246.93 has been given.

Bond Fixed.

The transcript in this case has been received by Clerk of Courts Frank Ballantine from the Salem court, and the action of the court in fixing the bond immediately followed.

Sale Approved.

The sale of the former parsonage of the Homeworth Evangelical church has been approved in common pleas court. The trustees sought authority to sell this property, and announced that the money obtained through the sale would be used to purchase a more modern residence for manse purposes.

Marriage Licenses.

A marriage license has been issued to W. T. Lightner, of Lisbon, a widower, and Leona Callahan, of Longs Crossing, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eli Callahan.

Charles H. Bowers, a farmer residing at Hartville, and Ruth N. Granger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Granger, of Signal, have been granted a marriage license. They were married at the parsonage of the Lisbon Christian church by the Rev. J. N. Bennett.

Action Dismissed.

A dismissal of the action on the motion of the plaintiff has been ordered in common pleas court in the case of Nathan H. Darsky against John M. Lewis. In this action which was filed for record Feb. 23 last, the plaintiff sought a judgment for $2,700 for merchandise sold. A judgment against the plaintiff for the costs in the case has been recorded.

OHIO POTATOES SET HIGH MARK

Bringing Better Prices Than Michigan, Maine and Wisconsin.

"Ohio potatoes are selling at a higher price in local markets than Michigan, Wisconsin or Maine stocks, because of the higher quality of Ohio potatoes," it was declared today by Service Manager Phil E. Heim of the County Farm Bureau, who has just returned from a 1,000 mile trip through the Michigan potato country, contracting for seed stock for 1927 delivery.

"The Michigan farmers I talked with are enthusiastic about potatoes, and the growing of certified seed," Mr. Heim explained. "I had opportunty of talking with some of the best and largest growers in Michigan, and I also observed their methods of storage. The college of agriculture of Michigan is located at East Lansing, which is at the edge of the city proper. H. C. Moore has charge of the work of certification in Michigan and it was through his suggestion that I made a trip through the main potato growing section of Michigan, which is in the northern part of the peninsula.

"I visted Lansing, Grand Rapids and points as far north as Petosky, in Antrim county, in which county is located the highest percentage of certified seed potatoe growers. From Petosky, I went to Bellaire, in the same county to visit the local cooperative warehouse.

"All producers in that immediate section are members of the cooperative association and store their crops there in the storage cellars. The yield per acre in this section during the last season was from 270 to 435 bushels per acre. In the higher yields, the more off-type potatoes were found. In some cases as high as 35-percent will have to be graded out because of type.

"This percentage of off-type has been attributed to extra long growing season. In Atrim county farmers are specializing in rural russetts and also in the growing of radish seed.

"After spending some time at Bellaire I went to Lakeview in Montcalm county. About one third of potatoes grown in Michigan, or approximately 5,000 cars of spuds are shipped from Lakeview annually. One thousand cars are shipped from Greenville, and it is at this point where the largest buyers in the country have their established headquarters.

"In this latter section I was able to locate rural New Yorkers. In this connection some growers specialize in rural russetts, others in green mountain stock and still a few others in Irish cobblers.

"At nearly all shipping points a cooperative assaciation is to be found which controls a warehouse and ample potato storage space. The bins are in the basement, which are built of thick walls, and double doors and windows. The bins have a slat bottom and partitions, each bin having a capacity of about 500 bushels. The temperature is always kept around 40 degrees. In addition to these storage bins of the cooperative associations, nearly all growers have provided a good place to store their yields on their own farms. In some instances the potatoes are buried in pits, the latter containing about 200 bushels. Potatoes covered in this manner sufficiently will be more firm than those stored in some of the storage houses. It is very important to have the best possible storage if potatoes are going to be shipped to Columbiana county in the spring and arrive in the condition that we want them.

"The Michigan Potato Growers' Exchange, is a cooperative organization with offices at Cadillac. It has over 9,000 growers under contract for table stock, also a large number of growers of certified seed. These growers are signed up under a five year contract basis.

American League Would Curtail Powers Of Commissioner

Junior Loop Barons Like Landis Policy, With Reservations

By Gene Hoffman.

CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—Endorsement of the administration of Baseball Commissioner Judge Kenesaw M. Landis with certain well-defined qualifications, appeared today as the keynote of the American league club owners, who pow wow in session here.

While details of the meeting, held behind padlocked doors, were not made public, it was learned on good authority that the Johnson circuit barons found much to commend in the general policies of Judge Landis, but desired considerable curtailment of his czarist powers.

Exactly how the American league leaders feel about the matter will be learned tomorrow at the joint session of major league officials when a vote on the question of renewing Commissioner Landis' contract will be taken. The Johnson circuit favors retaining him, under a seven year contract, it is understood, providing certain concessions are made.

The board of directors named a committee of three to call on Judge Landis and pay their respects. Those named on the committee were Jacob Ruppert, president of the Yankees; Phil Ball, owner of the St. Louis Browns, and E. S. Barnard, president of the Cleveland Indians.

Meanwhile the ivory exchange at the Congress hotel where the sessions are being held, hums with trading negotiations among the assembled managers. The market was bullish in second basemen. Some clubs have a surplus in this material while others have none, while no definite deals have been recorded to date, the law of supply and demand argues that before long several of our best people in baseball will be appraised of a change of address for the season of 1927.

Ray Schalk, new manager of the Chicago White Sox, wants a man to fill the shoes of Eddie Collins. He has his eye on Aaron Ward of the Yankees and Frank O'Rourke of the Tigers. Just how far Ray got in his dickerings with Miller Huggins and George Moriarty is not known.

Bucky Harris, pilot of the Senators, put Roger Peckinpaugh on the block, when he let it be known he is willing to listen to any real offers for Peck's services. Harris has Buddy Myers for the shortstop position and feels he can dispense with the veteran Peckinpaugh. Connie Mack registered slight annoyance when asked what he has done about signing Eddie Collins, former manager of the White Sox. His action indicated that he and Collins had been talking business.

Grid Rivals Practice.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 15. — The Haskell Indians, from Lawrence, Kansas, and the All Stars, of Honolulu, worked out today in anticipation of their clash on the gridiron here Saturday.

Ernie Nevers and his Duluth Eskimos were due to arrive here today. The Eskimos have a game scheduled for the same date. They will play a team of California professionals.

TILDEN WILL TRY COMEBACK

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—As serious as a broken leg about his purported come back, William T. Tilden is working out daily in anticipation of another meeting, not more than two months hence, with the man who made him what he is today. Tilden, according to Tennis officials, has about decided to enter the national indoor championships.

He reached this decision, they say, when he learned that Rene Lacoste and Jean Borotra probably would come to America for the indoor event. In brief, Tilden seems to be engaging in a pursuit race with Lacoste, for it has been the American's original intention to go abroad for the winter season on the Riviera with the idea of taking another whirl at Lacoste and the French in general. But Mohammed, it seems, is coming to the mountains.

That, at least, is the hope of the United States lawn tennis association, which already has made persistent overtures to Lacoste to appear in defense of the title he won here last winter. Borotra also has received an invitation.

Lacoste, however, is said to be adverse to the idea, for it was the rigor of last year's trip that laid him by the heels with pneumonia and kept him out of competition for months.

AT ALBANY, N. Y.—Sammy Marco, of Detroit, won decision over Red McGee, of New York.

In 215 B. C. the first government loan that can be correctly compared with the Liberty Loans during the World war was that asked by Rome of its citizens to help carry on the war against Hannibal. TOM NEEDHAM, 47, IS DEAD

Ex-Major League Star Dies in Steubenville.

THOMAS J. NEEDHAM, 47 years old, former major league catcher and minor league manager, known almost as well to old East Liverpool diamond fans as he was to those in Steubenville, his home town, died there yesterday after a month's illness.

Since his retirement from baseball not so many years ago, Needham had been engaged in business in Steubenville.

Needham never played ball in the East Liverpool district, although he appeared here many times with Steubenville basketball teams, but local fans are familiar with his achievements.

After a career on the Steubenville sandlots and with Altoona, Pa., Needham went to the Boston Braves in 1904 and was second string catcher to the late Pat Morgan. After three years with the Braves he was traded to the Giants, where he worked behind the bat with Roger Bresnahan when Mathewson was in his prime. In 1910 he was traded to the Cubs with whom he remained four years. During his last two seasons there he acted as coach.

Five years after he left the majors Needham managed Newark in the International league for one season and had the club in third place when the race ended.

When Johnny Evers took over the management of the Cubs a few seasons ago Needham joined his old mates and served as coach and scout.

Needham was a star football player for old Holy Ghost college at Pittsburgh and with teams in Steubenville. He played basketball with the local Y. M. C. I team in famous series with Duquesne and Homestead.

HARRY LAUDER HERE DEC. 22

Star and Company Coming to Ceramic Theatre.

There is no more popular star in the world than Sir Harry Lauder, and the announcement of his appearance at the Ceramic theatre Wednesday, Dec. 22, has aroused a preliminary interest that is unusual, even in this amusement-loving city. The present tour registers Sir Harry's eighteenth visit to the United States, and it is a notable fact that, instead of wearing out his welcome the popularity of the little singing Scot constantly grows with the years.

Lauder began his career as a mere performer—what is known in England as a "comic;" but he has long ceased to be that. With the years, and his varied experience there has come to him the emotional as well as the fun-creating development of a great artist; and never in his career, it is said, has he held such powerful sway over the great audiences that throng the theatres to see and hear him.

Every recurring budget brings a budget of new songs, while the revivals are always such as the audiences would select if left to a popular vote. This year's new songs have had the advantage of a tryout in London, as well as during the latter part of his three years' tour of the world. Those that are said to have an especially lively appeal are: "I'm Lookin' for a Bonnie Lass Tae Love Me," "Th' Boss o' th' Hoose," "When I Meet Mackay" and "Susie MacLean." They are credited with being the kind of songs that first attracted world-wide attention to the comedian.

As in other years Sir Harry will have associated with him a company of clever imported and American entertainers.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON, Maker of 81 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans.

Now the feet. Standing up closer to the ball does not imply that you put the feet farther apart. For the average sized man the feet should be about 18 inches apart, but this is not a fixed measurement by any means. Of two courses, I would say it would be better to have them slightly closer together than to move them farther apart. The feet are your anchor to the ground and they maintain your balance—have them just right to do that so that you are unconscious of it. The moment you become conscious of having feet, during the golf swing, you may be sure that you have positioned them wrongly. When they are too far apart they make pivoting very difficult because they legs pull too much against the body, whereas there should be no pulling and twisting at all—everything should work in harmony and ease. When this harmony and ease are lacking, don't give up golf, but examine yourself and probably you will discover you are fighting yourself.

SPORTS DONE BROWN

By Norman E. Brown.

AMERICAN LEAGUE fans in particular and the baseball bugs of the country in general are working to see what Bill Carrigan will do with the Boston Red Sox when he starts rounding that team into shape next season.

Carrigan's fighting temperament made him immensely popular in 1915 and 1916 when he gave the Boston fans championship baseball and the fans still remember his pugnacious manner and general zip.

Unless years have made him more gentle this aggressiveness will be much more noticeable the coming season because of the fact that Bill's general temperament is the direct antithesis of that of Lee Fohl, his predecessor.

Fohl was sincere and earnest but lacked fire, dash and the power to drive his team. Carrigan's middle name is "drive."

In this connection a story credited to Carl Mays, a member of the Red Sox hurling staff under Carrigan, is interesting. It was printed recently in a Baltimore paper.

Mays says that after the Red Sox had lost three games in a row at the beginning of the 1915 campaign Owner Jim Lanin came to the dressing room. He literally burst into the roomful of players and demanded to know from Carrigan why the team was losing and why a certain pitcher had not been asked to work.

Carrigan let Lanin finish his demands and then quietly called the boys together for a meeting. He even placed a chair in the center of the room for Lanin.

"Then," says Mays, "Carrigan opened up." He said.

"Mr. Lanin, you're the owner of this team. I'm the manager. You own it but I run it. The reason the team isn't winnin games is my business. The reason the pitcher isn't working is my business. He isn't being used because I don't believe he's in shape. Why he isn't in shape is my business. When he is I'll use him and not before. This is my clubhouse, not yours—my team to manage, not yours. The next time you come in here to tell me how to manage it you'll be thrown out and I'll do the throwing.'"

Apparently Lanin saw the light. At least, Mays says, the club owner, taken rather aback for a minute, finally grinned and said, "Well, I guess you know your business," and went out.

Carrigan, the world knows, won the flag in 1915 and 1916.

Mays could have no ulterior motive in telling the story at this time. And it sounds like Carrigan.

NAME BUCS IN TRADE RUMOR

Dreyfuss Denies Pirates are Seeking Speaker.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Rumors of trades, involving the Pittsburgh Pirates, Brooklyn Dodgers and the Phillies, were in the air today as the National magnates and managers prepared to entrain for Chicago where the joint meeting with the American league will be held tomorrow. Meanwhile, a report that the Pirates were dickering with Tris Speaker, former Cleveland manager, to become their assistant manager and extra outfielder had been denied by Sam Dreyfuss, secretary of the club. Stuffy McInnes, new manager of the Phillies, was supposed to be trying to swing two deals. One of them was with the Dodgers, from whom he sought the services of Burleigh Grimes, spitball pitcher. It was said that the Dodgers demanded Catcher Butch Henline.

The other deal mentioned would send Hal Carlson, pitcher, and Russell Wrightstone, infielder, to the Pirates for Emil Yde, left hand pitcher, and several other Pirates. Nothing had come of either deal when the league meeting ended yesterday.

John A. Heydler, president of the league, would neither deny nor affirm the report that Judge Landis' salary would be raised to $60,000 a year.

"We will have to wait until we see what happens at the joint meeting" was all he would say.

In Line for Bouts.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 15. — Harry "Kid" Brown, of Philadelphia, today was in line for some good matches following his defeat here last night of Baby Joe Gans. A short ender, Brown handed the colored lightweight a good lacing. Brown knocked Gans down for the count of four in the first round and won seven of the ten rounds.

You'll Find It

To get acquainted with Lucky Strikes is to discover a new charm in cigarettes, an extra goodness.

You'll realize at once that in addition to their being made of the world's finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos, there's something more which gives them their unique superiority.

This "something more" is the costly, added process of toasting. It makes Lucky Strikes better in three ways:

1. Finer Flavor. Toasting for 45 minutes develops the hidden flavors of the world's finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos.
2. Smoothness. Toasting for 45 minutes removes all "bite" and harshness, hence never any throat irritation.
3. Freshness. Then the tobacco is suddenly chilled. This seals the flavor in and insures constant freshness.

The added process of toasting brings extra goodness which accounts for the growing popularity of Luckies.

1926 taxes became a lien April 11, 1926, the day preceding the second Monday in April.

First half must be paid not later than December 20th, 1926. Last Half must be paid not later than June 20th, 1927.

The correct way to pay a year's tax without penalty is to pay in December for December and the following June.

Penalty on delinquent Real Estate and Personal Property is 10 per cent.

When writing for a statement of your taxes, remember property appears on the Treasurer's books in the name of the person having title on April 11th, 1926 and that the law requires the Treasurer's books and receipts to be made out in the name of the party owning property when the lien took effect.

In writing for statement of taxes, always send last receipt, or give name of owner in April 1926, stating plainly in what city, town or township located, and whether real or personal property.

When you write for statement or pay by mail, enclose a self addressed stamped envelope for reply.

Examine your receipts and see that they are correct before you leave the Treasurer's Office.

Treasurer's Office will be open from 7 A. M. to 5:00 P. M.

OHIO POTATOES SET HIGH MARK

Bringing Better Prices Than Michigan, Maine and Wisconsin.

"Ohio potatoes are selling at a higher price in local markets than Michigan, Wisconsin or Maine stocks, because of the higher quality of Onio potatoes," it was declared today by Service Manager Phil E. Heim of the County Farm Bureau, who has just returned from a 1,000 mile trip through the Michigan potato country, contracting for seed stock for 1927 delivery.

"The Michigan farmers I talked with are enthusiastic about potatoes, and the growing of certified seed," Mr. Heim explained. "I had opportunty of talking with some of the best and largest growers in Michigan, and I also observed their methods of storage. The college of agriculture of Michigan is located at East Lansing, which is at the edge of the city proper. H. C. Moore has charge of the work of certification in Michigan and it was through his suggestion that I made a trip through the main potato growing section of Michigan, which is in the northern part of the peninsula.

"I visted Lansing, Grand Rapids and points as far north as Petosky, in Antrim county, in which county is located the highest percentage of certified seed potatoe growers. From Petosky, I went to Bellaire, in the same county to visit the local coopereative warehouse.

"All producers in that immediate section are members of the cooperative association and store their crops there in the storage cellars. The yield per acre in this section during the last season was from 270 to 435 bushels per acre. In the higher yields, the more off-type potatoes were found. In some cases as high as 35-percent will have to be graded out because of type.

"This percentage of off-type has been attributed to extra long growing season. In Atrim county farmers are specializing in rural russetts, and also in the growing of radish seed.

"After spending some time at Bellaire I went to Lakeview in Montcalm county. About one third of potatoes grown in Michigan, or approximately 5,000 cars of spuds are shipped from Lakeview annually. One thousand cars are shipped from Greenville, and it is at this point where the largest buyers in the country have their established headquarters.

"In this latter section I was able to locate rural New Yorkers. In this connection some growers specialize in rural russetts, others in green mountain stock and still a few others in Irish cobblers.

"At nearly all shipping points a cooperative assaciation is to be found which controls a warehouse and ample potato storage space. The bins are in the basement, which are built of thick walls, and double doors and windows. The bins have a slat bottom and partitions, each bin having a capacity of about 500 bushels. The temperature is always kept around 40-degrees. In addition to these storage bins of the cooperative associations, nearly all growers have provided a good place to store their yields on their own farms. In some instances the potatoes are buried in pits, the latter containing about 200 bushels. Potatoes covered in this manner sufficiently will be more firm than those stored in some of the storage houses. It is very important to have the best possible storage if potatoes are going to be shipped to Columbiana county in the spring and arrive in the condition that we want them.

"The Michigan Potato Growers' Exchange, is a cooperative organization with offices at Cadillac. It has over 9,000 growers under contract for table stock, also a large number of growers of certified seed. These growers are signed up under a five year contract basis.

"There were 360 growers of certified seed potatoes this year in Michigan, and over 2,000 acres were set out. Of this number 12.2 percent of the acreage has been rejected for various causes, permitting the growers to produce 412,000 bushels, but after grading there will remain for certified seed shipment about 290,000 bushels. The quality has been placed at 87 percent as compared with on a ten-year basis.

"The average yield of potatoes in Michigan this year was about 122 bushels per acre, the certified seed growers averaging 258 bushels per acre. There were 40 growers with records pemitting them to become members of the '300-club.' These 10 growers averaged 360 bushels per acre.

"The total potato crop of Michigan has been estimated at 30,378,000 bushels this year, or about 6,000,000 bushels more than in 1925. I found that 75 percent of the crop has been sold or contracted for, and with this in mind the Columbiana County Farm Bureau has placed an option for spring delivery for certified seed.

"Order blanks for certified seed potatoes are now being sent to all growers in Columbiana and Hancock county, W. Va., and these seed will all come from the Michigan shipping stations."

Divorce Suit Dismissed.

The divorce action filed in common pleas court Jan. 16, 1925, by Hilda Osborne against her husband, Clarence Osborne, which was regularly assigned for trial, has been dismissed by Judge Lones for lack of prosecution on the part of the defendant. The plaintiff failed to appear at the time the case was called for trial, and the court after dismissing the action rendered judgment against the plaintiff for the costs of the suit. Osborne formerly resided at East Liverpool.

THREE APPLICANTS FOR CITIZENSHIP

James Dunlop, aged 24, residing at 906 Avondale street, East Liverpool, and a native of Motherwill, Scotland, has declared his intent to become a citizen of the United States. He arrived at the port of New York, Nov. 10, 1924.

Similar declaration has been made by Emily Resatko, aged 22 years, residing on Depot road, Salem. She is a native of Czechoslovakia, and is employed by the Salem China company. She arrived at New York, Oct. 28, 1922.

Benjamin Fisher, aged 33, of 63 Roosevelt avenue, Salem, has declared his intent also. He is a native of Poland, engaged in the automobile business, and arrived at New York Aug. 20, 1913.

CHECK RECEIVED FOR BACK TAXES

A check for back taxes amounting to $3,106.37, owed the county by the McKeefrey Iron company, has been paid over to County Treasurer Jo Pike. To this check was also added $142.91 the costs in the case of the Peoples Savings & Trust company, of Pittsburgh, Pa., as trustee in its recent foreclosure action against the McKeefrey Iron company. The check for the taxes and costs has been received by Sheriff George Wright, and his office in turn issued a check to the treasurer's office for the taxes due on the Leetonia property.

BANK OBTAINS TWO JUDGMENTS

The Potters Savings & Loan company, of East Liverpool, has obtained two judgments by default in common pleas court. In its action against Gaetano Camarda, which was an action for money and the foreclosure of a mortgage, the defendant failed to defend the action, and judgment for $2,768.12 was rendered. A decree of foreclosure and order of sale has also been handed down in this case.

A similar entry has been made in the case against Thomas A. Harley and Susan G. Harley, wherein judgment by default for $1,246.93 has been given.

Bond Fixed.

Judge W. F. Lones has set the bond at $500 in the case of W. M. Brown, who was charged in the court of Mayor George Russell at Salem with obtaining money under false pretenses. The transcript in this case has been received by Clerk of Courts Frank Ballantine from the Salem court, and the action of the court in fixing the bond immediately followed.

Sale Approved.

The sale of the former parsonage of the Homeworth Evangelical church has been approved in common pleas court. The trustees sought authority to sell this property, and announced that the money obtained through the sale would be used to purchase a more modern residence for manse purposes.

Marriage Licenses.

A marriage license has been issued to W. T. Lightner, of Lisbon, a widower, and Leona Callahan, of Longs Crossing, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eli Callahan.

Charles H. Bowers, a farmer residing at Hartville, and Ruth N. Granger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Granger, of Signal, have been granted a marriage license. They were married at the parsonage of the Lisbon Christian church by the Rev. J. N. Bennett.

Action Dismissed.

A dismissal of the action on the motion of the plaintiff has been ordered in common pleas court in the case of Nathan H. Darsky against John M. Lewis. In this action which was filed for record Feb. 23 last, the plaintiff sought a judgment for $2,700 for merchandise sold. A judgment against the plaintiff for the costs in the case has been recorded.

OHIO POTATOES SET HIGH MARK

Bringing Better Prices Than Michigan, Maine and Wisconsin.

"Ohio potatoes are selling at a higher price in local markets than Michigan, Wisconsin or Maine stocks, because of the higher quality of Onio potatoes," it was declared today by Service Manager Phil E. Heim of the County Farm Bureau, who has just returned from a 1,000 mile trip through the Michigan potato country, contracting for seed stock for 1927 delivery.

"The Michigan farmers I talked with are enthusiastic about potatoes, and the growing of certified seed," Mr. Heim explained. "I had opportunty of talking with some of the best and largest growers in Michigan, and I also observed their methods of storage. The college of agriculture of Michigan is located at East Lansing, which is at the edge of the city proper. H. C. Moore has charge of the work of certification in Michigan and it was through his suggestion that I made a trip through the main potato growing section of Michigan, which is in the northern part of the peninsula.

"I visted Lansing, Grand Rapids and points as far north as Petosky, in Antrim county, in which county is located the highest percentage of certified seed potatoe growers. From Petosky, I went to Bellaire, in the same county to visit the local coopereative warehouse.

"All producers in that immediate section are members of the cooperative association and store their crops there in the storage cellars. The yield per acre in this section during the last season was from 270 to 435 bushels per acre. In the higher yields, the more off-type potatoes were found. In some cases as high as 35-percent will have to be graded out because of type.

"This percentage of off-type has been attributed to extra long growing season. In Atrim county farmers are specializing in rural russetts and also in the growing of radish seed.

"After spending some time at Bellaire I went to Lakeview in Montealm county. About one third of potatoes grown in Michigan, or approximately 5,000 cars of spuds are shipped from Lakeview annually. One thousand cars are shipped from Greenville, and it is at this point where the largest buyers in the country have their established headquarters.

"In this latter section I was able to locate rural New Yorkers. In this connection some growers specialize in rural russetts, others in green mountain stock and still a few others in Irish cobblers.

"At nearly all shipping points a cooperative assaciation is to be found which controls a warehouse and ample potato storage space. The bins are in the basement, which are built of thick walls, and double doors and windows. The bins have a slat bottom and partitions, each bin having a capacity of about 500 bushels. The temperature is always kept around 40 degrees. In addition to these storage bins of the cooperative associations, nearly all growers have provided a good place to store their yields on their own farms. In some instances the potatoes are buried in pits, the latter containing about 200 bushels. Potatoes covered in this manner sufficiently will be more firm than those stored in some of the storage houses. It is very important to have the best possible storage if potatoes are going to be shipped to Columbiana county in the spring and arrive in the condition that we want them.

"The Michigan Potato Growers' Exchange, is a cooperative organization with offices at Cadillac. It has over 9,000 growers under contract for table stock, also a large number of growers of certified seed. These growers are signed up under a five year contract basis.

"There were 360 growers of certified seed potatoes this year in Michigan, and over 2,000 acres were set out. Of this number 12.2 percent of the acreage has been rejected for various causes, permitting the growers to produce 412,000 bushels, but after grading there will remain for certified seed shipment about 290,000 bushels. The quality has been placed at 87 percent as compared with on a ten-year basis.

"The average yield of potatoes in Michigan this year was about 122 bushels per acre, the certified seed growers averaging 258 bushels per acre. There were 40 growers with records pemitting them to become members of the '300-club.' These 10 growers averaged 360 bushels per acre.

"The total potato crop of Michigan has been estimated at 30,378,000 bushels this year, or about 6,000,000 bushels more than in 1925. I found that 75 percent of the crop has been sold or contracted for, and with this in mind the Columbiana County Farm Bureau has placed an option for spring delivery for certified seed.

"Order blanks for certified seed potatoes are now being sent to all growers in Columbiana and Hancock county, W. Va., and these seed will all come from the Michigan shipping stations."

RIN-TIN-TIN AT AMERICAN

Rin-Tin-Tin, famous canine screen star, has enacted death struggles with many creatures, from men to crocodiles, but never before has he fought a more thrilling dramatic fight than in his latest Warner Bros., production, "While London Sleeps," a picture written and directed by Walter Morosco, which opens tomorrow at the American theatre, with Helene Costello and Walter Merrill in the featured human roles.

Rinty, after an enmity lasting throughout the story, pits his ninety pounds of flashing energy against the hundred and eighty pounds of George Kotsonaros, the world's light-heavyweight wrestling champion, who portrays a ferocious apeman. The dog is fighting to save his beloved mistress; the "monk" is fighting for her possession, while she, weak with horror, beholds the evenly matched struggle which will decide her fate.

American League Would Curtail Powers Of Commissioner

Junior Loop Barons Like Landis Policy, With Reservations

By Gene Hoffman.

CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—Endorsement of the administration of Baseball Commissioner Judge Kenesaw M. Landis with certain well-defined qualifications, appeared today as the keynote of the American league club owners, who pow wow in session here.

While details of the meeting, held behind padlocked doors, were not made public, it was learned on good authority that the Johnson circuit barons found much to commend in the general policies of Judge Landis, but desired considerable curtailment of his czarist powers.

Exactly how the American league leaders feel about the matter will be learned tomorrow at the joint session of major league officials when a vote on the question of renewing Commissioner Landis' contract will be taken. The Johnson circuit favors retaining him, under a seven year contract, it is understood, providing certain concessions are made.

The board of directors named a committee of three to call on Judge Landis and pay their respects. Those named on the committee were Jacob Ruppert, president of the Yankees; Phil Ball, owner of the St. Louis Browns, and E. S. Barnard, president of the Cleveland Indians.

Meanwhile the ivory exchange at the Congress hotel where the sessions are being held, hums with trading negotiations among the assembled managers. The market was bullish in second basemen. Some clubs have a surplus in this material while others have none, while no definite deals have been recorded to date, the law of supply and demand argues that before long several of our best people in baseball will be appraised of a change of address for the season of 1927.

Ray Schalk, new manager of the Chicago White Sox, wants a man to fill the shoes of Eddie Collins. He has his eye on Aaron Ward of the Yankees and Frank O'Rourke of the Tigers. Just how far Ray got in his dickerings with Miller Huggins and George Moriarty is not known.

Bucky Harris, pilot of the Senators, put Roger Peckinpaugh on the block, when he let it be known he is willing to listen to any real offers for Peck's services. Harris has Buddy Myers for the shortstop position and feels he can dispense with the veteran Peckinpaugh. Connie Mack registered slight annoyance when asked what he has done about signing Eddie Collins, former manager of the White Sox. His action indicated that he and Collins had been talking business.

Grid Rivals Practice.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 15. — The Haskell Indians, from Lawrence, Kansas, and the All Stars, of Honolulu, worked out today in anticipation of their clash on the gridiron here Saturday.

Ernie Nevers and his Duluth Eskimos were due to arrive here today. The Eskimos have a game scheduled for the same date. They will play a team of California professionals.

TILDEN WILL TRY COMEBACK

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—As serious as a broken leg about his purported come back, William T. Tilden is working out daily in anticipation of another meeting, not more than two months hence, with the man who made him what he is today. Tilden, according to Tennis officials, has about decided to enter the national indoor championships.

He reached this decision, they say, when he learned that Rene Lacoste and Jean Borotra probably would come to America for the indoor event. In brief, Tilden seems to be engaging in a pursuit race with Lacoste, for it has been the American's original intention to go abroad for the winter season on the Riviera with the idea of taking another whirl at Lacoste and the French in general. But Mohammed, it seems, is coming to the mountains.

That, at least, is the hope of the United States lawn tennis association, which already has made persistent overtures to Lacoste to appear in defense of the title he won here last winter. Borotra also has received an invitation.

Lacoste, however, is said to be adverse to the idea, for it was the rigor of last year's trip that laid him by the heels with pneumonia and kept him out of competition for months.

Fight Results

AT ALBANY, N. Y.—Sammy Marco, of Detroit, won decision over Red McGee, of New York.

AT ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—Kewpie Trimble, of Chicago, won decision over Dandy Kid Dorland, of Okalheeba, ten rounds.

In 215 B. C. the first government loan that can be correctly compared with the Liberty Loans during the World war was that asked by Rome of its citizens to help carry on the war against Hannibal. So far as is known it was the first time the state of Rome borrowed money from individuals to finance a war.

TOM NEEDHAM, 47, IS DEAD

Ex-Major League Star Dies in Steubenville.

THOMAS J. NEEDHAM, 47 years old, former major league catcher and minor league manager, known almost as well to old East Liverpool diamond fans as he was to those in Steubenville, his home town, died there yesterday after a month's illness.

Since his retirement from baseball not so many years ago, Needham had been engaged in business in Steubenville.

Needham never played ball in the East Liverpool district, although he appeared here many times with Steubenville basketball teams, but local fans are familiar with his achievements.

After a career on the Steubenville sandlots and with Altoona, Pa., Needham went to the Boston Braves in 1904 and was second string catcher to the late Pat Morgan. After three years with the Braves he was traded to the Giants, where he worked behind the bat with Roger Bresnahan when Mathewson was in his prime. In 1910 he was traded to the Cubs with whom he remained four years. During his last two seasons there he acted as coach.

Five years after he left the majors Needham managed Newark in the International league for one season and had the club in third place when the race ended.

When Johnny Evers took over the management of the Cubs a few seasons ago Needham joined his old mates and served as coach and scout.

Needham was a star football player for old Holy Ghost college at Pittsburgh and with teams in Steubenville. He played basketball with the local Y. M. C. I team in famous series with Duquesne and Homestead.

HARRY LAUDER HERE DEC. 22

Star and Company Coming to Ceramic Theatre.

There is no more popular star in the world than Sir Harry Lauder, and the announcement of his appearance at the Ceramic theatre Wednesday, Dec. 22, has aroused a preliminary interest that is unusual, even in this amusement-loving city. The present tour registers Sir Harry's eighteenth visit to the United States, and it is a notable fact that, instead of wearing out his welcome the popularity of the little singing Scot constantly grows with the years.

Lauder began his career as a mere performer—what is known in England as a "comic;" but he has long ceased to be that. With the years, and his varied experience there has come to him the emotional as well as the fun-creating development of a great artist; and never in his career, it is said, has he held such powerful sway over the great audiences that throng the theatres to see and hear him.

Every recurring budget brings a budget of new songs, while the revivals are always such as the audiences would select if left to a popular vote. This year's new songs have had the advantage of a tryout in London, as well as during the latter part of his three years' tour of the world. Those that are said to have an especially lively appeal are: "I'm Lookin' for a Bonnie Lass Tae Love Me," "Th' Boss o' th' Hoose," "When I Meet Mackay" and "Susie MacLean." They are credited with being the kind of songs that first attracted world-wide attention to the comedian.

As in other years Sir Harry will have associated with him a company of clever imported and American entertainers.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON,
Maker of 81 Golf Champions.
"Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans.

Now the feet. Standing up closer to the ball does not imply that you put the feet farther apart. For the average sized man the feet should be about 18 inches apart, but this is not a fixed measurement by any means. Of two courses, I would say it would be better to have them slightly closer together than to move them farther apart. The feet are your anchor to the ground and they maintain your balance — have them just right to do that so that you are unconscious of it. The moment you become conscious of having feet, during the golf swing, you may be sure that you have positioned them wrongly. When they are too far apart they make pivoting very difficult because they legs pull too much against the body, whereas there should be no pulling and twisting at all—everything should work in harmony and ease. When this harmony and ease are lacking, don't give up golf, but examine yourself and probably you will discover you are fighting yourself.

SPORTS DONE BROWN

By Norman E. Brown.

AMERICAN LEAGUE fans in particular and the baseball bugs of the country in general are working to see what Bill Carrigan will do with the Boston Red Sox when he starts rounding that team into shape next season.

Carrigan's fighting temperament made him immensely popular in 1915 and 1916 when he gave the Boston fans championship baseball and the fans still remember his pugnacious manner and general zip.

Unless years have made him more gentle this aggressiveness will be much more noticeable the coming season because of the fact that Bill's general temperament is the direct antithesis of that of Lee Fohl, his predecessor.

Fohl was sincere and earnest but lacked fire, dash and the power to drive his team. Carrigan's middle name is "drive."

In this connection a story credited to Carl Mays, a member of the Red Sox hurling staff under Carrigan, is interesting. It was printed recently in a Baltimore paper.

Mays says that after the Red Sox had lost three games in a row at the beginning of the 1915 campaign Owner Jim Lanin came to the dressing room. He literally burst into the roomful of players and demanded to know from Carrigan why the team was losing and why a certain pitcher had not been asked to work.

Carrigan let Lanin finish his demands and then quietly called the boys together for a meeting. He even placed a chair in the center of the room for Lanin.

"Then," says Mays, "Carrigan opened up." He said,

"Mr. Lanin, you're the owner of this team. I'm the manager. You own it but I run it. The reason the team isn't winnin games is my business. The reason the pitcher isn't working is my business. He isn't being used because I don't believe he's in shape. Why he isn't in shape is my business. When he is I'll use him and not before. This is my clubhouse, not yours—my team to manage, not yours. The next time you come in here to tell me how to manage it you'll be thrown out and I'll do the throwing.'"

Apparently Lanin saw the light. At least, Mays says, the club owner, taken rather aback for a minute, finally grinned and said, "Well, I guess you know your business," and went out.

Carrigan, the world knows, won the flag in 1915 and 1916.

Mays could have no ulterior motive in telling the story at this time. And it sounds like Carrigan.

Dreyfuss Denies Pirates are Seeking Speaker.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Rumors of trades, involving the Pittsburgh Pirates, Brooklyn Dodgers and the Phillies, were in the air today as the National magnates and managers prepared to entrain for Chicago where the joint meeting with the American league will be held tomorrow. Meanwhile, a report that the Pirates were dickering with Tris Speaker, former Cleveland manager, to become their assistant manager and extra outfielder had been denied by Sam Dreyfuss, secretary of the club. Stuffy McInnes, new manager of the Phillies, was supposed to be trying to swing two deals. One of them was with the Dodgers, from whom he sought the services of Burleigh Grimes, spitball pitcher. It was said that the Dodgers demanded Catcher Butch Henline.

The other deal mentioned would send Hal Carlson, pitcher, and Russell Wrightstone, infielder, to the Pirates for Emil Yde, left hand pitcher, and several other Pirates. Nothing had come of either deal when the league meeting ended yesterday.

John A. Heydler, president of the league, would neither deny nor affirm the report that Judge Landis' salary would be raised to $60,000 a year.

"We will have to wait until we see what happens at the joint meeting" was all he would say.

In Line for Bouts.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 15. — Harry "Kid" Brown, of Philadelphia, today was in line for some good matches following his defeat here last night of Baby Joe Gans. A short ender, Brown handed the colored lightweight a good lacing. Brown knocked Gans down for the count of four in the first round and won seven of the ten rounds.

American League Would Curtail Powers Of Commissioner

Junior Loop Barons Like Landis Policy, With Reservations

By Gene Hoffman.

CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—Endorsement of the administration of Baseball Commissioner Judge Kenesaw M. Landis with certain well-defined qualifications, appeared today as the keynote of the American league club owners, who pow wow in session here.

While details of the meeting, held behind padlocked doors, were not made public, it was learned on good authority that the Johnson circuit barons found much to commend in the general policies of Judge Landis, but desired considerable curtailment of his czarist powers.

Exactly how the American league leaders feel about the matter will be learned tomorrow at the joint session of major league officials when a vote on the question of renewing Commissioner Landis' contract will be taken. The Johnson circuit favors retaining him, under a seven year contract, it is understood, providing certain concessions are made.

The board of directors named a committee of three to call on Judge Landis and pay their respects. Those named on the committee were Jacob Ruppert, president of the Yankees; Phil Ball, owner of the St. Louis Browns, and E. S. Barnard, president of the Cleveland Indians.

Meanwhile the ivory exchange at the Congress hotel where the sessions are being held, hums with trading negotiations among the assembled managers. The market was bullish in second basemen. Some clubs have a surplus in this material while others have none, while no definite deals have been recorded to date, the law of supply and demand argues that before long several of our best people in baseball will be appraised of a change of address for the season of 1927.

Ray Schalk, new manager of the Chicago White Sox, wants a man to fill the shoes of Eddie Collins. He has his eye on Aaron Ward of the Yankees and Frank O'Rourke of the Tigers. Just how far Ray got in his dickerings with Miller Huggins and George Moriarty is not known.

Bucky Harris, pilot of the Senators, put Roger Peckinpaugh on the block, when he let it be known he is willing to listen to any real offers for Peck's services. Harris has Buddy Myers for the shortstop position and feels he can dispense with the veteran Peckinpaugh. Connie Mack registered slight annoyance when asked what he has done about signing Eddie Collins, former manager of the White Sox. His action indicated that he and Collins had been talking business.

Grid Rivals Practice.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 15. — The Haskell Indians, from Lawrence, Kansas, and the All Stars, of Honolulu, worked out today in anticipation of their clash on the gridiron here Saturday.

Ernie Nevers and his Duluth Eskimos were due to arrive here today. The Eskimos have a game scheduled for the same date. They will play a team of California professionals.

TILDEN WILL TRY COMEBACK

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—As serious as a broken leg about his purported come back, William T. Tilden is working out daily in anticipation of another meeting, not more than two months hence, with the man who made him what he is today. Tilden, according to Tennis officials, has about decided to enter the national indoor championships.

He reached this decision, they say, when he learned that Rene Lacoste and Jean Borotra probably would come to America for the indoor event. In brief, Tilden seems to be engaging in a pursuit race with Lacoste, for it has been the American's original intention to go abroad for the winter season on the Riviera with the idea of taking another whirl at Lacoste and the French in general. But Mohammed, it seems, is coming to the mountains.

That, at least, is the hope of the United States lawn tennis association, which already has made persistent overtures to Lacoste to appear in defense of the title he won here last winter. Borotra also has received an invitation.

Lacoste, however, is said to be adverse to the idea, for it was the rigor of last year's trip that laid him by the heels with pneumonia and kept him out of competition for months.

Fight Results

AT ALBANY, N. Y.—Sammy Marco, of Detroit, won decision over Red McGee, of New York.

In 215 B. C. the first government loan that can be correctly compared with the Liberty Loans during the World war was that asked by Rome of its citizens to help carry on the war against Hannibal. TOM NEEDHAM, 47, IS DEAD

Ex-Major League Star Dies in Steubenville.

THOMAS J. NEEDHAM, 47 years old, former major league catcher and minor league manager, known almost as well to old East Liverpool diamond fans as he was to those in Steubenville, his home town, died there yesterday after a month's illness.

Since his retirement from baseball not so many years ago, Needham had been engaged in business in Steubenville.

Needham never played ball in the East Liverpool district, although he appeared here many times with Steubenville basketball teams, but local fans are familiar with his achievements.

After a career on the Steubenville sandlots and with Altoona, Pa., Needham went to the Boston Braves in 1904 and was second string catcher to the late Pat Morgan. After three years with the Braves he was traded to the Giants, where he worked behind the bat with Roger Bresnahan when Mathewson was in his prime. In 1910 he was traded to the Cubs with whom he remained four years. During his last two seasons there he acted as coach.

Five years after he left the majors Needham managed Newark in the International league for one season and had the club in third place when the race ended.

When Johnny Evers took over the management of the Cubs a few seasons ago Needham joined his old mates and served as coach and scout.

Needham was a star football player for old Holy Ghost college at Pittsburgh and with teams in Steubenville. He played basketball with the local Y. M. C. I team in famous series with Duquesne and Homestead.

HARRY LAUDER HERE DEC. 22

Star and Company Coming to Ceramic Theatre.

There is no more popular star in the world than Sir Harry Lauder, and the announcement of his appearance at the Ceramic theatre Wednesday, Dec. 22, has aroused a preliminary interest that is unusual, even in this amusement-loving city. The present tour registers Sir Harry's eighteenth visit to the United States, and it is a notable fact that, instead of wearing out his welcome the popularity of the little singing Scot constantly grows with the years.

Lauder began his career as a mere performer—what is known in England as a "comic;" but he has long ceased to be that. With the years, and his varied experience there has come to him the emotional as well as the fun-creating development of a great artist; and never in his career, it is said, has he held such powerful sway over the great audiences that throng the theatres to see and hear him.

Every recurring budget brings a budget of new songs, while the revivals are always such as the audiences would select if left to a popular vote. This year's new songs have had the advantage of a tryout in London, as well as during the latter part of his three years' tour of the world. Those that are said to have an especially lively appeal are: "I'm Lookin' for a Bonnie Lass Tae Love Me," "Th' Boss o' th' Hoose," "When I Meet Mackay" and "Susie MacLean." They are credited with being the kind of songs that first attracted world-wide attention to the comedian.

As in other years Sir Harry will have associated with him a company of clever imported and American entertainers.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON,
Maker of 51 Golf Champions.
"Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans.

Now the feet. Standing up closer to the ball does not imply that you put the feet farther apart. For the average sized man the feet should be about 18 inches apart, but this is not a fixed measurement by any means. Of two courses, I would say it would be better to have them slightly closer together than to move them farther apart. The feet are your anchor to the ground and they maintain your balance—have them just right to do that so that you are unconscious of it. The moment you become conscious of having feet, during the golf swing, you may be sure that you have positioned them wrongly. When they are too far apart they make pivoting very difficult because they legs pull too much against the body, whereas there should be no pulling and twisting at all—everything should work in harmony and ease. When this harmony and ease are lacking, don't give up golf, but examine yourself and probably you will discover you are fighting yourself.

SPORTS DONE BROWN

By Norman E. Brown.

AMERICAN LEAGUE fans in particular and the basebell bugs of the country in general are working to see what Bill Carrigan will do with the Boston Red Sox when he starts rounding that team into shape next season.

Carrigan's fighting temperament made him immensely popular in 1915 and 1916 when he gave the Boston fans championship baseball and the fans still remember his pugnacious manner and general zip.

Unless years have made him more gentle this aggressiveness will be much more noticeable the coming season because of the fact that Bill's general temperament is the direct antithesis of that of Lee Fohl, his predecessor.

Fohl was sincere and earnest but lacked fire, dash and the power to drive his team. Carrigan's middle name is "drive."

In this connection a story credited to Carl Mays, a member of the Red Sox hurling staff under Carrigan, is interesting. It was printed recently in a Baltimore paper.

Mays says that after the Red Sox had lost three games in a row at the beginning of the 1915 campaign Owner Jim Lanin came to the dressing room. He literally burst into the roomful of players and demanded to know from Carrigan why the team was losing and why a certain pitcher had not been asked to work.

Carrigan let Lanin finish his demands and then quietly called the boys together for a meeting. He even placed a chair in the center of the room for Lanin.

"Then," says Mays, "Carrigan opened up." He said:

"Mr. Lanin, you're the owner of this team. I'm the manager. You own it but I run it. The reason the team isn't winnin games is my business. The reason the pitcher isn't working is my business. He isn't being used because I don't believe he's in shape. Why he isn't in shape is my business. When he is I'll use him and not before. This is my clubhouse, not yours—my team to manage, not yours. The next time you come in here to tell me how to manage it you'll be thrown out and I'll do the throwing.'"

Apparently Lanin saw the light. At least, Mays says, the club owner, taken rather aback for a minute, finally grinned and said, "Well, I guess you know your business," and went out.

Carrigan, the world knows, won the flag in 1915 and 1916.

Mays could have no ulterior motive in telling the story at this time. And it sounds like Carrigan.

Green and Adams Battle for Mark in Duckpins.

Shaffer, Turk-Nash, had high single game score of 195 in last night's match with Roselawn, and also high series, 471.

Hongkong Has Housecleaning.

Dwellings of the Chinese in Hongkong are undergoing one of the periodical housecleanings carried on by the sanitary department of the colonial government. Floors of the 19,270 buildings, most of which are of the tenement type, are being scrubbed and caustic soda or kerosene emulsion is applied liberally. At times disinfestants are necessary. Nearly 40 000 floors were washed in the last year.

Airplane freight companies of Europe are planning to issue international aviation bills of lading.

1926 taxes became a lien April 11, 1926, the day preceding the second Monday in April.

First half must be paid not later than December 20th, 1926. Last Half must be paid not later than June 20th, 1927.

The correct way to pay a year's tax without penalty is to pay in December for December and the following June.

Penalty on delinquent Real Estate and Personal Property is 10 per cent.

When writing for a statement of your taxes, remember property appears on the Treasurer's books in the name of the person having title on April 11th, 1926 and that the law requires the Treasurer's books and receipts to be made out in the name of the party owning property when the lien took effect.

In writing for statement of taxes, always send last receipt, or give name of owner in April 1926, stating plainly in what city, town or township located, and whether real or personal property.

When you write for statement or pay by mail, enclose a self addressed stamped envelope for reply.

Examine your receipts and see that they are correct before you leave the Treasurer's Office.

Treasurer's Office will be open from 7 A. M. to 5:00 P. M.

Hongkong Has Housecleaning.

Dwellings of the Chinese in Hongkong are undergoing one of the periodical housecleanings carried on by the sanitary department of the colonial government. Floors of the 19,270 buildings, most of which are of the tenement type, are being scrubbed and caustic soda or kerosene emulsion is applied liberally. At times disinfestants are necessary. Nearly 40 000 floors were washed in the last year.

Airplane freight companies of Europe are planning to issue international aviation bills of lading.

1926 taxes became a lien April 11, 1926, the day preceding the second Monday in April.

First half must be paid not later than December 20th, 1926. Last Half must be paid not later than June 20th, 1927.

The correct way to pay a year's tax without penalty is to pay in December for December and the following June.

Penalty on delinquent Real Estate and Personal Property is 10 per cent.

When writing for a statement of your taxes, remember property appears on the Treasurer's books in the name of the person having title on April 11th, 1926 and that the law requires the Treasurer's books and receipts to be made out in the name of the party owning property when the lien took effect.

In writing for statement of taxes, always send last receipt, or give name of owner in April 1926, stating plainly in what city, town or township located, and whether real or personal property.

When you write for statement or pay by mail, enclose a self addressed stamped envelope for reply.

Examine your receipts and see that they are correct before you leave the Treasurer's Office.

Treasurer's Office will be open from 7 A. M. to 5:00 P. M.

JO PIKE,
County Treasurer.

RIN-TIN-TIN AT AMERICAN

Rin-Tin-Tin, famous canine screen star, has enacted death struggles with many creatures, from men to crocodiles, but never before has he fought a more thrilling dramatic fight than in his latest Warner Bros., production, "While London Sleeps," a picture written and directed by Walter Morosco, which opens tomorrow at the American theatre, with Helene Costello and Walter Merrill in the featured human roles.

Rinty, after an enmity lasting throughout the story, pits his ninety pounds of flashing energy against the hundred and eighty pounds of George Kotsonaros, the world's light-heavyweight wrestling champion, who portrays a ferocious apeman. The dog is fighting to save his beloved mistress; the "monk" is fighting for her possession, while she, weak with horror, beholds the evenly matched struggle which will decide her fate.

Do It Early

RIN-TIN-TIN AT AMERICAN

Rin-Tin-Tin, famous canine screen star, has enacted death struggles with many creatures, from men to crocodiles, but never before has he fought a more thrilling dramatic fight than in his latest Warner Bros., production, "While London Sleeps," a picture written and directed by Walter Morosco, which opens tomorrow at the American theatre, with Helene Costello and Walter Merrill in the featured human roles.

Rinty, after an enmity lasting throughout the story, pits his ninety pounds of flashing energy against the hundred and eighty pounds of George Kotsonaros, the world's light-heavyweight wrestling champion, who portrays a ferocious apeman. The dog is fighting to save his beloved mistress; the "monk" is fighting for her possession, while she, weak with horror, beholds the evenly matched struggle which will decide her fate.

This gripping climax is but one of the many thrills in this melodrama of romance and adventure, laid in the sinister shadows of the Limehouse district of London. Included in the supporting cast are Otto Mattiesen, John Patrick, Dewitt Jennings, Carl Stockdale and Les Bates.

NAVY experts tell congress that the government is spending $164,000 a year to keep in condition 41 submarines, out of commission, not ready to fight. Eighty of our submarines are ready for action; the 41 that cost $164,000 a year are kept ready, all but the crew.

REPORTS to the house naval committee show that Japan leads all nations in submarine construction. For us to catch up with Japan in submarines would cost $110,000,000. Fortunately Japan loves this country and wouldn't hurt us, so we need not worry.

We shall probably build some battleships and cruisers to provide targets for airplanes and submarines The other nations will build airplanes and the submarines. That's fair.

DRESS IGNITES AFTER VICTIM, 78, OPENS DOOR OF BATH ROOM

Mrs. Martha Trainer is in Critical Condition.

HOME DAMAGED

Fire Follows Explosion in St. John Street Dwelling.

Mrs. Martha Trainer, 78, is in a critical condition at her home 812 St. John street, as a result of burns received at 7:45 o'clock last evening when her dress ignited following a gas explosion in the bath room of the house. She was burned about the sides, back and shoulders and is also suffering from nervous shock.

Scenting gas fumes, she began an investigation. When she opened the bath room door, the accumulated gas, igniting from a nearby bed room stove, exploded and set afire her dress.

The woman's screams were heard by John Alexander, a neighbor, who rushed into the house and smothered the flames by wrapping a rug around her shoulders.

Fire in the floor was extinguished before the arrival of the Central fire department. The bath room and one bed room on the second floor were badly damaged by the force of the explosion, which broke the plaster and sprung the sides of the dwelling.

Mrs. Trainer's burns were dressed by Dr. R. J. Marshall.

Two Burned to Death.

ELIZABETH, N. J., Dec. 15.—Two men were burned to death and another was severely injured in a fire starting from the explosion of an oil stove which destroyed a two-story frame barn on the farm of William Anslen, near here, early today. The dead men were Steven Brown, 65, and Joseph Hart, 30.

J. R. MOSBY REVEALS CHARGES IN REMOVAL ACTION AGAINST FOGO

Wellsville Ouster Petitions Will be Filed in Common Pleas Court Today or Tomorrow, He Says.

AFTERMATH OF FULTZ BATTLE

Petitions asking the removal of Mayor W. L. Fogo, of Wellsville, on 10 charges, may be filed this afternoon or tomorrow in common pleas court at Lisbon, it was announced today by J. R. Mosby, Wellsville grocer.

Mosby, who asserted that he is in charge of one of the petitions that were placed in circulation in Wellsville yesterday, declared that a sufficient number of signatures have been obtained to take the issue into court. Approximately 105 names, or five per cent of the vote at the last general election, are required.

Mayor Fogo, questioned today as to his attitude in regard to the ouster petitions, refused to comment.

The petitions, circulated as an aftermath of the recent dispute between Mayor Fogo and John Fultz, suspended police chief, read as follows, according to Mosby:

"Wellsville,

"State of Ohio, Columbiana County

"Now come the undersigned qualified electors of the state of Ohio and citizens of this city and file this complaint and respectively ask for the removal of Wallace L. Fogo as mayor of the city of Wellsville for the following reasons, to wit:

"First—That for a considerable time the mayor wilfully and frequently exercised powers not authorized by law in acting as service director of the city of Wellsville and in having one of the police officers drive him around the city while he was acting as such officer.

"Second—The mayor recently discharged the safety director of the city of Wellsville because he paid a bill after the mayor told him not, which state authorities directed him to pay.

"Third — The mayor recently assumed to remove J. H. Fultz as chief of police on the grounds for which the law does not authorize removal of an officer who holds office under civil service and directed police not to take orders from Fultz, but to take them from him.

"Fourth—The mayor assumes to direct the police department of the city and gives orders to members of that department while the law, General Code, 4,368, makes the safety director the executive head of the police department.

"Fifth—The mayor promised some of his friends at the time of election, that, if elected, he would remove Chief Fultz. He tried, through his self-constituted board composed of his brother and other friends, to remove him.

"Sixth—The mayor, in a recently published article says, 'I promised the voters of Wellsville that if elected, I

Man Becomes Drunk While Behind Bars Of Toronto Jail

Paul Garey, arrested in Toronto at 1 o'clock this morning on a charge of disorderly conduct, following a street fight, was to face an additional charge today when arraigned, as a result of a "bull pen" spree made possible by 46 cases of confiscated liquor which he discovered in the jail.

Garey was placed in the "pen" by police officers. He observed the liquor through the bars of a cell where it had been placed and, using a broom handle, pried off the lids. Authorities say he sampled and tasted the various liquors freely.

FALL-DOHENY CASE ENTERS ITS FINAL DAY

Closing Arguments are Made by Defense.

LAUD ACCUSED

Fall's Wife and Daughter Weep Silently.

By GEORGE E. DURNO.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—From the tears and heart throbs of the defense, the pendulum swung sharply back to the biting accusations of the prosecution today in the last few minutes of the conspiracy trial of former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall and E. L. Doheny, millionaire oil operator.

Former Senator Atlee Pomerene, of Ohio, special government oil counsel, was elected to close the celebrated case.

Walking over to Hogan, he said:

"Mr. Hogan presents a case no fairer than Mr. Roberts.

"Mr. Roberts and I were drafted by the government and we came here to do our duty as we see it.

"The fault now seems to be that we failed to fall in line with the ideas of the defense. We didn't come here to follow their ideas.

Pomerene Scores Fall.

"I failed to hear by colleague say one word about Mrs. Doheny. Yet Hogan says he maligned her. She made but three statements and we disputed none. We didn't even cross examine her.

Pomerene then took cognizance of the defense effort to show that all of the oil transactions had the personal sanction of the late President Harding.

"Did he know that so invaluable was the property that Doheny expected to make $100,000,000 profit?

ALLEGED 'TRIGGER MAN' GOT $200 FOR 'JOB,' MYSTERY WITNESS SAYS

PAT WOULDN'T TAKE DRINK WHEN HE "HAD JOB ON," JURY IS TOLD

By DAVID P. SENTNER.

CANTON, O., Dec. 15.—Pat McDermott, on trial for the murder of Don R. Mellett, admitted getting $200 for "a big job" a few hours before the slaying of the vice-fighting editor, according to the testimony today of William Betzler, formerly of Johnstown, Pa., mystery witness for the prosecution.

The private life of the alleged "trigger man" in the Mellet assassination was revealed in detail by Betzler.

McDermott didn't believe in mixing pleasure with business according to the witness. Pat wouldn't take a drink when he "had a job on."

McDermott had a bootlegging job scheduled for the night before the murder and " a big job" for the night of the murder, Betzler said, and on neither night would he take a drink.

Admits Serving Prison Term.

"If I had $200, I'd go back to Akron," Betzler testified, saying to McDermott on the night of the murder.

"Before the night is over I'll have $200," McDermott answered, the witness said.

During the cross-examination he suggested questions for his counsel to ask.

Betzler admitted he had spent a prison term for stealing a handbag in Johnstown, Pa.

"Didn't you tell McDermott you were out on a parole from a 14-year sentence for stealing $50,000 in Liberty Bonds?" defense counsel asked.

"I was kidding Pat," Betzler answered. "He was telling me how hard he was so I did some talking."

A luncheon was then declared.

JOHN MOODY, NEW YORK'S EMINENT ANALYST AND INVESTMENT SEER, FORESEES 1927 AS YEAR OF HEALTHY BUSINESS

By Alexander C. Herman.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—How'll business be in 1927?

Active, healthy—without flare of either boom or panic!

Such is the gist of a forecast made exclusively for The Review-Tribune by John Moody, eminent analyst who has been keeping the closest touch on the pulse of business conditions the world over for more than 30 years.

His answer to this question of universal interest is couched in the carefully selected words of the conscientious expert who rather would say too little than too much, for fear of being misinterpreted.

Such care has made Moody a leader in his field. He is president of the Moody's Investors Service, which furnishes expert reports and advice to banks, bankers, business men and investors. He travels frequently to study the foreign situation and is in close touch with most of the financial problems both at home and abroad.

Moderate Depression.

"All the fundamental evidences point," he says, "to the possibility that 1927 will be an active business year with relatively healthy underlying conditions, but there will be no boom or inflation in either industry or finance.

"It is entirely possible that the first six months of the year will register a moderate business depression. But because of the soundness of credit conditions and the absence of over-extended inventories and liabilities, such a slowing up in business should not have any disastrous effects. As a matter of fact, its main effects should be healthy.

"During the broadening out of financial and business activities during the past year, there has been constant danger that the period of prosperity through which we have been passing would develop into an unhealthy boom. A moderate slowing up general business, however, will remove all danger of over-expansion.

Credit Conditions.

"If, as is expected, business activities slow up to some extent throughout the country during the first half of 1927, credit conditions will remain sound and interest rates will tend to drop to a lower level.

"The country as a whole is still enormously equipped with liquid capital, and in spite of tremendous absorption in securities which has been going on since 1924, there still is available an almost unlimited supply of investment funds.

"During the past two years this country has invested each year between one billion and two billion dollars in foreign lands, and yet the supply of investment capital has been by no means exhausted.

"One of the constructive factors which is going far to maintain the easy credit conditions in this country

SCHOOL BONDS ARE REJECTED

Electors of the Chester Independent school district at a special election yesterday, rejected the proposed $60,000 bond issue for the improvement of three buildings and enclosing the high school athletic field with a steel and concrete fence. The vote was: Yes, 448; no, 611.

The total vote of 1,059 was one of the largest ever cast here in a special election and represented more than two-thirds of the registration.

The heaviest majority cast against it was in the city hall precinct where it was defeated by 75 votes. The first precinct, Virginia avenue near Second street, returned 74 majority, while in the upper end of the city, where its supporters made their best showing, it lost by 14 votes. It required 636 votes for passage.

Precinct No. 1—Yes, 125; no, 199.
Precinct No. 2—Yes, 137; no, 212.
Precinct No. 3—Yes, 186; no, 200.

BOND'S ILLNESS DELAYS TRIAL

CHARLESTON, Dec. 15.—Whether John C. Bond former state auditor, will go on trial now on embezzlement charges on which he was indicted in intermediate court after being removed from office, depends on the report to be made to the court by two physicians.

When the case was called for trial yesterday Fred Stambaugh, local attorney for Bond, asked a postponement because of the illness of his client and called Dr. R. A. Ireland, superintendent of the Mountain State hospital to the witness stand. The physician said Mr. Bond was in bed at the hospital and was "sick as compared with the condition he showed when I knew him in other years."

Explaining that he had been called into the case Sunday and that Mr. Bond was under care of another physician, Dr. Ireland expressed belief that the former auditor was recovering from malaria and under cross-examination added that mental worry might explain some of the symptons. From a physician's viewpoint, protecting the health of a patient, "he would not advise" a severe strain at this time, but said only that a trial now "might" endanger Bond's health.

Postponement to get further report by Dr. Ireland and some other physician was proposed by the prosecuting attorney after a conference with the doctor outside the court room.

CANTON TROOPS TAKE HANGCHOW IN NEW PUSH

Control of Shanghai is Regarded as Inevitable.

FRESH VICTORY

Northern Forces Alter All Plans of Resistance.

SHANGHAI, Dec. 15.—Cantonese control of the city of Shanghai in the very near future was regarded as inevitable today as news of fresh victories for the southern troops came in from the battle front.

The Cantonese this morning suddenly swept down on Hangchow and captured the city, thus forcing the northern forces to alter all plans of resistance and rendering futile an attempted stand by General Sun Chuan-Fang. Brigadier General Man Cho-Yeh, an adherent of Sun Chuan-Sun Chuan-Fang, rushed from Nanking to Kashing with the intention of establishing defense lines there, and later to launch an offensive toward Hangchow. Keshing is located about half way between Shanghai and Hangchow.

The Cantonese forces which captured Hangchow numbered 20,000. General Sun Chuan-Fang's strength was uncertain, due to the disaffection among his subordinates, many of whom were reported friendly toward the Cantonese.

FORLORN RIVER AT CERAMIC

Zane Grey Story Screen Offering Tomorrow.

Paramount has filmed another of those red-blooded stories from the facile pen of Zane Grey, and this high-powered western drama, "Forlorn River," will open a three-day run tomorrow at the Ceramic theatre.

To the lively plot, teeming with the romance and adventure of the northwest cattle country, has been added a spirited cast, featuring such sterling favorites as Jack Holt, Raymond Hatton, Arlette Marchal and Edmund Burns.

As in all Zane Grey productions, the locations were chosen with the greatest fidelity possible to the actual locale of the original story. In this instance, Zion National park in Utah was used as a background, giving the picture a scenic setting of unsurpassed natural beauty.

The action of the story centers about Holt, ex-member of a band of cattle rustlers, whose outlaw activities have prompted the honest ranch owners to band against them and hunt them down. Looked upon as a traitor by the desperadoes and considered a bad man by the sheriff, Holt finds himself between two fires. To complicate matters, he falls in love with Miss Marchal and arouses the jealousy of Edmund Burns.

With such a start, the picture develops considerable excitement that has been well balanced with some fine comedy contributed by Raymond Hatton in the role of a tramp cowpuncher. John Waters, who jumped into the limelight with his first directoral effort, "Born to the West," is also the guilding spirit of "Forlorn River." The scenario is the work of George C. Hull.

Santa Claus' Assistants

Santa Claus is indebted to the commissioners and Miss Jo Pike, treasurer of Columbiana county, for through their co-operation, in response to a petition, the time limit for the payment of taxes has been extended from December 20 until January 20.

This 30-day period of grace is in every sense a Christmas gift for hundreds of taxpayers, for it means that thousands of dollars will be diverted into business channels during the Yuletide season. And no small part of this money will be invested in gifts for mother, father, brothers and sisters and friends.

The action of the commissioners is in keeping with the custom in most sections of Ohio. In fact, in many counties January 20 is recognized as tax day, and although assessments are due on December 20 no penalty is exacted in the event 30 days' grace is taken. This rule is effective, too, in the payment of life insurance.

Thank you, county commissioners and county treasurer.

Big Waterways First

Speaking of inland waterway development in his message to congress, President Coolidge said:

"If the country will be content to be moderate and patient, and permit improvements to be made where they will do the greatest general good, rather than insisting on expenditures at this time on secondary projects, our internal waterways can be made a success. If proposed legislation results in a gross manifestation of local jealousies and selfishness, this program cannot be carried out. Ultimately we can take care of extensions, but our first effort should be confined to the main arteries."

This is obviously a sane and logical policy, if internal waterways are to be developed into such a transportation system as they are capable of becoming, supplementing and rounding out the national railroad system and stimulating the latter by offering some wholesome competition.

Unfortunately it is not the way waterway development has been carried on in the past. Usually the opposite procedure has been followed. Isolated local projects have been urged, outlying branches have been attended to before the main arteries, local and sectional rivalries have been allowed to divert attention from the main issue. Local appropriations have been preferred to basic expenditures for the good of the whole public. Log-rolling and pork-barrel methods have crowded out sound engineering and statesmanship.

It is time to reverse the process and do the big things first, realizing that the extensions will then follow as a matter of course.

"Research" Law Exams

The comprehensive examination has reached candidates for admission to the bar in Ohio. It is called a "research test" and is such a surprising innovation that many of the law graduates confronted with it for the first time are nervous.

This test gets away from the old method of asking a lot of questions to which certain answers must be fitted. It marks an attempt to minimize "book learning" about law and to emphasize understanding and ability.

All the candidates at a recent bar examination at Columbus, were told to go to the library and select some book on law, or some specific legal question. After looking it over a given length of time they were then to "brief it," just as they would prepare a brief for a case in court. The theory of such a test is that it shows better than the answering of a few questions the candidate's grasp of law and his ability to marshal certain facts in their proper legal relationship.

This sort of test has been making great headway in American schools and colleges in recent years. There is a swing away from rote-learning toward the cultivation of intelligence, judgment, ability to think. It is an evidence of genuine progress in education.

Fewer Horses More Food

In one typical middle-western state, an agricultural authority says, the farm machinery supplanting horses has released for human use more than 1,600,000 acres of land, thereby enabling the same cultivated acreage to feed 400,000 more people.

There is an element of the truck and tractor traffic that is usually lost sight of. Horses have been essential to farms in the past, and still have their value there. Yet it is true that a horse working on and for the farm must draw his own living from the farm, and that a mechanical contrivance which does that horse's work without consuming any of the crops produced leaves just so much more food for the human population.

This is one of the factors making food cheaper and enabling farms to feed the nation with fewer farm workers. So far the city consumers have had most of the resulting benefit. Eventually it will come back to the farmer himself.

"How in the world do all these people make a living?" people from little towns are always asking when they visit big cities. Evidently by selling real estate to each other.

The worst thing about the statistical habit is the way amateur statisticians persist in talking about "statistics."

THE SECRET OF THE TRAGEDY.

Two friends were discussing the passing of a mutual acquaintance.

"I understand he died of lumbago," one said.

"He did not die of lumbago," the other stated. "He had lumbago but he didn't lie of lumbago. He died of an accident."

"An accident?"

"Sure! He had lumbago and they rubbed his back with alcohol."

"And did it poison him?"

"It did not," the man who knew the correct version answered. "They rubbed his back with alcohol, see? They rubbed him right down the middle of his back and then they carelessly went away and left him lying there on his face, see? And he was perishing for something to drink, see?

"And when they came back twenty minutes later to see how he was getting along when they found the poor fellow dead of a broken neck."

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY
By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Night life brings out prominent figures which fit into the picture. The brittle air of sophistication envelops them as they preempt the best theatre seats and cafe tables. They appear as taut as violin strings. They are people who have gazed on gaiety everywhere.

And somehow they achieve the effect of banishing frivolity so badly needed. You feel as though the crunch of celery would resemble a jangling bell in dead of night. And a movie magnate should be banished if he orders potage.

There is Stroeva, the Russian singer, with her patent leather hair and red muffler around the throat. Wilda Bennett in chinchilla and her sleek Argentine husband. Julia Hoyt trying to look glacial in black. Alexander Moore and his stock collar.

Mrs. Reggy Vanderbilt with Victorian hair dress. Luella O. Parsons who knows as many celebrities as Tex Guinan. Chubby Morrie Paul, the ace of society reporters. Jay Kaufman and his Budapest bride. Maurice and Elinore. Stage twins. Hand kissing counts and monocled what-nots.

The noisy garish jazz are has apparently spent itself. The music is muted and never rises above the occasional plaintive whine of the oboe. Even thin vagabond noises floating up from deserted streets sound harsh in the carpeted silence.

It is told that a breezy westerner having suffered the suffocating quiet of a cafe for several hours and fortified by several potent drinks lurched out, turning at the entrance to yell: "I dare you to laugh—you cowards!"

The smartest hotels no longer employ private detectives to prowl about their corridors. They are only engaged to watch for suspicious characters in the lobbies and at the elevator entrances. Too many costly suits have resulted from unwarranted interference. And respectable patrons resent needless prying. It is the assumption of exclusive hotels that all guests are ladies and gentlemen. If they prove otherwise it is an easy matter to get rid of them. And in a hurry!

To the policeman who spoke harshly to me at Fifth Avenue and 49th street: I wasn't that way. A fountain pen exploded in my vest pocket and I suddenly removed my coat to save it.

The cornetist of a jazz orchestra purloined his leader's automobile for the evening and two hours later went over a cliff near the city. From the nearest village came a telegram from the uninjured driver of the wrecked car: "There should have been steps there!"

Due to the breakage in electrical equipment the curtain was held an hour on a first night performance. The author was called in desperate effort to hold the restless crowd. He did so neatly by merely reading from the program various advertisements at random and commenting thereupon. High art there.

Above the roar of jazz one is always impressed by New York's overtone of substantial dignity. It may be found along Murray Hill and in other aristocratic purlieus. There are sturdily fashioned homes whose rooms are without a single touch of barbaric ornament. The evening meal is a strictly family affair presided over by benign and ancient butlers. A bit of real music—not by radio—over the coffee cups. Fathers and sons retire to the basements to smoke and play billiards. All the lights appear to be out at 11. These are the homes from which on sunny afternoons genteel ladies go for a drive in Central Park in closed horse drawn carriages. Businesses have been handed down from fathers to sons and the trusts are not considered lightly.

HASKIN'S LETTER

Air Commerce Regulations—I.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 15.—At midnight on December 31 next the new air commerce regulations drafted by the Aeronautics Branch of the United States Department of Commerce become effective. Automobile owners and drivers who think they are hard put to it to understand and comply with the traffic rules governing the operation of automotive vehicles may well be glad that the are not engaged in any form of air transportation.

For the new regulations applicable to air commerce are exceedingly comprehensive and no one not an expert could hope to familiarize himself with them and understand them fully without long and careful study. They cover everything from the registration of aircraft and the licensing of pilots and mechanics to details of testing and inspecting machines, the construction and operation of airports, and the rules of the air, the latter being comparable to the automobile traffic regulations of a city or state.

Under the law, aircraft means any contrivance now known or hereafter invented, used, or designed for navigation of or flight in the air, except a parachute or other contrivance designed for such navigation but used primarily as safety equipment, and all aircraft must be registered and found airworthy before engaging in certain stipulated activities.

These include, first, carrying persons or property for hire or reward, or the United States mails, between two or more states, or to or from foreign countries, between two points in one state if part of the flight is over another state or is a part of a through carriage in interstate commerce, or within the airspace over the District of Columbia or and territory or possession of the United States, and, second, flying between points in different states, et cetera, for the operations in the conduct of a business, as where the aircraft is used in a business in one state and is flown to another.

Aircraft belonging to the United States will be registered if the operating agency so requests, and those belonging to states, territories, or to political subdivisions will be registered and rated as to airworthiness if it is requested and if such aircraft are used exclusively in governmental service.

Reciprocity With Other Countries.

Where civil aircraft of the United States are permitted to fly over a foreign country without registration and rating and certification of their airmen, the aircraft of such foreign country, not a part of its armed forces, may operate in the territory over which the United States has jurisdic-

Best Way to Loosen Stubborn Cough

Here is a home-made syrup which millions of people have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up stubborn coughs. It is cheap and simple, but very prompt in action. Under its healing, soothing influence, chest soreness goes, phlegm loosens, breathing becomes easier, tickling in throat stops and you get a good night's restful sleep. The usual throat and chest colds are conquered by it in 24 hours or less. Nothing better for bronchitis, hoarseness, throat tickle, bronchial asthma or winter coughs.

To make this splendid cough syrup, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup and shake thoroughly. If you prefer, use clarified honey, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you get a full pint—a family supply—of much better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for three times the money. Keeps perfectly and children love it.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract and palatable guaiacol, known the world over for its prompt healing effect upon the membranes.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

YULETIDE MAIL RUSH EXPECTED HERE MONDAY

Extra Clerks and Carriers Report for Duty.

TRUCKS ON JOB

Postoffice Floors Will Be Cleared Every Night.

The rush of Yuletide mail at the East Liverpool postoffice is expected to begin Monday, Postmaster J. Edwin McClure said today.

In an effort to expedite deliveries during the Christmas season, arrangements have been made to place on duty five extra clerks and six extra carriers.

Extra workers will be selected from the certified list, and when these lists are exhausted, workers will be chosen among those who have made application for employment.

Two parcels post trucks are now in service. Another truck will be engaged Monday. These trucks will handle parcels post matter from both the down town and Station A offices.

Postmaster McClure has announced that the floors at the postoffice will be cleared every evening if possible. Regular clerks and carriers will remain on duty until everything has been delivered. Inasmuch as Christmas falls on Saturday there will be one delivery on Christmas morning.

Patrons of the local office have been urged to mail their Christmas cards early. Last year during the Yuletide season, approximately 51,000 pieces of mail were run through the stamp canceling machine in one day at the local postoffice. This, according to Postmaster McClure, was a new high record at the local postoffice.

AUTO DAMAGE CASES FILED

Arthur G. Hallett and Joseph D. Moore Sue.

Arthur G. Hallett, Chestnut street, has filed suit in municipal court for $35 damage done to his automobile when a mail truck, owned by Otto Singer, backed into it while it was parked in Apple alley, at the rear of the postoffice, on November 26. Hallett is represented by Attorney Frank Hoover.

Dr. Harry Frost is defendant in a suit brought by Joseph D. Moore for $25 damages alleged to have been done to his automobile when it was struck by a car driven by Frost while it was parked on Thompson avenue on October 26. Attorney Hoover also represents Moore.

The Victory Motor Sales has sued Cleve Stowers, Smiths Ferry, to collect a note for $150. Attorney Ben L. Bennett represents the plaintiff.

Certificates of registration and airworthiness may be suspended or revoked for any violation of air law or regulations, failure to make proper and seasonable reports, making a false statement in application or reports, making unauthorized changes in equipment, or remodeling the airplane and flying it without its having been re-rated as airworthy.

Commercial aircraft must be marked conspicuously with a large capital C, governmental aircraft with the letter S, and all other registered aircraft with the letter P.

Registered planes must be given daily inspections by the owner, the result to be noted in the ship's log, and spasmodic inspections after each 100 hours of flight. Government inspectors shall have access to planes at any time or place, accidents must be reported immediately to the secretary of commerce, repairs must be inspected and approved, and the owner or operator of every registered aircraft must keep a navigation and engine log book, from which he shall make a navigation summary report every three months and transmit it in duplicate to the secretary.

Pilot and Mechanics.

Pilots are grouped in three classes—transport, industrial and private. A transport pilot is authorized to fly any type of plane for any lawful purpose, and so may an industrial pilot, save that he may not fly any plane carrying passengers for hire or reward. A private pilot may not fly a registered plane carrying passengers or property for hire or reward. Mechanics are classed as engine mechanics and airplane mechanics.

Pilots must be at least 16 years of age and of good moral character, and they must pass the most exacting tests to determine their physical and mental fitness, and their experience. They may be citizens of any country.

What a pilot may and may not do with his craft when he gets it up in the air is most explicitly set forth. As with ground vehicles in this country, aircraft in meeting and passing will keep to the right, and at crossings the craft on the right shall have the right of way. A craft overtaking another shall keep out of the way of the overtaken craft by altering its course to the right, and not in the vertical plane.

Except in taking off or landing, aircraft must not be operated over the congested sections of cities, towns, or settlements except at a height to permit of a reasonably safe emergency landing, and shall not be flown over such congested areas at a height of less than 1,000 feet, or elsewhere at any height less than 500 feet. No flight at a height of less than 1,000 feet shall be made over any open air assembly of people, except by special permit, and such consent will be granted only for limited operations.

Acrobatic flying—doing stunts in the air—is not permitted over congested areas, over open air assembles, or below 2,000 feet in height over any established civil airway, or at midnight over any certified airport or landing field, or within 1,000 feet horizontally of airports or landing fields. Furthermore, there shall be no stunt flying of a registered plane that is carrying passenger for hire or reward.

Landing planes have right of way over those on the ground, and aircraft in distress shall be given free way in attempting to land. Distress signals are the International S. O. S. by radio, the international code flag signal, a square flag having either above or below it a ball, or anything resembling a ball, or the firing of white Very's pistol lights at short intervals.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Sciatic-Neuritis

The disease is a very obstinate one and does not readily respond to ordinary treatment. It takes more than the usual pain sedative even to alleviate the pain. The quickest, safest and surest way to get rid of the persistent nerve racking pains of Neuritis is to get a bottle of Allenrhu Special Formula No. 2, which comes in capsule form. Take them as directed and notice how in about 24 hours they have considerably reduced, if not entirely banished all pain and soreness. Continue until the Neuritis has entirely disappeared and you are able to work and rest in comfort once again. J. D. Holloway and Mathews Medicine Store keep Allenrhu Special Formula No. 2 in stock all the time and sell lots of it.

Woman of Forty Victim of Constipation

Mrs. Fannie White of Brooklyn, N. Y., writes:

"Almost every morning, for the last five years I suffered with sick headaches. I felt this was due to nervousness, never dreaming that faulty intestinal elimination caused my suffering. I felt wretched, my appetite was gone, I lost interest in preparing my meals, life was not worth living. A few days' treatment of Carter's Little Liver Pills worked wonders. They are small, easy to take—no griping—and leave pleasant after effects." For sale at all druggists.

The ENTERTAINING ANGEL

By SAMUEL MERWIN

CHAPTER TWENTY-SIX.

Sleep nearly came to Watt more than once, but he caught himself, made a job of it. He had no choice. And, finally, he finished it and laid it down on his slightly rounded stomach with a thoughtful frown. It wasn't so bad. The writing was surprisingly good. Fresh and pleasant. But the whole thing was merely literary. No drama. No bones. Just what you might expect from a gentle unreal soul like his dear Julian . . . He'd have to talk the thing over with him. Very carefully he'd have to do that. Think up some nice things to say.

The next day, in Los Angeles, he set about it; drew the lad aside for a walk under the trees of a splendid estate. He was thinking that if there were any justice anywhere in this topsyturvey world he, J. Murray Watt, should be the serene possessor of a park like this. God had put a splendid spaciousness into his artist soul. He hadn't been able, this morning, to resist dressing the part somewhat. He was wearing the belted-in outing coat and the white flannels, and was swinging his cane with an air. And he looked about over the painfully nutured turf, so rare in this arid land, and up at the mansion that was set back amid stately trees with approaches of curving macadam, with more than his usual magnificance. All would have been perfect, momentarily perfect, if it hadn't been for the sensitive problem in trousers walking at his side.

"My dear fellow," he was saying—he had to say it—"I had, last evening, the unexpected pleasure of reading your little play."

Julian offered no help, merely listened.

Murry Watt gave his stick a twirl, cleared his throat, and went at the difficult subject again. "Sadie intimated, dear friend, that you were so good as to express a wish for any criticisms I might be tble to give you. . . How glorious these great trees are. Live oaks, are they not?"

"Live oaks, I think. Do you know, Julian, one of the deep regrets of my life . . . busy and varied as it has been, even at times picteresque. . . . is that the exacting nature of my professional work has given me litte time to observe nature. . . . But we were speaking of your play. As for criticisms, it is a pleasure to be able to say that I have almost none to offer."

A smile flitted across the sensitive face.

The director cleared his throat again, then abruptly pointed with his stick. "My dear friend, did you ever see such roses! And the scent! Exquisite! . . . As I believe you know, my life has been spent in the theater. And spent is indeed the word. Art is, as has been said, an exacting mistress. Forty years of it I have had, man and boy. And though obscure circumstances, it has not always been so. It has been my privilege to touch high spots at times. Yes, exalted spots. Many of the most famous modern playwrights have been my friends Pinero . . . there is the master craftsman! I knew Pinero. . . But your play. Let me tell you that your touch amazed me. My dear Julian . . . and in all humility I say it . . . . you are a writer. Yes, I make that statement without qualification. You are a writer. Your dialogue flows with remarkable ease and delicacy. Your though is fine. It is true, of course, that a play . . . well, a play . . . . ah, we have a problem there! A play, you know . . . . it is an old saying . . . is not so much written as rewritten. I would put it even more strongly than that. A play is not so much written as built. A play must have bones and teeth. If I felt one slight weakness in your work, it is . . . well, I might best couch it in the general truth that the characters of the theater must be delineated with the utmost sharpness and vigor. There is so little time. Almost at once your audience must be caught and held. Held as in a vice. There must, from the moment of their appearance, be sympathy for your hero or your heroine. You cannot risk a moment's confusion on that point. Sympathy there must be. Always sympathy. There is no time to play at cross-purpose there. And for your opposing force—your villain, your heavy, call him what you will—there must be fear and hatred. That, you will readily understand, is in order to establish your conflict. It goes without saying that if you forego the conflict you've no play at all."

"Then you felt . . . ."

The thought crept into the spacious mind that perhaps all this was bearing down a bit heavily. There was no enthusiasm in Julian's voice. "Dear friend, you must not misunderstand me! Your play exhibits remarkable promise, extraordinary promise. I am proud of you for writing it. Proud, indeed, sir, to know you, to realize that we have walked and talked together, that it is my privilege to address you as my partner. You have . . . . and from the bottom of my heart I thank you for giving me a glimpse of it . . a finely creative mind. I was merely speaking of the different problems of the playwright. Conflict, I think I can say, is drama. Per se. Yes, per se. Conflict in the large. Strong primitive emotions clashing one upon another. That is what we call action. The more delicate problems of character, the sensitive struggle of the spirit, find a more natural outlet in the novel. For they do not lend themselves to what we call action. And action . . . ah, there you have it; . . . action makes the play. Action, arising out of primitive conflict, there you have drama! A play, dear friend . . . and I feel sure you will pardon the expression, uncouth though it may be . . . The blow must be struck, the shot fired, the woman wronged, the theft committed . . . passion must rise, creating excitement and suspense. The thing must live, move, sweep up into the climax."

"But . . ."

"Don't misunderstand me, dear friend. I have been immensely struck with your play. Without question, I would send it East to be read. An agent could help you there. Any of the established play-brokers. Send it to the American Play Company or Alice Kauser or Carl Jones. Their advice will be sound. I cannot tell you how I regret that the Wayside Theater is so sharply limited to the field of one-act plays."

"Oh, I hadn't thought of it for you."

Was there a faintly dry note in the quiet voice? The director wasn't quite sure.

"I wrote it for Hester."

He had blurted it out. But he could say no more. Indeed, his tell-tale lips were now clamped tight. Still, he didn't care. It was the truth.

"Indeed! She is a fortunate girl. And, I may say, a girl of unquestionable talent. Her life has not been altogether happy. She has not progressed as she should. But I feel no hesitation in saying that given the right opportunity . . . and more than you can possibly know, dear friend, the career of the actor hangs upon opportunity." He sighed. "She might well go far. What beautiful flowers! Could you tell me what they are, those climbing shrubs?"

The spacious one sighed again. "Opportunity. Chance. These control the actor. Why, when I was leading man with Modjeska . . . ."

"Will you give the script back to me?" asked Julian, darkly.

"Indeed, yes." Watt was now fully aware of a sense of depression in the sunlit atmosphere about them. The uncomfortable thought came—and would not be downed—that he hadn't handled the business particularly well. Perhaps he had worked irreparable harm. Once again he sighed. "I cannot impress on you too strongly my enthusiasm over your deft touch and your feeling for the more delicate nuances of character. Your people live. I know them. In the flesh I know them. I sincerely trust that you will follow my perhaps somewhat officious advice and send the script to one of the established agencies."

"I've already done that," said Julian.

"Indeed! Now that is . . ."

"The boys are setting up. I'm afraid Jim may be needing me. If you don't mind . . ."

"Dear friend, I cannot express to you how deeply your spirit of simple friendliness . . ."

But Julian walked away.

JAPANESE EMPEROR, NEAR DEATH, RALLIES SLIGHTLY

YOSHIHITO'S FEVER DROPS, PULSE LOWER

Condition of Tokio Ruler Still Extremely Grave.

GIVEN STIMULANT

American Ambassador Calls at Hayama Palace.

TOKIO, Dec. 15.—Emperor Yoshihito, near death from an attack of bronchial pneumonia, rallied slightly today. The latest bulletin issued by physicians at Hayama disclosed his fever has subsided somewhat and his pulse and respiration are lower.

His condition is still considered extremely grave, however, and six physicians are in constant attendance. The emperor is still being given artificial stimulants.

"I knew Warren G. Harding. He was my personal friend. I deeply regret they have descrated his tomb by bringing forth his shroud to cover up this infamous transaction."

Reading a letter from Fall to Doheny under date of July in 1923, months before start of any negotiations, in which Fall advised his friend he had been given control of the naval oil reserves by presidential order, Pomerene commented:

"Of all the people interested, Fall picked Mr. Doheny—Doheny, rich as Croesus—to give him this interesting information, why?"

The government counsel referred to Fall and Doheny, respectively, as "the one master mind" for the government and the Pan-American company in the oil deals.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—The Fall-Doheny conspiracy trial entered its final day with defense counsel still undertaking, by fact and sheer oratory, to convince the jury that the former secretary of the interior and E. L. Doheny are innocent of defrauding the government of an immense tract of naval oil land.

Frank J. Hogan, fiery defense orator, was still on his feet, gyrating before the jury box and demanding exoneration, as the day's session opened.

Hogan brought five hours of argument, in which he had run the gamut of the emotions, to a close by quoting what John McCormick, the tenor, had said of Doheny.

"I only hope that I may live my life so that when I have reached his age I may deserve his reputation as a citizen and a patriot."

"Gentlemen," Hogan continued, "I hope before today's sun sets you will return to your homes and loved ones and I ask you to send these two old men back to their homes and loved ones."

$100,000 Clean Money, Claim.

Minus the flowery oratory of Hogan, and in a low, but sincere voice Thompson traced the career of the former cabinet officer in the southwest.

Speaking of the $100,000 loan Doheny made to Fall, which the government claims was a bribe, Thompson said:

"That was the cleanest money that ever changed hands—changed from one life-time friend to another."

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—After reaching a slightly higher level of prices in early trading today, the industrial and specialty stocks were subjected to considerable profit taking and moderate declines were recorded. Heavy trading continued in the motor stocks, a number of which sold ex-dividend, in company with about 140 other stocks.

There was no relaxation in the call loan market, and the renewal rate was unchanged at 5 per cent.

Bullish enthusiasm in the motor, public utility and specialty stocks received a sharp set-back when selling orders for the stock which led the latest upward drive flowed into the market in large volume. Chrysler at 41 1-4 was down nearly 3 points from the high of the week while Atchison, New York Central and other of the "dividend rails" attracted a good volume of invest-buying. Commodity markets were steady, with prices practically unchanged in the early trading. Foreign exchanges were irregular.

SANTA CLAUS' WORKSHOP IN NEW ENGLAND

1,455 EMPLOYED

Public Demand for High Quality Goods is Met.

WINCHENDON, Mass. — Santa Claus' workshop, which mythology has long told us was a busy hive of industry in the far-away frozen north, somewhere near the North Pole, where his eight handsome reindeer gambol the year round on a blanket of snow, has finally been found.

It is not in the far north, unless perchance there is a subsidiary shop maintained in territory adjacent to the "garage" where old St. Nick conceals his sleighs and reindeer until the "night before Christmas."

The main plant of Santa Claus' toy making industry has its headquarters in the busy community of Winchendon where a major part of the $6,000,000 worth of the contents of St. Nick's Christmas bag, manufactured in the Bay State, are turned out.

The factory here gives employment to 1,455 workers the year round, although sales of the product in December far exceed those of any other months in the year, and total close to 80 percent.

In anticipation of the greatest Christmas business of any year in the past decade, the local industry has been unusually busy during the last 12 months. The public demand for goods of a higher quality than ever before has been met in the toy industry as well as in all lines that prosper through the Christmas trading.

The variety of toys this year is the greatest ever and there is a wide variation in their size and value.

Dolls and toys manufactured in branch shops of old St. Nicholas in foreign lands are shipped across the seas to the American boys and girls in quantities which at Boston alone amounts to a quarter of a million dollars worth annually.

The jewelry business, another New England industry in which Santa takes an active interest, has also experienced a busy year. Diamonds, of course are a staple gift, while strings of pearls can be increased from year to year, but the styles of jewelry are constantly changing and new novelties added from time to time.

would be boss at all times', and since his election he has been running the affairs of the city with high hands, and treating other officers of the city as mere satellites, simply there to do his bidding.

"Seventh—The mayor promised some of his friends, before the election, if elected, that he would remove Chief Fultz and since election he has ignored him, and tried to aggravate him to do something for ground for his removal, and since Fultz has returned to the force, he has refused to work with him in the performance of a public duty.

"Eighth—The mayor has been publicly stating that he has instructed the police officers to arrest anyone found violating the law while he has been notifying his friends, or causing them to be notified when he learned that they were going to be arrested.

"Ninth—The mayor has frequently refused to try cases of persons arrested by the chief of police and taken before him and turned them loose without a trial.

"Tenth—The mayor recently published an article saying, in speaking of a former mayor of Wellsville, and a reputable and respected citizen, 'Who I thought was one of the dirtiest curs in the state.' This ribaldry and billingscape does not come from a man who is fit to be the mayor of any city."

Log Carriages Are Speedy.

"Carriages" for the logs as they are fed into the saws of the more modern mills travel at a great rate of speed. It has been figured that these 'carriages" attain a speed of 45 miles an hour in a space of 40 feet. Two men ride the "carriages," one to "dog" the logs, and the other to adjust the gauge for the thickness of the board required.

is the steady recovery of Europe and the increasing flow of funds from Europe and other foreign lands to the United States. This is one of the important and profound effects of the changed relationship of the United States with the rest of the world.

Money from Europe.

"Whereas prior to the world war the United States was a debtor nation and found it necessary to export to Europe many hundred thousands of dollars in interest on loans and investments and in profits each year, today exactly the reverse condition is taking place.

"As a creditor nation, the United States no longer is obliged to export large sums to Europe in settlement of its borrowings, but receives large and evergrowing sums from Europe in settlement of, and on account of, its loans.

"It is this factor, which is each year growing more important, which tends to assure a permanent supply of available capital to the United States, even in times of unsettlement and doubt."

C. F. Dallas Home Near Freedom, Pa., Destroyed by Fire

Their home and all their belongings destroyed by fire Sunday night, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Dallas and five children, of Freedom, Pa., former residents of this city, have taken temporary quarters with Mrs. Dallas' parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Hood, of Sofia street.

The father and the other four children, who were at home at the time, were almost trapped as the fire, originating from undetermined cause in the basement, rapidly spread through the home.

Dallas and the youngsters, however, escaped through a first floor bedroom window.

Mrs. Dallas, prior to her marriage, was Miss Byrdie Hood. The family had been preparing to move back to East Liverpool.

The Christmas dinner fund, being raised by the Salvation Army in East Liverpool today passed the $1,034.56 mark.

In addition to the money collected in East Liverpool, about $35 was deposited in a kettle in Wellsville. This money is to be turned over to the Salvation Army branch there.

BRITAIN WARNS AGAINST MINE INDUSTRY RUIN

King's Speech Read as He Prorogues Parliament.

STRIKE IS HIT

Stresses Situation Created by Coal Tie-up.

By H. K. Reynolds.

LONDON, Dec. 15.—Great Britain has lived for the greatest part of the year "in the shadow of the most protracted and ruinous industrial conflict in its history" and now the nation must set its eyes "steadfastly on the future" sand King George in his speech proroguing parliament today.

The king did not attend parliament personally but members of both houses assembled in the house of lords and heard the speech read. Most of the king's speech was devoted to domestic affairs, stressing chiefly the situation created by the coal strike.

"During the great part of the year," said the king, "we have lived in the shadow of the most protracted and ruinous industrial conflict in our history.

"When last addressing you I expressed the earnest hope that the report of the commissioners upon economic conditions in the coal industry would, with the willing co-operation of all concerned, pave the way to a solution of this great social and economical problem. This hope was not fulfilled.

"It remains to us now to unite in effacing all bitter memories of the past and to set our eyes steadfastly upon the future, inspired by a common impulse toward's genuine fellowship and sustained endeavor."

Referring to the Chinese situation the king said that affairs in China are being watched with the closest attention and that "our country is animated by a strong sympathy for that vast majority of Chinese people whose aspirations are for settled conditions and for a new era of prosperity and friendly relations with foreign powers."

15 Persons Hurt, $150,000 Damage in Cleveland Fires

CLEVELAND, Dec. 15.—Two fires here early today resulted in injuries to 13 firemen and two other persons and caused damage estimated at $150,000.

A hose cart, speeding to a fire, collided with a taxicab and six of the crew were badly injured.

Two persons were overcome by smoke when fire destroyed an apartment house in the suburbs. They were rescued by neighbors.

The main building of the Standard Car Wheel company was burned with a loss of more than $100,000. A floor, on which was located much heavy machinery, collapsed and seven firemen were injured.

20 KNOWN DEAD AS COLD WAVE MOVES ON EAST

Relief is Promised Northern Middle Section.

POOR SUFFERING

CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—With 20 known dead in the record cold wave that holds the northern middle section of the country in its grip, relief was promised today in the government report which states that a moderating wave has started in the Pacific northwest and should reach this section not later than tomorrow. The cold wave was stretching eastward today.

Meanwhile Chicago and vast areas of the plain states suffer as they have not suffered in years, principally because the sub zero temperature, unusual at this season of the year, spread over the section without warning and caught many people unprepared.

Relief agencies were kept busy throughout the city administering to the poor. Many families were caught without fuel, not to mention food and winter clothing. Police and fire stations extended their warmth to hundreds of men and boys without work or homes, transients in the city.

Minnesota was the coldest spot in the country, with the mercury at International Falls touching 38 degrees below zero. Suffering was widespread over the affected area. Trains were running late and highways over the country were blocked by the drifting snow.

According to the weather report today, the front of the cold wave has extended to the North Atlantic states and will be felt there with greatest intensity tonight and tomorrow. The wave of moderation, following the course of the cold wave, will not bring relief to the eastern states for several days, it was said.

WELLSVILLE VOTES TO PURCHASE NEW FIRE TRUCK

Ballot, 4 to 3, for Immediate Action on Plan.

FIREMEN O. K. IT

Next Step Will be Issuance of Necessary Bonds.

The Seagraves make of pumper fire truck, favored as a necessary piece of equipment for the Wellsville fire department by 19 of the 20 volunteer and regular firemen who voted secretly on the proposal last Sunday night, and said to be the type wanted by citizens, according to Mayor W. L. Fogo, last night was selected for purchase by the city at a meeting of councilmen.

The solons voted, 4 to 3, for immediate action on the truck proposal after Safety-Service George P. Ashley had asked for a week's delay on the decision.

Representatives of the Seagraves, the American La France and the Ahrens-Fox companies were present.

The fire truck problem was introduced to council by Director Ashley who announced: "We'll need $12,500 to buy the pumper. I wouldn't care to mention one tonight. I rode in one today and I don't see where you could get a better engine and its construction is first class. I would suggest that we wait a few days before we name the car, although you can start legislation tonight."

Solons, who apparently had been expecting a decision, conferred a few moments and then Councilman Nicholson made a motion that the truck be named immediately. The motion was seconded by Swearingen and carried.

Director Ashley then said: "You are forcing me to do something I don't want to do. I may name a car that I don't know anything about. We had one here, but I don't think it's the one we want."

"Let's settle it tonight," proposed Mayor Fogo.

"I've been forced to say Seagraves," announced Director Ashley, "but I don't want it. The American La France, in my opinion, is a better machine."

Mayor Fogo addressed council briefly. "City firemen were consulted Sunday night. Twenty of them voted and 19 out of the 20 favored the Seagraves and a majority of council favor the same type. The people want the Seagraves. It will be Seagraves."

At this juncture, council permitted representatives of the three automobile firms to discuss the merits of their respective machines.

Following their talks, several members of the legislative body favored a delay in selecting the car, pending demonstrations by the other companies. In order to bring the issue to a head, Solon Heldman, seconded by Reil, moved that council issue bonds for the purchase of a Seagraves truck. Members McLean, Connor and Peters cast negative votes, while Reil, Heldman, Swearingen and Nicholson voted affirmatively, the majority being sufficient to carry the motion.

Salineville Men's Bible Class Holds Business Session

Regular business was transacted which was followed by games and music as the diversions. Luncheon was served to the following members: Rev. W. S. Martin, Oliver Ashbaugh, Clifford Randolph, William Eason, John McCollough, Charles Johnson, Vincent Johnson, Allen Maple, Paul, James and Blain Patterson and Walter Henderson.

Funeral services for William Smith, aged 68, were held this afternoon in the home, conducted by Rev. A. M. Jenkins, pastor of the Church of Christ. He is survived by his wife who was formerly Miss Harriet Holt, and six children, Mrs. W. E. Schubert, William Smith, Jr., Mrs. J. B. McNicol, Mrs. R. C. Starkey, Joseph Smith, all of Salineville; Mrs. E. F. Crookston, Massillon.

He is also survived by one sister, Mrs. Wilson Green, Salineville, and one brother, Ernest Smith, of Alliance. He is survived by 14 grandchildren.

Burial was made in the Woodland cemetery.

The Music Makers, of East Liverpool, gave an interesting musical entertainment on Monday evening in the Presbyterian church for the benefit of the new pipe organ fund.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pinney, of Chester, have returned after a visit with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Anderson.

Mrs. Arthur Tolson and daughter, Grace, were East Liverpool visitors Tuesday.

Homer Falcon, who has been seriously ill for a number of weeks, is recovering.

City May Act to Obtain Cemetery Fund.

Asserting that he had investigated the city of East Liverpool's plan for the endowment of Riverview cemetery and had found that the arrangement had been successful in compiling a considerable amount of money for the operation of the burial plot Mayor W. L. Fogo discussed endowment of Spring Hill cemetery along similar lines at last night's council meeting.

His remarks supplemented his talk on the cemetery endowment plan that he had delivered at a previous session of council. It is probable than an ordinance will be introduced at the next meeting.

Residents of Twenty-first street recently petitioned council to take action toward the establishment of a street car stop at Twenty-first street. In a letter from the car company, officials of the concern pointed out that if a stop were established at Twenty-first street, it would result in a flood of petitions from other sections along the line and it would be impossible to meet them all. Everything possible is being done to perfect the service, the company pointed.

An ordinance granting the Standard Oil company to lay a pipe line to connect with their proposed new station at the corner of Third and Lisbon streets, was referred back to the company for slight alterations.

STAGE IS SET FOR SCACCUTO MURDER TRIAL

Wellsville Man Will go on Trial Monday Morning.

SUMMON JURORS

Charged With Slaying of Patrolman Kenney.

With 70 of the 75 jurors whose names were recently drawn from the jury wheel, having been served with subpoenas in the case of the state of Ohio against Nick Scaccuto, of Wellsville, charged with murder in the first degree, in connection with the death of Patrolman James Kenney, the stage is practically set for the trial which will be heard by Judge David H. Thomas in common pleas court No. 2 next Monday. Five of the jurors drawn are out of the county.

It is intimated that the state will call between 15 and 20 witnesses. Summonses will be served on witnesses by Sheriff George Wright and Deputies Lawrence Kindsvatter and Edward J. Fitzgerald late this week.

Unless there is an unusual number of witnesses challenged for cause, a jury should be sworn by Tuesday noon. In this event the jury will be taken to Wellsville Tuesday afternoon to view the location and vicinity where Patrolman Kenney was slain, and the taking of testimony should begin Wednesday morning. Perhaps two days will be required to hear the evidence.

The state will be represented by Prosecuting Attorney Robert M. Brookes and his assistant, John E. Bauknecht, while the defense will be in charge of Attorney W. A. O'Grady of Wellsville and George T. Farrell and William E. Moore of Lisbon.

MRS. WOOLWEAVER IS CLUB HOSTESS

Mrs. E. S. Woolweaver was hostess to members of the Il Laguilla club last evening at her home in Main street.

Fancywork and bridge were diversions. A two-course luncheon was served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. E. S. Noble and Miss Elizabeth McKenzie, at six attractively arranged tables. Small Christmas baskets, filled with candy, were given as favors.

LADIES OF ELKS ARRANGE PARTY

Arrangements have been completed for the entertainment to be held tomorrow night by Ladies of the Elks in the lodge home in Riverside avenue. The affair will be in charge of the officers of the organization.

Five hundred will be the chief diversion, play beginning at 8 o'clock. Luncheon will be served.

LEGION ELECTS NEW OFFICERS

Commander, John Grafton; first vice commander, Harry Dustman; second vice commander, Denton Thomas; adjutant, Samuel Adams; finance officers, Ray Jacobs; service officer, John B. Fickes; chaplain, Walter Henstock; sergeant-at-arms, George Wilkins; color guards, Jess Henthorne and Ray Henthorne.

The officers will be formally installed at a meeting of the Legion in two weeks.

CHEST CLINIC HERE TODAY

Visiting Specialists Will Diagnose Cases.

Under the direction of Dr. E. E. Kirkwood, of Youngstown, and Dr Frank, representative of the state board of health, Wellsville's first chest clinic is being held today in the First Christian church here.

The chest clinic here is the 102nd of a series that is being conducted throughout the state.

CLUB WILL ERECT CHRISTMAS TREE

Kiwanis club members today announced preparation will be completed within the next few days for the erection of the huge pine tree beneath which the local organization will hold its annual Christmas celebration.

A permanent socket, constructed by the Fasset Boiler Works and the Stevenson company has been installed in the middle of Fourth street, just off Main between Main and Riverside, in which the tree will be placed. When the tree is removed after Christmas the socket will be capped with a metal lid and will be ready for use again next year. The socket makes unnecessary the task of tearing up bricks every year.

CLASS PLANNING JUVENILE PARTY

Arrangements have been completed for the juvenile party which will be held by members of the Delta Alpha Sunday school class of the First Christian church on Friday evening at the home of Mrs. R. Beymer, 319 Eleventh street.

H. E. ALEXANDER NEW PRINCIPAL OF HIGH SCHOOL

SUCCEEDS BELL

Mrs. Opal McCafferty is Given Grade Position.

Hilton E. Alexander, of Walton, N. Y., last night was elected principal of the Wellsville high school, to succeed former Principal George D. Bell, at the monthly meeting of the board of education.

Bell resigned several weeks ago to accept a position with the Hudson Motor Co., of Detroit. He left two weeks ago for Detroit, where he will be located temporarily, and since that time his school duties here were shared by members of the high school staff.

Alexander, the new principal, will assume charge of his duties Thursday morning, Superintendent S. E. Daw announced today.

Alexander is a graduate of Geneva college, Pa., and since his graduation taught in Kitanning and Canonsburg, Pa., high schools, as instructor in mathematics.

The board also elected Mrs. Opal McCafferty to succeed Miss Dorothy Plum as instructor in mathematics at Central building. Miss Plum was forced to resign recently as a result of the ill health of her mother whom she joined in Streetsboro, O.

THE Bible says the Sabbath was made for man. Why not allow him to enjoy it in any respectable way? There is nothing to indicate that in heaven the angels once every seven days are compelled to sit around, boring themselves.

Charges "Whitewash" In State Probe of Student Poisonings

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 15.—Charges that the state investigation of conditions at Ohio State university which resulted, about two years ago, in the death of David I. Puskin, Canton, and Charles H. Huls, Logan, and the serious illness of the other students, due to strychnine poisoning, was "a whitewash" was made here today by A. E. Huls, Logan, father of Charles Huls.

The accusation was voiced by Huls, a job printer, when he appeared before the state emergncy board in support of a claim for approximately $15,000 as alleged damages because of his son's death.

Machine guns mounted on airplanes routed swarms of ducks that were becoming a plague in parts of England recently. The birds had multiplied so rapidly that they threatened to do great damage. Beaters were sent through the feeding grounds, and as the ducks rose the aviators followed and shot them with the machine guns.

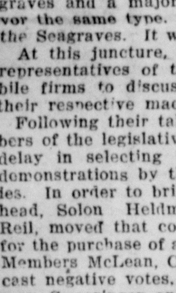
WASHINGTON STEWART'S LETTER

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—Prospects of a special session of congress next spring are promising—or threatening, from the standpoint of President Coolidge and the regular Republicans generally.



PRES. COOLIDGE

If there's a special session it will be a special session, not of the present congress, but of the new one—the 70th.

This latter body is likely to be a perfect pest to the administration, the regular Republicans having lost control of the senate to the insurgents and Democrats, between them, provided they pull together.

The regulars want to stave the nuisance off as long as possible—until December, 1927. The opposition wants to start trouble early in the spring and keep it up all summer.

THERE'S just one thing the administration can't do without. Everything else can go by the board, at the cost of inconvenience and annoyance, perhaps, but not to the tune of actual disaster.

The vitally essential thing is:

If the appropriation bills pass this winter the regulars can give the extra session folk the ha, ha. Otherwise the president will have to call one, no matter how much he hates it.

THE fight on the right of William S. Vare of Pennsylvania and Frank L. Smith, of Illinois, to senate seats when the 70th congress meets is what hints at a tie-up of all other business until that row's settled.

Other cases are before the senate campaign expenses committee, but those are the two prize controversies.

The group which wants to speed proceedings up says:

"Vare and Smith were elected to the 70th congress. Their fate is none of this senate's business."

The group which prefers delay answers:

"They'll go on the payroll as soon as the 69th congress adjourns unless this senate prevents it. We mean to do it."

IT'S a new point and a complicated one, which adapts it admirably to time killing tactics.

On paper, against Vare and Smith there ought to be 42 Democratic votes, the vote of Senator Shipstead, Farmer-Laborite, and the votes of Senators Frazier, LaFollette, Norris and Nye, insurgent Republicans. Total 47.

On paper, for Vare and Smith there ought to be 48 regular Republicans—counting the late Senator McKinley's seat as vacant — or a skimpy majority.

The Democrats may not hold quite their solid vote, however. Senator Blease, for instance, is doubtful, on the state right's ground that he doesn't believe in butting into Pennsylvania's and Illinois' elections. Senator LaFollette, too, is ill and may not be here this session. And the Republicans, besides the out-and-out insurgents, are uncertain of several near-independents, like Senators Borah, Couzens, Howell and Johnson.

But that doesn't matter so much. However the present senate may decide, the next one is sure to be appealed to, by one side or the other, to reverse this winter's verdict.

The main question is:

Will the Vare-Smith wrangle take long enough to force an extra session?

The betting is about 50-50

DIXIE FOLLIES AT THE STRAND

Snappy Musical Comedy and Vaudeville Offered.

Guy Johnson and his "Dixie Follies" are offering an entirely different kind of a show to East Liverpool patrons at the Strand theatre this week. The owner and director deserves a lot of credit for originality. Never before has a musical comedy company staged such a peppy and meritorious performance as this company is presenting according to criticisms. From the first glimpse of this novel attraction they immediately "catch on" with patrons. Everybody works and works mighty hard in Guy Johnson' "Dixie Follies". Every member of the company has something to do with some vaudeville act or other.

The chorus of eight dancing girls is better looking, better dressed and performs better than most groups of girls that usually accompany shows of this kind. And when they are not on the stage, some fast vaudeville act or specialty is finding favor with the audience. Special mention is to be made of Crider and Crider, a comedy acrobatic team that goes over with a bang. Miller and Miller, a pair of eccentric dancers, offer a unique dance specialty filled to the very brim with laughs. Crafin and Dar are an entertaining pair. Chafin, appearing in blackface comedy, while Dar handles the straights superbly. Dar is quite versatile. When he's not performing some magical stunts, he is singing or dancing, and he does them all well. Edith Mallory, a prima donna new to musical comedy, has a splendid voice, and what's more, knows how to use it. Many other pleasing acts stamp this as one of the best novelty musical comedy attractions to play at the Strand this season.

Safety razors with one blade will be issued to recruits in the British army instead of the present long-handled whisker cutters.

OHIO POTATOES SET HIGH MARK

Bringing Better Prices Than Michigan, Maine and Wisconsin.

"Ohio potatoes are selling at a higher price in local markets than Michigan, Wisconsin or Maine stocks, because of the higher quality of Ohio potatoes," it was declared today by Service Manager Phil E. Heim of the County Farm Bureau, who has just returned from a 1,000 mile trip through the Michigan potato country, contracting for seed stock for 1927 delivery.

"The Michigan farmers I talked with are enthusiastic about potatoes, and the growing of certified seed," Mr. Heim explained. "I had opportunity of talking with some of the best and largest growers in Michigan, and I also observed their methods of storage. The college of agriculture of Michigan is located at East Lansing, which is at the edge of the city proper. H. C. Moore has charge of the work of certification in Michigan and it was through his suggestion that I made a trip through the main potato growing section of Michigan, which is in the northern part of the peninsula.

"I visted Lansing, Grand Rapids and points as far north as Petosky, in Antrim county, in which county is located the highest percentage of certified seed potatoe growers. From Petosky, I went to Bellaire, in the same county to visit the local coopereative warehouse.

"All producers in that immediate section are members of the cooperative association and store their crops there in the storage cellars. The yield per acre in this section during the last season was from 270 to 435 bushels per acre. In the higher yields, the more off-type potatoes were found. In some cases as high as 35-percent will have to be graded out because of type.

"This percentage of off-type has been attributed to extra long growing season. In Atrim county farmers are specializing in rural russetts and also in the growing of radish seed.

"After spending some time at Bellaire I went to Lakeview in Montcalm county. About one third of potatoes grown in Michigan, or approximately 5,000 cars of spuds are shipped from Lakeview annually. One thousand cars are shipped from Greenville, and it is at this point where the largest buyers in the country have their established headquarters.

"In this latter section I was able to locate rural New Yorkers. In this connection some growers specialize in rural russetts, others in green mountain stock and still a few others in Irish cobblers.

"At nearly all shipping points a cooperative assaciation is to be found which controls a warehouse and ample potato storage space. The bins are in the basement, which are built of thick walls, and double doors and windows. The bins have a slat bottom and partitions, each bin having a capacity of about 500 bushels. The temperature is always kept around 40-degrees. In addition to these storage bins of the cooperative associations, nearly all growers have provided a good place to store their yields on their own farms. In some instances the potatoes are buried in pits, the latter containing about 200 bushels. Potatoes covered in this manner sufficiently will be more firm than those stored in some of the storage houses. It is very important to have the best possible storage if potatoes are going to be shipped to Columbiana county in the spring and arrive in the condition that we want them.

"The Michigan Potato Growers' Exchange, is a cooperative organization with offices at Cadillac. It has over 9,000 growers under contract for table stock, also a large number of growers of certified seed. These growers are signed up under a five year contract basis.

"There were 360 growers of certified seed potatoes this year in Michigan, and over 2,000 acres were got out. Of this number 12.2 percent of the acreage has been rejected for various causes, permitting the growers to produce 412,000 bushels, but after grading there will remain for certified seed shipment about 290,000 bushels. The quality has been placed at 87 percent as compared with on a ten-year basis.

"The average yield of potatoes in Michigan this year was about 122 bushels per acre, the certified seed growers averaging 258 bushels per acre. There were 40 growers with records pemitting them to become members of the '300-club.' These 10 growers averaged 360 bushels per acre.

"The total potato crop of Michigan has been estimated at 30,378,000 bushels this year, or about 6,000,000 bushels more than in 1925. I found that 75 percent of the crop has been sold or contracted for, and with this in mind the Columbiana County Farm Bureau has placed an option for spring delivery for certified seed.

"Order blanks for certified seed potatoes are now being sent to all growers in Columbiana and Hancock county, W. Va., and these seed will all come from the Michigan shipping stations."

OHIO POTATOES SET HIGH MARK

Bringing Better Prices Than Michigan, Maine and Wisconsin.

"Ohio potatoes are selling at a higher price in local markets than Michigan, Wisconsin or Maine stocks, because of the higher quality of Ohio potatoes," it was declared today by Service Manager Phil E. Heim of the County Farm Bureau, who has just returned from a 1,000 mile trip through the Michigan potato country, contracting for seed stock for 1927 delivery.

"The Michigan farmers I talked with are enthusiastic about potatoes, and the growing of certified seed," Mr. Heim explained. "I had opportunty of talking with some of the best and largest growers in Michigan, and I also observed their methods of storage. The college of agriculture of Michigan is located at East Lansing, which is at the edge of the city proper. H. C. Moore has charge of the work of certification in Michigan and it was through his suggestion that I made a trip through the main potato growing section of Michigan, which is in the northern part of the peninsula.

"I visted Lansing, Grand Rapids and points as far north as Petosky, in Antrim county, in which county is located the highest percentage of certified seed potatoe growers. From Petosky, I went to Bellaire, in the same county to visit the local cooperative warehouse.

"All producers in that immediate section are members of the cooperative association and store their crops there in the storage cellars. The yield per acre in this section during the last season was from 270 to 435 bushels per acre. In the higher yields, the more off-type potatoes were found. In some cases as high as 35-percent will have to be graded out because of type.

"This percentage of off-type has been attributed to extra long growing season. In Atrim county farmers are specializing in rural russetts, and also in the growing of radish seed.

"After spending some time at Bellaire I went to Lakeview in Montcalm county. About one third of potatoes grown in Michigan, or approximately 5,000 cars of spuds are shipped from Lakeview annually. One thousand cars are shipped from Greenville, and it is at this point where the largest buyers in the country have their established headquarters.

"In this latter section I was able to locate rural New Yorkers. In this connection some growers specialize in rural russetts, others in green mountain stock and still a few others in Irish cobblers.

"At nearly all shipping points a cooperative assaciation is to be found which controls a warehouse and ample potato storage space. The bins are in the basement, which are built of thick walls, and double doors and windows. The bins have a slat bottom and partitions, each bin having a capacity of about 500 bushels. The temperature is always kept around 40-degrees. In addition to these storage bins of the cooperative associations, nearly all growers have provided a good place to store their yields on their own farms. In some instances the potatoes are buried in pits, the latter containing about 200 bushels. Potatoes covered in this manner sufficiently will be more firm than those stored in some of the storage houses. It is very important to have the best possible storage if potatoes are going to be shipped to Columbiana county in the spring and arrive in the condition that we want them.

"The Michigan Potato Growers' Exchange, is a cooperative organization with offices at Cadillac. It has over 9,000 growers under contract for table stock, also a large number of growers of certified seed. These growers are signed up under a five year contract basis.

"There were 360 growers of certified seed potatoes this year in Michigan, and over 2,000 acres were set out. Of this number 12.2 percent of the acreage has been rejected for various causes, permitting the growers to produce 412,000 bushels, but after grading there will remain for certified seed shipment about 290,000 bushels. The quality has been placed at 87 percent as compared with on a ten-year basis.

"The average yield of potatoes in Michigan this year was about 122 bushels per acre, the certified seed growers averaging 258 bushels per acre. There were 40 growers with records pemitting them to become members of the '300-club.' These 10 growers averaged 360 bushels per acre.

"The total potato crop of Michigan has been estimated at 30,378,000 bushels this year, or about 6,000,000 bushels more than in 1925. I found that 75 percent of the crop has been sold or contracted for, and with this in mind the Columbiana County Farm Bureau has placed an option for spring delivery for certified seed.

"Order blanks for certified seed potatoes are now being sent to all growers in Columbiana and Hancock county, W. Va., and these seed will all come from the Michigan shipping stations."

Divorce Suit Dismissed.

The divorce action filed in common pleas court Jan. 16, 1925, by Hilda Osborne against her husband, Clarence Osborne, which was regularly assigned for trial, has been dismissed by Judge Lones for lack of prosecution on the part of the defendant. The plaintiff failed to appear at the time the case was called for trial, and the court after dismissing the action rendered judgment against the plaintiff for the costs of the suit. Osborne formerly resided at East Liverpool.

The Potters Savings & Loan company, of East Liverpool, has obtained two judgments by default in common pleas court. The transcript in this case has been received by Clerk of Courts Frank Ballantine from the Salem court, and the action of the court in fixing the bond immediately followed.

Sale Approved.

The sale of the former parsonage of the Homeworth Evangelical church has been approved in common pleas court. The trustees sought authority to sell this property, and announced that the money obtained through the sale would be used to purchase a more modern residence for manse purposes.

In this action which was filed for record Feb. 23 last, the plaintiff sought a judgment for $2,700 for merchandise sold. A judgment against the plaintiff for the costs in the case has been recorded.

American League Would Curtail Powers Of Commissioner

Junior Loop Barons Like Landis Policy, With Reservations

By Gene Hoffman.

CHICAGO, Dec. 15.—Endorsement of the administration of Baseball Commissioner Judge Kenesaw M. Landis with certain well-defined qualifications, appeared today as the keynote of the American league club owners, who pow wow in session here.

While details of the meeting, held behind padlocked doors, were not made public, it was learned on good authority that the Johnson circuit barons found much to commend in the general policies of Judge Landis, but desired considerable curtailment of his czarist powers.

Exactly how the American league leaders feel about the matter will be learned tomorrow at the joint session of major league officials when a vote on the question of renewing Commissioner Landis' contract will be taken. The Johnson circuit favors retaining him, under a seven year contract, it is understood, providing certain concessions are made.

The board of directors named a committee of three to call on Judge Landis and pay their respects. Those named on the committee were Jacob Ruppert, president of the Yankees; Phil Ball, owner of the St. Louis Browns, and E. S. Barnard, president of the Cleveland Indians.

Meanwhile the ivory exchange at the Congress hotel where the sessions are being held, hums with trading negotiations among the assembled managers. The market was bullish in second basemen. Some clubs have a surplus in this material while others have none, while no definite deals have been recorded to date, the law of supply and demand argues that before long several of our best people in baseball will be appraised of a change of address for the season of 1927.

Ray Schalk, new manager of the Chicago White Sox, wants a man to fill the shoes of Eddie Collins. He has his eye on Aaron Ward of the Yankees and Frank O'Rourke of the Tigers. Just how far Ray got in his dickerings with Miller Huggins and George Moriarty is not known.

Bucky Harris, pilot of the Senators, put Roger Peckinpaugh on the block, when he let it be known he is willing to listen to any real offers for Peck's services. Harris has Buddy Myers for the shortstop position and feels he can dispense with the veteran Peckinpaugh. Connie Mack registered slight annoyance when asked what he has done about signing Eddie Collins, former manager of the White Sox. His action indicated that he and Collins had been talking business.

Grid Rivals Practice.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 15. — The Haskell Indians, from Lawrence, Kansas, and the All Stars, of Honolulu, worked out today in anticipation of their clash on the gridiron here Saturday.

Ernie Nevers and his Duluth Eskimos were due to arrive here today. The Eskimos have a game scheduled for the same date. They will play a team of California professionals.

TILDEN WILL TRY COMEBACK

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—As serious as a broken leg about his purported come back, William T. Tilden is working out daily in anticipation of another meeting, not more than two months hence, with the man who made him what he is today. Tilden, according to Tennis officials, has about decided to enter the national indoor championships.

He reached this decision, they say, when he learned that Rene Lacoste and Jean Borotra probably would come to America for the indoor event. In brief, Tilden seems to be engaging in a pursuit race with Lacoste, for it has been the American's original intention to go abroad for the winter season on the Riviera with the idea of taking another whirl at Lacoste and the French in general. But Mohammed, it seems, is coming to the mountains.

That, at least, is the hope of the United States lawn tennis association, which already has made persistent overtures to Lacoste to appear in defense of the title he won here last winter. Borotra also has received an invitation.

Lacoste, however, is said to be adverse to the idea, for it was the rigor of last year's trip that laid him by the heels with pneumonia and kept him out of competition for months.

TOM NEEDHAM, 47, IS DEAD

Ex-Major League Star Dies in Steubenville.

THOMAS J. NEEDHAM, 47 years old, former major league catcher and minor league manager, known almost as well to old East Liverpool diamond fans as he was to those in Steubenville, his home town, died there yesterday after a month's illness.

Since his retirement from baseball not so many years ago, Needham had been engaged in business in Steubenville.

Needham never played ball in the East Liverpool district, although he appeared here many times with Steubenville basketball teams, but local fans are familiar with his achievements.

After a career on the Steubenville sandlots and with Altoona, Pa., Needham went to the Boston Braves in 1904 and was second string catcher to the late Pat Morgan. After three years with the Braves he was traded to the Giants, where he worked behind the bat with Roger Bresnahan when Mathewson was in his prime. In 1910 he was traded to the Cubs with whom he remained four years. During his last two seasons there he acted as coach.

Five years after he left the majors Needham managed Newark in the International league for one season and had the club in third place when the race ended.

When Johnny Evers took over the management of the Cubs a few seasons ago Needham joined his old mates and served as coach and scout.

Needham was a star football player for old Holy Ghost college at Pittsburgh and with teams in Steubenville. He played basketball with the local Y. M. C. I team in famous series with Duquesne and Homestead.

HARRY LAUDER HERE DEC. 22

Star and Company Coming to Ceramic Theatre.

There is no more popular star in the world than Sir Harry Lauder, and the announcement of his appearance at the Ceramic theatre Wednesday, Dec. 22, has aroused a preliminary interest that is unusual, even in this amusement-loving city. The present tour registers Sir Harry's eighteenth visit to the United States, and it is a notable fact that, instead of wearing out his welcome the popularity of the little singing Scot constantly grows with the years.

Lauder began his career as a mere performer—what is known in England as a "comic;" but he has long ceased to be that. With the years, and his varied experience there has come to him the emotional as well as the fun-creating development of a great artist; and never in his career, it is said, has he held such powerful sway over the great audiences that throng the theatres to see and hear him.

Every recurring budget brings a budget of new songs, while the revivals are always such as the audiences would select if left to a popular vote. This year's new songs have had the advantage of a tryout in London, as well as during the latter part of his three years' tour of the world. Those that are said to have an especially lively appeal are: "I'm Lookin' for a Bonnie Lass Tae Love Me," "Th' Boss o' th' Hoose," "When I Meet Mackay" and "Susie MacLean." They are credited with being the kind of songs that first attracted world-wide attention to the comedian.

As in other years Sir Harry will have associated with him a company of clever imported and American entertainers.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON, Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans.

Now the feet. Standing up closer to the ball does not imply that you put the feet farther apart. For the average sized man the feet should be about 18 inches apart, but this is not a fixed measurement by any means. Of two courses, I would say it would be better to have them slightly closer together than to move them farther apart. The feet are your anchor to the ground and they maintain your balance—have them just right to do that so that you are unconscious of it. The moment you become conscious of having feet, during the golf swing, you may be sure that you have positioned them wrongly. When they are too far apart they make pivoting very difficult because they legs pull too much against the body, whereas there should be no pulling and twisting at all—everything should work in harmony and ease. When this harmony and ease are lacking, don't give up golf, but examine yourself and probably you will discover you are fighting yourself.

SPORTS DONE BROWN

By Norman E. Brown.

AMERICAN LEAGUE fans in particular and the baseball bugs of the country in general are working to see what Bill Carrigan will do with the Boston Red Sox when he starts rounding that team into shape next season.

Carrigan's fighting temperament made him immensely popular in 1915 and 1916 when he gave the Boston fans championship baseball and the fans still remember his pugnacious manner and general zip.

Unless years have made him more gentle this aggressiveness will be much more noticeable the coming season because of the fact that Bill's general temperament is the direct antithesis of that of Lee Fohl, his predecessor.

Fohl was sincere and earnest but lacked fire, dash and the power to drive his team. Carrigan's middle name is "drive."

In this connection a story credited to Carl Mays, a member of the Red Sox hurling staff under Carrigan, is interesting. It was printed recently in a Baltimore paper.

Mays says that after the Red Sox had lost three games in a row at the beginning of the 1915 campaign Owner Jim Lanin came to the dressing room. He literally burst into the roomful of players and demanded to know from Carrigan why the team was losing and why a certain pitcher had not been asked to work.

Carrigan let Lanin finish his demands and then quietly called the boys together for a meeting. He even placed a chair in the center of the room for Lanin.

"Then," says Mays, "Carrigan opened up." He said.

"Mr. Lanin, you're the owner of this team. I'm the manager. You own it but I run it. The reason the team isn't winnin games is my business. The reason the pitcher isn't working is my business. He isn't being used because I don't believe he's in shape. Why he isn't in shape is my business. When he is I'll use him and not before. This is my clubhouse, not yours—my team to manage, not yours. The next time you come in here to tell me how to manage it you'll be thrown out and I'll do the throwing.'"

Apparently Lanin saw the light. At least, Mays says, the club owner, taken rather aback for a minute, finally grinned and said, "Well, I guess you know your business," and went out.

Carrigan, the world knows, won the flag in 1915 and 1916.

Mays could have no ulterior motive in telling the story at this time. And it sounds like Carrigan.

Maybe that's the kind of stuff the Boston ball club—and fans—want again.

Johann Strauss, the "waltz king," wrote his famous "Blue Danube" on a pair of detachable cuffs and then threw them into the wash. They were rescued by his mother and his music publishers made a fortune from the composition. Strauss wrote so many compositions that he could not recognize all of them.

NAME BUCS IN TRADE RUMOR

Dreyfuss Denies Pirates are Seeking Speaker.

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Rumors of trades, involving the Pittsburgh Pirates, Brooklyn Dodgers and the Phillies, were in the air today as the National magnates and managers prepared to entrain for Chicago where the joint meeting with the American league will be held tomorrow. Meanwhile, a report that the Pirates were dickering with Tris Speaker, former Cleveland manager, to become their assistant manager and extra outfielder had been denied by Sam Dreyfuss, secretary of the club. Stuffy McInnes, new manager of the Phillies, was supposed to be trying to swing two deals. One of them was with the Dodgers, from whom he sought the services of Burleigh Grimes, spitball pitcher. It was said that the Dodgers demanded Catcher Butch Henline.

The other deal mentioned would send Hal Carlson, pitcher, and Russell Wrightstone, infielder, to the Pirates for Emil Yde, left hand pitcher, and several other Pirates. Nothing had come of either deal when the league meeting ended yesterday.

John A. Heydler, president of the league, would neither deny nor affirm the report that Judge Landis' salary would be raised to $60,000 a year.

"We will have to wait until we see what happens at the joint meeting" was all he would say.

In Line for Bouts.

You'll Find It

To get acquainted with Lucky Strikes is to discover a new charm in cigarettes, an extra goodness.

You'll realize at once that in addition to their being made of the world's finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos, there's something more which gives them their unique superiority.

This "something more" is the costly, added process of toasting. It makes Lucky Strikes better in three ways:

1. Finer Flavor. Toasting for 45 minutes develops the hidden flavors of the world's finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos.
2. Smoothness. Toasting for 45 minutes removes all "bite" and harshness, hence never any throat irritation.
3. Freshness. Then the tobacco is suddenly chilled. This seals the flavor in and insures constant freshness.

The added process of toasting brings extra goodness which accounts for the growing popularity of Luckies.

Hongkong Has Housecleaning.

Dwellings of the Chinese in Hongkong are undergoing one of the periodical housecleanings carried on by the sanitary department of the colonial government. Floors of the 19,270 buildings, most of which are of the tenement type, are being scrubbed and caustic soda or kerosene emulsion is applied liberally. At times disinfestants are necessary. Nearly 40 000 floors were washed in the last year.

Airplane freight companies of Europe are planning to issue international aviation bills of lading.

1926 taxes became a lien April 11, 1926, the day preceding the second Monday in April.

First half must be paid not later than December 20th, 1926. Last Half must be paid not later than June 20th, 1927.

The correct way to pay a year's tax without penalty is to pay in December for December and the following June.

Penalty on delinquent Real Estate and Personal Property is 10 per cent.

When writing for a statement of your taxes, remember property appears on the Treasurer's books in the name of the person having title on April 11th, 1926 and that the law requires the Treasurer's books and receipts to be made out in the name of the party owning property when the lien took effect.

In writing for statement of taxes, always send last receipt, or give name of owner in April 1926, stating plainly in what city, town or township located, and whether real or personal property.

When you write for statement or pay by mail, enclose a self addressed stamped envelope for reply.

Examine your receipts and see that they are correct before you leave the Treasurer's Office.

Treasurer's Office will be open from 7 A. M. to 5:00 P. M.

JO PIKE,
County Treasurer.

RIN-TIN-TIN AT AMERICAN

Rin-Tin-Tin, famous canine screen star, has enacted death struggles with many creatures, from men to crocodiles, but never before has he fought a more thrilling dramatic fight than in his latest Warner Bros., production, "While London Sleeps," a picture written and directed by Walter Morosco, which opens tomorrow at the American theatre, with Helene Costello and Walter Merrill in the featured human roles.

Rinty, after an enmity lasting throughout the story, pits his ninety pounds of flashing energy against the hundred and eighty pounds of George Kotsonaros, the world's light-heavyweight wrestling champion, who portrays a ferocious apeman. The dog is fighting to save his beloved mistress; the "monk" is fighting for her possession, while she, weak with horror, beholds the evenly matched struggle which will decide her fate.

Do It Early

THIS store may not be SANTA'S Headquarters, but BELIEVE us, we're one of HIS important branch OFFICES—just to show YOU what we mean, a lady CAME in yesterday to do SOME Christmas Shopping AND before she left she CALLED up three of her FRIENDS and told them THEY could find certain GIFT articles here, WHICH is just one of THE reasons why we're SO busy these days—REALLY, we have a fine DISPLAY of gifts here AND the beauty of it IS that you don't have TO be a person of WEALTH to buy them—WE have so many items THAT range from 50c to $25.00, ARTICLES you can be proud TO give and which the RECEIPTS will be mighty HAPPY to receive.
